Characteristics and content of medical library tutorials: a review

Rozalynd P. Anderson, MLIS; Steven P. Wilson, MLIS; Mary Briget Livingston, MLIS; Allison D. LoCicero, MLIS

APPENDIX

Tutorial questions

1. a. Does the library link to outside tutorials (created by vendors or other libraries?) Yes/No
1. b. What are the topics or databases covered? List: ______________________________________
2. a. Does the library create freely available online tutorials? Yes/No
2. b. What topics or databases are the focus of the tutorials? List: _____________________________
3. What software was used to create the tutorial? List: ______________________________________
4. Are the tutorials interactive, requiring users to perform searches, etc.? Or are the participants passive, just reading content? Yes/No
5. Is there a quiz or test in the tutorial? Yes/No
6. Is there a survey at the end of the tutorial or are they requesting feedback some other way? Yes/No
7. What are the target audiences for the tutorials? List: ______________________________________
8. Are there any printable contents? Are there any handouts accompanying the tutorial? Yes/No