The Daily Gamecock, Thursday, November 10, 2016

University of South Carolina, Office of Student Media

Follow this and additional works at: https://scholarcommons.sc.edu/gamecock_2016_nov

Recommended Citation
University of South Carolina, Office of Student Media, "The Daily Gamecock, Thursday, November 10, 2016" (2016). November. 1. https://scholarcommons.sc.edu/gamecock_2016_nov/1

This Newspaper is brought to you by the 2016 at Scholar Commons. It has been accepted for inclusion in November by an authorized administrator of Scholar Commons. For more information, please contact dillarda@mailbox.sc.edu.
The Tunnel of Awareness wants students to evaluate their own values and beliefs.

The Tunnel of Awareness is a project that asks students to evaluate their own values and beliefs. The project is led by the Office of Student Conduct and Alcohol and other university departments.

The Tunnel of Awareness has partnered with the Office of Student Conduct and Alcohol to offer an opportunity for students to evaluate their own values and beliefs.

One of the main events, the Tunnel of Awareness, is described as a "social justice experiment" and is held every year with six rooms focused on social awareness topics.

The Tunnel of Awareness is designed to help students reflect on their own values and beliefs. It offers an opportunity for students to engage in meaningful discussions about issues of inclusion, domestic violence, and other important topics.

The Tunnel of Awareness is a popular event, with many students participating each year. It is a great opportunity for students to learn more about important issues and to develop a greater understanding of the perspectives of others.

Partnerships spread awareness

Carolina Creed and Diversity Week have been working to create student forums and increase awareness of diversity at USC, according to university officials.

The Office of Student Conduct and Alcohol has partnered with Carolina Judicial Council to offer an opportunity for students to evaluate their own values and beliefs.

The Tunnel of Awareness is a popular event, with many students participating each year. It is a great opportunity for students to learn more about important issues and to develop a greater understanding of the perspectives of others.

The Tunnel of Awareness is a project that asks students to evaluate their own values and beliefs. The project is led by the Office of Student Conduct and Alcohol to offer an opportunity for students to evaluate their own values and beliefs.

The Tunnel of Awareness is a popular event, with many students participating each year. It is a great opportunity for students to learn more about important issues and to develop a greater understanding of the perspectives of others.

The Tunnel of Awareness is a project that asks students to evaluate their own values and beliefs. The project is led by the Office of Student Conduct and Alcohol to offer an opportunity for students to evaluate their own values and beliefs.

The Tunnel of Awareness is a popular event, with many students participating each year. It is a great opportunity for students to learn more about important issues and to develop a greater understanding of the perspectives of others.

The Tunnel of Awareness is a project that asks students to evaluate their own values and beliefs. The project is led by the Office of Student Conduct and Alcohol to offer an opportunity for students to evaluate their own values and beliefs.

The Tunnel of Awareness is a popular event, with many students participating each year. It is a great opportunity for students to learn more about important issues and to develop a greater understanding of the perspectives of others.

The Tunnel of Awareness is a project that asks students to evaluate their own values and beliefs. The project is led by the Office of Student Conduct and Alcohol to offer an opportunity for students to evaluate their own values and beliefs.

The Tunnel of Awareness is a popular event, with many students participating each year. It is a great opportunity for students to learn more about important issues and to develop a greater understanding of the perspectives of others.

The Tunnel of Awareness is a project that asks students to evaluate their own values and beliefs. The project is led by the Office of Student Conduct and Alcohol to offer an opportunity for students to evaluate their own values and beliefs.

The Tunnel of Awareness is a popular event, with many students participating each year. It is a great opportunity for students to learn more about important issues and to develop a greater understanding of the perspectives of others.

The Tunnel of Awareness is a project that asks students to evaluate their own values and beliefs. The project is led by the Office of Student Conduct and Alcohol to offer an opportunity for students to evaluate their own values and beliefs.

The Tunnel of Awareness is a popular event, with many students participating each year. It is a great opportunity for students to learn more about important issues and to develop a greater understanding of the perspectives of others.

The Tunnel of Awareness is a project that asks students to evaluate their own values and beliefs. The project is led by the Office of Student Conduct and Alcohol to offer an opportunity for students to evaluate their own values and beliefs.

The Tunnel of Awareness is a popular event, with many students participating each year. It is a great opportunity for students to learn more about important issues and to develop a greater understanding of the perspectives of others.

The Tunnel of Awareness is a project that asks students to evaluate their own values and beliefs. The project is led by the Office of Student Conduct and Alcohol to offer an opportunity for students to evaluate their own values and beliefs.

The Tunnel of Awareness is a popular event, with many students participating each year. It is a great opportunity for students to learn more about important issues and to develop a greater understanding of the perspectives of others.

The Tunnel of Awareness is a project that asks students to evaluate their own values and beliefs. The project is led by the Office of Student Conduct and Alcohol to offer an opportunity for students to evaluate their own values and beliefs.

The Tunnel of Awareness is a popular event, with many students participating each year. It is a great opportunity for students to learn more about important issues and to develop a greater understanding of the perspectives of others.

The Tunnel of Awareness is a project that asks students to evaluate their own values and beliefs. The project is led by the Office of Student Conduct and Alcohol to offer an opportunity for students to evaluate their own values and beliefs.
The Daily Gamecock

Newborn found in Clalin trash can

A wildfire in the Appalachians is affecting an area in the Palmetto State. WLTX reports. Smoke was visible in Columbia and throughout Richland County.

Oldendorf described "the disaster" as "the most severe fire" that has ever hit South Carolina. He emphasized that "as a Carolina student, we need to be sure we know that this is a disaster [and] that we have the response I intended."

Parks accepts the election results with "a failure in the fact that it didn't happen as the response I intended." Porter said "I don't view my campaign as a failure in the fact that it didn't happen as the response I intended."

'Ve don't feel like the winner,' but there are people who feel like they're not winners. We all lose when everyone's votes, your vote is "at least as important in my opinion," Parks said. "And I think that's important for everyone to get used to."
to examine their own attitudes and even underlying prejudices. “I think most of our students here embrace those values, they just may not recognize that they’re living out the different tenants in the way in which they act,” Kendrick said. “So if we can get them to one recognize that but then also be purposeful in that action, then it can really help our campus community just be full of a climate in which we are having civil conversations and dialogue, respecting one another and really looking out for the concern of others and the climate in which we live.”

The rest of the events for Creed & Diversity week can be found on the Carolinian Creed web page.

DATES TO KNOW: NOVEMBER

Thursday, Nov. 10
– Student Leadership Seminar, 2-5 p.m. in Capstone Campus Room
– Creed and Diversity Week 2016: Speaking Truth to Power, 4:30 p.m. in Green Quad D 102/103
– Queer’s Trans Visibility in the Media, 12-4 p.m. in Russell House Room 201

Friday, Nov. 11
– Women’s Self-Defense Class, 12-4 p.m. in Strom martial arts classroom
– Hunger and Homelessness Awareness Week Service Saturday, 8:30 a.m. to 12:30 p.m. with check-in on Davis Field

Saturday, Nov. 12
– Women’s Self-Defense Class, 12-4 p.m. in Strom martial arts classroom

USC Symphony Orchestra
Hanson and Shostakovich
Tue, Nov 15, 7:30

“...played with steamy virtuosity...”
— The New York Times

Declared “brilliant” by the Washington Post and “a shameless showstopper” by the New York Times, virtuoso violinist SANDY CAMERON joins the orchestra on Shostakovich’s Violin Concerto in A minor.

Program:
Howard Hanson - Symphony No. 1 in E minor (Nordic)
Dmitri Shostakovich – Violin Concerto in A minor

Elementary, Middle & High School students get in FREE!

Koger Center for the Arts 908-2222
kogercenterforthearts.com

All 25% Off

Spirit Gifts for Everyone on Your List

RUSSELL HOUSE BOOKSTORE • SHOPGAMECOCKS.COM
The Russell House, 1400 Greene Street, Columbia, SC 29208 • 803-777-4160
• UofSCBookstore • UofSCBookstore • UofSCBookstore
Zoe Nicholson

Now that the election is over, Americans can return to their everyday lives and have discussions not involving WikiLeaks or political Twitter wars.

The game

and witnessing a tragedy, awkward and shy life becomes

Shortly after arriving, Max’s school for photography.

Bay, to attend a prestigious episodic drama game follows

from the game's enjoyment

gameplay doesn’t detract compelling that the lack of pan out, but sometimes in games that focus primarily “Dead,” there has been a rise best games that you should be missed some of the great

the responsibilities of college, new releases every year and an incredibly large number of

of allowing the player to of every dialogue section they enact their own story, each path has its share of won’t have much effect on the basic enjoyment of the story

at least ‘53,” plus the

a player in a unique perspective

of redirection in one’s life. How that one often associated with

high school girl, and

an interesting character study

and a moving experience.

Uncharted 4: A Thief's End

Since the first game in 2007, Naughty Dog’s “Uncharted” series has consistently been regarded as one of the most iconic modern games and they are masterful in offering gamers cinematic experiences and engaging stories. Eight and a half years ago, Naughty Dog reaffirmed its superior status in the gaming industry with “Uncharted 4.” This latest adventure with Nathan Drake, the game’s Indiana Jones-like protagonist, is filled to the brim with charming and adventurous voice acting, an impressive script, fun third-person shooter gameplay and graphics that push the PS4 to unprecedented limits. While the stories of the “Uncharted” games do connect and players won’t have the full effect without going back to the previous three installments, “Uncharted 4” can also suit just as an entry point for newcomers. For those who do want to go back, the PS4 also has “The Nathan Drake Collection,” which contains remastered versions of the first three games, containing enough content to keep you busy for months on end.

Witcher 3: Wild Hunt

“Witcher 3,” made by CD Projekt RED, came out last summer and blew away expectations with its impressively huge open world, thrilling gameplay, interesting story and shockingly amount of content. “Witcher 3” takes place in the world created by Polish author Andrzej Sapkowski in his “Witcher” fantasy series, a brutal and yet beautiful setting, with picturesque landscapes around every corner, each of them filled with deadly creatures. The story follows the assassin Geralt of Rivia, who is a special monster hunter with super-human abilities known as a “Witcher.” While the main quest line is incredibly lengthy and engaging, it’s through the side quests that the game truly shines. Where most games put considerable less effort into its ancillary quest lines than its mandatory ones, “Witcher 3” was able to tell full-bodied stories with twists and turns and many times an actual impact on the world around you. In a year when the gaming industry was drowning in a sea of loosely open-world RPGs, “Witcher 3” still managed to stand out as a truly

As a community we need these kinds of artistic moments in order to have the kinds of conversations we need to keep

having as neighbor and citizen.

These filmmakers, coming from across the nation, will meet in Columbia to show their work and interact with the film industry. Artists come from as close as Atlantic, where filmmaker Deuce House of Jone is located, and as far as Oakland, California, where Nikka Mizen creates short films, and as have been chosen by the Nickelodeon to showcase their work. While these filmmakers are making strides in the same industry, their subject matter is as diverse as their geographic. Where Nefertite Nguvu explores love and relationships in her film “In the Morning,” Garrett Bradley explores what it’s like to be a struggling musician in “Cover Me.” Roni Nicole Henderson will also be invited by the Nickelodeon to create short films that explore how God affects people in various situations. “Daughters” is a celebration of an important ingredient, but it’s also a way to highlight women of color who are creating contemporary and significant works.

In order to have the kinds of conversations we need to keep

having as neighbor and citizen.

These filmmakers, coming from across the nation, will meet in Columbia to show their work and interact with the film industry. Artists come from as close as Atlantic, where filmmaker Deuce House of Jone is located, and as far as Oakland, California, where Nikka Mizen creates short films, and as have been chosen by the Nickelodeon to showcase their work. While these filmmakers are making strides in the same industry, their subject matter is as diverse as their geographic. Where Nefertite Nguvu explores love and relationships in her film “In the Morning,” Garrett Bradley explores what it’s like to be a struggling musician in “Cover Me.” Roni Nicole Henderson will also be invited by the Nickelodeon to create short films that explore how God affects people in various situations. “Daughters” is a celebration of an important ingredient, but it’s also a way to highlight women of color who are creating contemporary and significant works.

Deity Hallmon

It has been three years that the PS4 has been on the market, we have seen a variety of different games, some incredible and ground-breaking, some broken and miserable. With the incredibly large number of new releases every year and the responsibilities of college, chances are you might have missed some of the great games that have come to your console. Here are four of the best games that you should be playing.

Life is Strange

In recent years, especially since Until’s “The Walking Dead,” there has been a rise in games that focus primarily on telling a story and while putting gameplay in a lesser spot. This doesn’t always pan out, but sometimes a game telling a story so compelling that the lack of focus on minutes-to-minute gameplay doesn’t detract from the game’s enjoyment — like “Life is Strange.” This episodic drama game follows Max Caulfield, a 16-year-old girl who returns to the town she grew up in, Arcadia Bay, to attend a prestigious school for photography. Shortly after arriving, Max’s awkward and life becomes more interesting when, after receiving strange visions and witnessing a tragedy, she learns she has the ability to rewind time. The game revolves around the mechanic of allowing the player to rewind time in nearly every dialogue section they encounter in an attempt to get a different outcome. However, in each path has its share of flaws that

won’t have much effect on the

basic enjoyment of the story

at least ‘53,” plus the

a player in a unique perspective

of redirection in one’s life. How

that one often associated with

high school girl, and

an interesting character study

and a moving experience.

Uncharted 4: A Thief's End

Since the first game in 2007, Naughty Dog’s “Uncharted” series has consistently been regarded as one of the most iconic modern games and they are masterful in offering gamers cinematic experiences and engaging stories. Eight and a half years ago, Naughty Dog reaffirmed its superior status in the gaming industry with “Uncharted 4.” This latest adventure with Nathan Drake, the game’s Indiana Jones-like protagonist, is filled to the brim with charming and adventurous voice acting, an impressive script, fun third-person shooter gameplay and graphics that push the PS4 to unprecedented limits. While the stories of the “Uncharted” games do connect and players won’t have the full effect without going back to the previous three installments, “Uncharted 4” can also suit just as an entry point for newcomers. For those who do want to go back, the PS4 also has “The Nathan Drake Collection,” which contains remastered versions of the first three games, containing enough content to keep you busy for months on end.

Witcher 3: Wild Hunt

“Witcher 3,” made by CD Projekt RED, came out last summer and blew away expectations with its impressively huge open world, thrilling gameplay, interesting story and shockingly amount of content. “Witcher 3” takes place in the world created by Polish author Andrzej Sapkowski in his “Witcher” fantasy series, a brutal and yet beautiful setting, with picturesque landscapes around every corner, each of them filled with deadly creatures. The story follows the assassin Geralt of Rivia, who is a special monster hunter with super-human abilities known as a “Witcher.” While the main quest line is incredibly lengthy and engaging, it’s through the side quests that the game truly shines. Where most games put considerably less effort into its ancillary quest lines than its mandatory ones, “Witcher 3” was able to tell full-bodied stories with twists and turns and many times an actual impact on the world around you. In a year when the gaming industry was drowning in a sea of loosely open-world RPGs, “Witcher 3” still managed to stand out as a truly

As a community we need these kinds of artistic moments in order to have the kinds of conversations we need to keep

having as neighbor and citizen.

These filmmakers, coming from across the nation, will meet in Columbia to show their work and interact with the film industry. Artists come from as close as Atlantic, where filmmaker Deuce House of Jone is located, and as far as Oakland, California, where Nikka Mizen creates short films, and as have been chosen by the Nickelodeon to showcase their work. While these filmmakers are making strides in the same industry, their subject matter is as diverse as their geographic. Where Nefertite Nguvu explores love and relationships in her film “In the Morning,” Garrett Bradley explores what it’s like to be a struggling musician in “Cover Me.” Roni Nicole Henderson will also be invited by the Nickelodeon to create short films that explore how God affects people in various situations. “Daughters” is a celebration of an important ingredient, but it’s also a way to highlight women of color who are creating contemporary and significant works.

In order to have the kinds of conversations we need to keep

having as neighbor and citizen.

These filmmakers, coming from across the nation, will meet in Columbia to show their work and interact with the film industry. Artists come from as close as Atlantic, where filmmaker Deuce House of Jone is located, and as far as Oakland, California, where Nikka Mizen creates short films, and as have been chosen by the Nickelodeon to showcase their work. While these filmmakers are making strides in the same industry, their subject matter is as diverse as their geographic. Where Nefertite Nguvu explores love and relationships in her film “In the Morning,” Garrett Bradley explores what it’s like to be a struggling musician in “Cover Me.” Roni Nicole Henderson will also be invited by the Nickelodeon to create short films that explore how God affects people in various situations. “Daughters” is a celebration of an important ingredient, but it’s also a way to highlight women of color who are creating contemporary and significant works.

In order to have the kinds of conversations we need to keep

having as neighbor and citizen.

These filmmakers, coming from across the nation, will meet in Columbia to show their work and interact with the film industry. Artists come from as close as Atlantic, where filmmaker Deuce House of Jone is located, and as far as Oakland, California, where Nikka Mizen creates short films, and as have been chosen by the Nickelodeon to showcase their work. While these filmmakers are making strides in the same industry, their subject matter is as diverse as their geographic. Where Nefertite Nguvu explores love and relationships in her film “In the Morning,” Garrett Bradley explores what it’s like to be a struggling musician in “Cover Me.” Roni Nicole Henderson will also be invited by the Nickelodeon to create short films that explore how God affects people in various situations. “Daughters” is a celebration of an important ingredient, but it’s also a way to highlight women of color who are creating contemporary and significant works.

In order to have the kinds of conversations we need to keep

having as neighbor and citizen.

These filmmakers, coming from across the nation, will meet in Columbia to show their work and interact with the film industry. Artists come from as close as Atlantic, where filmmaker Deuce House of Jone is located, and as far as Oakland, California, where Nikka Mizen creates short films, and as have been chosen by the Nickelodeon to showcase their work. While these filmmakers are making strides in the same industry, their subject matter is as diverse as their geographic. Where Nefertite Nguvu explores love and relationships in her film “In the Morning,” Garrett Bradley explores what it’s like to be a struggling musician in “Cover Me.” Roni Nicole Henderson will also be invited by the Nickelodeon to create short films that explore how God affects people in various situations. “Daughters” is a celebration of an important ingredient, but it’s also a way to highlight women of color who are creating contemporary and significant works.
Louis-Dreyfus somehow a sweat wondering if Julia character. Rhimes kills off a beloved television and sobbing binge-watching mediocre what's really important is we've fallen into a Fox Kelly that it feels like congested with Kellyanne televisions have been Television you. look better by mocking we return to what we do need, but now it's time on you in our time of moose.

You'll be able to watch So many of our televisions have been conglomerated with Kellylene Conway and Meryl Kelly that it feels like we've fallen into a Fox News whirlpool for the past 15 months. But now, what's really important is binge-watching mediocre television and sobbing every time Shonda Rhimes kills off a beloved character. You're able to watch “Vip” without breaking a sweat wondering (Julia Louis-Dreyfus somehow caused the disaster of an election. You can see through the latest “Game of Thrones” and see if a disturbing realization that Carrie and Jeff are as cut-throat as this year’s batch of candidates. Rightfully so, Twitter should be filled with talk of Negan’s latest victims on “The Walking Dead” rather than your friends and every celebrity you follow reminding you to vote.

Talking with Family

While the topics of politics, religion and money are off-limits for any family function, it seems the political landscape of 2016 is too orange and pumkin-filled for anyone to get.

This holiday season, America can finally converge with aunts, uncles and cousins without the threat of “Hillary for Prison” or accusations of being a dependable coming up in the conversation.

Your grandfather can finally ask you about your schoolwork instead of the question of whom you’ll be voting for, and your sibling will finally shut up about Gary Johnson.

Your father can constantly harp about how Clinton groveling on your bag as homage to Harambe. If it’s the political landscape of 2016 is too orange and pumkin-filled for anyone to get.

The rest of 2016 should be spent the way Americans want and deserve — complaining about Starbucks’ holiday cups, wondering which dips you’ll make for the Super Bowl and mourning the death of Harambe.

GAMEPAGE4

revolutionary experience that is already being considered to be one of the best games of this console generation. “Inside” is the success of its 2010 puzzle-platformer “Limbo,” released this year and a puzzle-platformer like “Limbo” was, but when “Limbo” was a highly commended with thoughtful puzzles. “Inside” was flawless. The game drops you into a dark and grim world without much direction or explanation. You control a boy who must navigate the black and gray dystopian environment while avoiding mysterious men who try to capture him. The game is dark and incredibly strange, and its subtle storytelling gives you just enough to always be eager to progress further and hopefully find answers. Gameplay-wise, Playdead understood every single puzzle in a deliberate and careful manner, making a game where every single puzzle and space serves a purpose. “Inside” is arguably the best game released this year and a must-play for all gamers, especially fans of the puzzle-platformer genre.
Trump's victory means terror for minorities

I expected I would wake up Wednesday morning and write a column with a dark joke about how America walked away from the edge of the bridge but still needed to grapple with the issues that brought it there in the first place.

I was wrong. What happened last night was a massacre. A dark parade of terrorism. I was. As someone who is not from a minority group, it is not my place to write about this, but I will try, even as I realize I may come back from.

What happened last night was a murder in centuries in the making. A massacre. And, as Kurt Vonnegut said, “there is nothing intelligent to say about a massacre.” But I guess I’ll try, even as I stand on my hand brake and my stomach churns inside me.

In queer spaces and communities of color, today feels like a funeral. And not just in the South. This is not the first time in a recent murder of the 24th trans person this year and the whole of Dylan Roof and the killer of Walter Scott playing in the background of life. For communities of color, today feels particularly big.

Donald Trump has previously talked about making a national database of Muslims and tracking their movements across the country. The only thing worse than that is the potential violence that follows when the commander-on-chief uses his bully pulpit to bully. There’s a column on Twitter today about devout Muslim women having the talk with their families that they will now be forced to have, for fear of not wearing the hijab. Queer people woke up to a president-elect who wants to keep more people like them out. He’s promised to deport these people. Donald Trump.

Trump’s victory means terror for minorities. For people voting for Trump. That theory would say that minority communities are waking up to a type of threat. A popular theory among (white) America’s populists is that America’s Muslim people are fundamentally weak and inferior because they are Muslims. They cannot produce their future without a war against different religions and sects. But that theory is patently untrue.

Reminders!
this semester meal plan. Your meal plan from Please make sure when bills post finals week!
easier during make things Follow a few

Tips from the CarolinaCard office to survive finals!

Come and discover why...
Time is not a factor in your life
Sunday, November 13 at 3 p.m.

“Time is not a factor in your life”
Says David Hohle, a Christian Science healer and teacher, in this free talk.

Sponsored by: First Church of Christ, Scientist, Columbia
For more information, visit our website: wwww.christiansciencecolumbia.org
Employment

Travel

BANANAS SPRING BREAK $119 for 5-Days.
All prices include roundtrip luxury party cruise. Accommodations on the island of your choice of ten resorts. Appalachian Travel. www.BananasSun.com 800-887-5018

Opportunities

S.A.I. P.E.D. 150 (802) 317-2918

---

Horoscopes

Aries

- Re-energize a personal project over the next two days. Involve your team's impact is far-reaching. Don't show a loved one unfinished work.

Taurus

- Enjoy productive peace and solitude over the next two days. Introspection and planning set the stage for what's ahead. Consider a controversy from a spiritual view.

Gemini

- Group projects have your attention over the next few days. Listen to differing views and come to a consensus. Support each other through the tricky pulses.

Cancer

- A fine professional status is available over the next two days. Focus to keep deadlines and promises with excellent service, deal jealousies. Take charge.

Leo

- Explore new horizons over the next few days. Study and discover unmapped territories. Stay in communication or risk an upset.

Virgo

- Work together for financial growth and tomorrow. Rely on trusted partners and alliances. Do the homework and come up with a new mix.

Libra

- Listen to your partner. Collaboration unclogs magic over the next two days (if you can avoid tickling). Express your feelings. Hear and be heard.

Scorpio

- Nurture your health, especially when work gets busy over the next few days. Avoid accident or illness by slowing down and planning your moves.

Sagittarius

- Run and have fun with family and friends today and tomorrow. Restrains serve you well. Guard against overstepping or overdramizing. Explore a mutual attraction.

Capricorn

- Family comes first today and tomorrow. Can you work from home? Domestic improvements and arts provide satisfying results. Share treats with helpers. Focus in on your near.

Aquarius

- Hold your temper. A clash between love and money could disrupt. Communication soothes ruffled feathers today and tomorrow. Keep a secret journal to vent feelings.

Pisces

- Take charge despite temporary chaos. Today and tomorrow are good for business. Put your talents to work. Pay bills before buying treats. Save for unforeseen expenses.

---

Crossword

Edited by Wayne Robert Williams

Saturday, November 12th

24-Hour Video Game Livestream Event

Saturday Nov 11th @ 7pm

Watch at: twitch.tv/highscorehq

---

For solutions to today’s puzzle, go to dailygamecock.com or download our app!

---

Sudoku

By The Mepham Group

Level: Easy

7 1 9 2 8 3 4 6 5

For solutions to today’s puzzle, go to dailygamecock.com or download our app!

---

Horoscopes

PHD • JORGE CHAM
Gamecocks seek bowl eligibility in Muschamp’s return to The Swamp

Now, winner of three-straight games, South Carolina heads to the Bulldogs at home in a loss that would've felt like a dream for South Carolina fans.

Mike Casey

When the Heisman Trophy is brought up in conversation nowadays, it is often followed by the name of Lamar Jackson. Analysts describe Jackson as an athlete, a playmaker and the frontrunner for the Heisman. However, when it comes to Jackson’s Heisman prospects, one word comes to mind — one-sided.

While Jackson’s touchdowns may make him look like the most impressive Heisman candidate, another player’s versatility puts him at the top. That player is none other than Jabrill Peppers of the No. 3 Michigan Wolverines.

Mike Casey

Which player should be awarded the Heisman? Jabrill Peppers

Lamar Jackson

College football fans, save your breath, your time and your credibility and just agree on the obvious: Lamar Jackson has already won the Heisman.

Usually, to win the Heisman you need to have three boxes checked on your resume. First, you need to be in the top five in the latest committee rankings. Second, your team needs to be in the title talk. Third, you should be his only focus.

"The only thing we can control is the game on the field. In what's supposed to be a defensive battle, the most intriguing matchup may be at quarterback," Muschamp said Tuesday.

Alex Daranah

It is over. I repeat, the Heisman race is over.

The stakes are high for both teams, as South Carolina can clinch bowl eligibility with a win, and both teams need a win and help to claim the division crown. With all the scenarios that could play out, the Gamecocks enter as the favorites.

"And the only way any of that stuff stays alive, is we need to win the game."