AUDUBON AND OTHERS

a bicentennial exhibition of illustrated bird books

Mezzanine Exhibit Gallery Thomas Cooper Library May-July, 2001 Among the greatest treasures of the antebellum South Carolina College was its set of Audubon's huge double-elephant folio Birds of America, published in parts between 1828 and 1838. Fewer than 130 complete sets, with all 435 plates, now survive. (On the original acquisition, by a one-vote majority in the South Carolina legislature, see Davy-Jo Stribling Ridge, A Load of Gratitude: Audubon and South Carolina, 1985).

The current exhibition, supported by the University's Bicentennial Commission, traces the development of bird illustration, to give a context for viewing Audubon's achievement. The exhibit is arranged chronologically, starting with European bird illustrations of the sixteenth century and concluding with Audubon and other 19th century illustrators.

In addition to its main archival set of Birds of America, Thomas Cooper Library has a smaller group of Audubons donated by Miss Jennie Haddock Feagle (1896-1993). Her three double-elephant folio versions of Audubon's first plate, the American wild turkey (Lizars, 1827; Havell, 1828; Bien, 1858) are in the Feagle Hall and two more of her Audubons hang in the Graniteville Room.
