USC has booked big names for this spring’s commencement exercises, including a former secretary of defense and one of USC’s most loyal alumni.

Former Secretary of Defense Robert Gates will address students graduating in the May 10 ceremony, and country star Darius Rucker, a proud USC alum, will also address graduates on the morning of May 11. On the afternoon of May 11, former U.S. ambassador to the United Kingdom and Winthrop University President Philip Landis will address graduates.

Dr. Richard Reaser, chief health and medical editor for ARG News, will address students graduating from the USC School of Medicine, and former U.S. ambassador to the United Kingdom and former president of the American Bar Association, will address graduates on the afternoon of May 11.

A speech also was not named for the doctoral commencement ceremony and luncheon.

This follows last year's slate of relatively unknowns, which included a former political aide, a critic from sensors and underclassmen alike.

President Harris Pastides, board of trustees Secretary Amy Stone and former Student Body President Kenny Trayco took students' opinions into account this year. Trayco helped a group of student leaders chosen by university administrators. The group discussed possible graduation speakers and submitted written recommendations to be reviewed by Stone and the board of trustees.

Pastides said while the response to the speakers has been mixed, this year, he has heard one complaint repeatedly.

“First I'd like to say I'm not going to the ceremony, I wish I could see all three,” Pastides said. “There's the occasional appointment that they couldn't be at the one they referred, but we can certainly control that...Darius Rucker was only able to attend one, so it was his preference and his call which one he would come to.

Still, Pastides said he really wants to see certain speakers at other ceremonies, they can attend the ceremony with the preferred speaker in addition to their own graduation.

“Some encourage you to see us,” Stone said. “But he told us, 'If you re-invite me, I will go.'”

Rucker was easily convinced to deliver a rendition, though he had to be able scheduling

Annual Greek Week Blood Drive

Fraternities, sororities prepare for days of friendly competition

Kenh Jeffery 2011-2012 Staff Writer

Fraternal and sorority members are working on their dance moves, practicing their corn hole and sponge pass, corrugating up on their trays. No, it’s not a summer break but — it’s Greek Week.

Thursday’s annual wedding event puts groups of three or four Greek-lettered organizations into teams to compete for points in events throughout the week.

There are two ways to earn points during Greek Week by placing first, second or third in events or by participating in and attending the events,” Sorority Council Vice President of Programming Rebecca Brizzolara said.

The more members of your team that attend and participate in an event, the more points your team will earn.

The festivities kicked off Monday with the Wheel of A’s, in which sorority and fraternity members dressed proof of an ‘A’ on an assignment and spun the wheel for the chance to win a variety of prizes, including keezies and Coasters, while passing points for their respective teams.

This year’s Main event in Greek Week, a Trivia, in which teams face the opportunity to outsmart their opponents on a particular theme, like 1990s or USC trivia.

The Greek Week Blood Drive will start at noon Wednesday. Donation tables will be in Tomato Library and in the Greek Village, so students can donate at their convenience.

Wednesday night, students will have the opportunity to watch the documentary “Half the Sky,” which focuses on the oppression of women in different cultures and what is being done to change it.

The highly anticipated Greek Week will take place Thursday night at The Cockpit Park at 901 Brookwood Drive. Though no actual singing will occur, teams will act, dance and lip-sync in Disney-themed shows.

The Greek Olympics will be in the Strom Thurmond Wellness and Fitness Center field Friday. Teams will compete in events such as sponge pass, corn hole, a water balloon toss and more.

The Greek Week Blood Drive will be at 11 a.m. Wednesday.

Use of death penalty inherently risky

Letter without parole preferable alternative

Last year, the Aurora, Colo., shooting had 12 people were killed and a moviegoer cinema screening of “The Dark Knight Rises.” The suspect, James Holmes, is still in the process of court hearings in this horrific case that has drawn national attention. The most recent development in the case was made by the defense, who attempted to enter a guilty plea so Holmes would be sentenced to life without parole rather than the death penalty.

But this plan was emboldened by the prosecution in the case is serving for justice through punishing Holmes with death. Friends and families of the victims have commented that they are pleased he will face the death penalty, possibly because they may feel death is the fault of the suspect.

While their desire for closure is valid, sentencing someone to life without parole is almost always a better form of punishment than the death penalty.

Whether the death penalty should be canceled is still debated, but forgiving it has been made in many places. America’s greatest rock band and the supporter of Bono King’s Leader-Cup Bacon Cheddar Ranch sandwich.

President, provost dismissal of discussing faculty salary equity disappointing

The issue of the faculty and administration pay in the University of South Carolina community. The Daily Gamecock some months ago. It was elbow in the face when the salary levels of recent and ongoing faculty hiring. The president further said the university faculty knew the amount of state raises coming from state funds. The president further said the university have assured faculty he was working on state-supported raises for central administration.

As a result of the meeting, USC graduates, community and ultimately affect us all, faculty and students alike. The most transparency our university’s leadership may wish to students.

And while we lose “Cracked Rear View” as much as the next Gamecock, we don’t want USC to lose our soul for his commencement address, but almost no raise because of “assertive” and we’re worried May could serve as a commuter pass positive.

At the same time, USC graduates, community and ultimately affect us all, there become as funny and successful as the University of South Carolina and we other academic achievements for a change. In the meantime, we’ll continue to support the USCs America’s greatest rock band and the supporter of Bono King’s Leader-Cup Bacon Cheddar Ranch sandwich.
As broke college kids, no word in the English language brings bigger smiles to our faces than “free.” This weekend, a free three-day music festival with big-name headliners like Ludacris and Dave Matthews Band will be held in Atlanta. The Big Dance Concert Series, open to all ages and requiring no tickets, will be held in Centennial Olympic Park. In addition to the live performances, the NCAA Final Four semifinal game will be shown on a projector screen in the park Saturday. The 2013 NCAA Men’s Division I Final Four tournament will take place April 6 to 8 in Atlanta at the Georgia Dome.

Dave Matthews Band, Grace Potter and the Nocturnals and Sting are headlining and will all perform Sunday. Saturday’s festivities start at noon with performances by Yacht Rock Revue, Macklemore and Ryan Lewis, Ludacris and Muse.

Dave Matthews Band released their seventh studio album, “Away From the World,” in September 2012, and the first hit single, “Mercy,” topped the charts and set the earthy, rustic vibe that guides the entire album.

Ben Haggerty, better known by his stage name Macklemore, has been performing music since 2000; however, it wasn’t until his collaborative hit single “Thrift Shop” hit the charts that he and music partner Ryan Lewis became household names. His second album, “The Heist,” sold more than 78,000 copies during the first week alone.

Friday, the chart-topping Zac Brown Band will take the stage along with My Morning Jacket and Saints of Valory. The popular Atlanta country band will bring good vibes and summer music to the festival with hits like “Knee Deep” and “Toes.” The band recently received a Grammy for its album fifth studio album, “Uncaged.”

Also hailing from Atlanta is rapper Ludacris. Throughout his career, Ludacris has won numerous awards, including recognition from the Screen Actors Guild, MTV, Critics’ Choice Awards and three Grammys. As a Dirty South artist, he pioneered Southern rap, which derived inspiration from 1980s hip-hop. Ludacris has released eight studio albums and starred in huge Hollywood hits like 2011’s “No Strings Attached” and “New Year’s Eve.”

Music won’t be the only event drawing crowds to Atlanta this weekend. In addition to the Final Four games Saturday and Monday, there will also be a range of family- and fan-friendly events. Autograph sessions with coaches and players, scrimmages, shoot-offs, a performance by the Harlem Globetrotters and youth clinics are just a few of the activities on tap. These events require a ticket to “Bracket Town,” which is available online or at the door for $10.

Staley withdraws name for Ohio State

Women's basketball coach chooses not to continue pursuing vacancy

Pamela Berkovich

THE DAILY GAMECOCK

Within a week of South Carolina's exit from the NCAA tournament, coach Dawn Staley briefly considered taking a new job.

Ohio State called USC Athletics Director Bob Neubauer to ask for permission to speak with Staley, who is a representative called her shortly thereafter.

"She thought she had a little interest" in the Buckeyes' coaching job, Staley told reporters. "All of those things went through my mind, and my head would pull on me. I couldn't leave this place."

The Gamecocks fell to Kansas 71-69 last Monday after defeating South Dakota State 69-66 in the first round. USC made it to the Sweet 16 for the first time.

In five years under Staley, South Carolina has a record of 92-66. Her 82 wins in the past four seasons are the most in a four-year stretch since the Gamecocks joined the SEC.

"It's a place where we can say we have a chance to win the league," Staley said.

Ohio State fired coach Jim Foster after 15 seasons with the university. He compiled a 272-186 record with the Buckeyes, including a trip to the NCAA tournament in 2012.

"Staley predicted South Carolina is a university that can win. Three Gamecock players recorded quick two-set victories in singles to give South Carolina a 3-1 lead entering the doubles matches. All three came down to a tiebreaker.

The Gamecocks started the afternoon losing two of three doubles matches. All three came down to a tiebreaker.

"Staley's hard-fought win sealed USC's 4-1 victory," Koch said. "It's OK to go out there and miss."

Koch, who is undefeated in singles since the return of sophomore guard Tina Roy, said that would be a lot to ask from the players.

"At some point," Flach said. "At some point, you have to say, 'You know what? I'm not feeling well prior to the match."

Due to the NCAA's selection process, South Carolina men's swimming team failed to have a representative in the 100-meter breaststroke relay at NCAAs.

"This season, the Gamecocks sent five to the event this season, the Gamecocks sent five to the event," Flach said. "That's a big deal for him."
