Stop Light Observations discuss latest album, Southern culture

Gaveus stressed that the main purpose is to forge bonds with the other groups on campus.

“Why aren’t they really reaching out to them because it’s the first time we’re going to be in Greek Week and so we just want to have a good presence there,” Gaveus said.

Toogood’s, the latest release from Charleston-based band Stop Light Observations, started with a house.
“The defendant informed Mr. Bruck that he hates him, and that if he gets out of jail he plans to come to Mr. Bruck’s house and kill him.”

— Previously sealed document compiled by the legal team of mass shooter Dylann Roof, including his lawyer David Bruck

“The world’s two foremost nuclear powers cannot have this kind of relationship.”

— Secretary of State Rex Tillerson following talks with Russian Foreign Minister Sergey Lavrov in Moscow

“I made a mistake. There’s no other way to say it.”

— White House Press Secretary Sean Spicer apologizing for his Tuesday comment contrasting Bashar al-Assad with Adolf Hitler
1-, 2-, & 3-BR Apartments Available

TAKE A RIDE ON BIG BLUE between April 17-21 — and slide your way into a new apartment at Palmetto Compress!

Bi-level pool house featuring ping pong, billiards, life-sized chess, and sun deck

Open air courtyard with private porches, balconies, and slide

State-of-the-art fitness center with cardio and strength-training equipment

On-site parking

RIDE THE SLIDE @ PALMETTO

BRING A FRIEND!

803.667.3705 | leasing@palmettocompress.com

PMC Property Group
612 Devine St., Columbia, SC 29201
DEAR WORLD
LIVE FROM UNIVERSITY OF SOUTH CAROLINA

Y(OUR) STORY.

PHOTO SHOOT
TUESDAY, APRIL 11, 11:30AM - 4:00PM
LEADERSHIP AND SERVICE CENTER, RUSSELL HOUSE 2ND FLOOR

STORYTELLING & PHOTO REVEAL
TUESDAY, APRIL 11, 6:00PM - 9:00PM
RUSSELL HOUSE BALLROOM

Leadership & Service Center

@DEARWORLD DEARWORLD.ME #DEARUOFSC

RIVERSIDE

FITNESS CENTER
WALK-IN CLOSETS
PRIVATE SHUTTLE TO CAMPUS
WI-FI SATELLITE TV

RATES FROM $484
803.772.2200 | LIVE-RIVERSIDE.COM
Famously Hot & Hidden: Inakaya Japanese Restaurant

Shayla Nidever
sean_nidever@icloud.com
Rating: A

Maybe it was the atmosphere, or the fact that it didn’t break the bank, but I think it’s safe to say that Inakaya is a fantastic restaurant. It is an authentic Japanese restaurant, and I can never go wrong with authentically Japanese cuisine.

Located on the second floor of a building not far from the Garnet District, Inakaya is a small restaurant with an intimate atmosphere. The small space makes it perfect for a romantic dinner for two or a intimate gathering with friends. The restaurant is known for its delicious Japanese cuisine and friendly staff.

The atmosphere inside the restaurant is cozy and inviting. The decor is simple yet elegant, with soft lighting and comfortable seating. The staff is helpful and attentive, making sure that every customer has a great dining experience.

The menu at Inakaya is extensive and offers a wide variety of Japanese dishes. The restaurant is known for its fresh and authentic Japanese cuisine. The staff is knowledgeable about the dishes and can recommend the best options for customers.

Inakaya Japanese Restaurant is located at 224 S. Main St. in Columbia. Their hours are Monday through Friday from 5 p.m. to 9 p.m., and Saturday and Sunday from 5 p.m. to 10 p.m. They offer a variety of dishes, including sushi, ramen, and tempura. The restaurant is also known for its extensive selection of sake and other Japanese wines.

In conclusion, Inakaya Japanese Restaurant is a fantastic option for those looking for an authentic Japanese dining experience. The restaurant is known for its delicious food, friendly staff, and cozy atmosphere. Whether you are a fan of sushi, ramen, or tempura, Inakaya has something for everyone. So, if you are looking for a great meal, be sure to check out Inakaya Japanese Restaurant.
The show does a good job portraying real issues that teens have in school and may even increase awareness about some of the very real issues that we, as society deal with. Parents may be able to better understand the pressures put on students and the reality of the whole new generations are growing up in.

The final scene was cinematic and amazingly beautiful but emotionally traumatizing. While watching the show, you become emotionally attached to the characters, including Hannah. The fact that you can see her suicide in such detail wasn’t emotionally healthy for me. It was harder than a lot of the suits places closer to me to have that kind of an all-around great experience. It’s intimate in a good way and I’d definitely go back to see it again.

However, Culbreth said that this doesn’t fix the issue. “I think there’s a big difference between music as an outlet to create a larger awareness and musical criticism with a solution,” he said. These thoughts are reflected in “Secund,” a single off the album that criticizes the elusive nature of financial stability and the ills of corporate culture.

Stop Light Observations is playing at Maza Sterer Public House Friday at 9:30 p.m. Opening the set is indie-pop group Little Stranger. Tickets are $7 and can be purchased online. Guests at the show might have an opportunity to hear new songs that are tentatively expected for release late summer.

The show does a good job portraying real issues that teens have in school and may even increase awareness about some of the very real issues that we, as society deal with. Parents may be able to better understand the pressures put on students and the reality of the whole new generations are growing up in.

The final scene was cinematic and amazingly beautiful but emotionally traumatizing. While watching the show, you become emotionally attached to the characters, including Hannah. The fact that you can see her suicide in such detail wasn’t emotionally healthy for me. It was harder than a lot of the suits places closer to me to have that kind of an all-around great experience. It’s intimate in a good way and I’d definitely go back to see it again.

However, Culbreth said that this doesn’t fix the issue. “I think there’s a big difference between music as an outlet to create a larger awareness and musical criticism with a solution,” he said. These thoughts are reflected in “Secund,” a single off the album that criticizes the elusive nature of financial stability and the ills of corporate culture.

Stop Light Observations is playing at Maza Sterer Public House Friday at 9:30 p.m. Opening the set is indie-pop group Little Stranger. Tickets are $7 and can be purchased online. Guests at the show might have an opportunity to hear new songs that are tentatively expected for release late summer.
STUDENTS, FACULTY AND STAFF OF USC, YOU CAN JOIN!

VISIT OUR NEW LOCATION @ THE COMMONS AT BULLSTREET
(NEXT TO SPIRIT COMMUNICATIONS PARK)
2166 BOYCE ST, COLUMBIA, SC 29201

Even off campus, we'll be here for all your financial needs!

VISIT RELAXJOINFOUNDERS.COM OR ONE OF OUR COLUMBIA OFFICES TODAY TO COMPLETE THE APPLICATION PROCESS AND SEE WHAT FOUNDERS MEMBERSHIP CAN DO FOR YOU!

foundersfcu.com • 1-800-845-1614
Federally insured by NCUA.

FOLLOW US: @FOUNDERSFCU
Partioning Syria may be an option

Andy Wilson
Engaged student

As Martin Luther King Jr. said, “If it could end the slaughter, it’s worth at least proposing.”

The world cannot afford for the U.S. to overlook oppression. As Martin Luther King Jr. said, “Injustice anywhere is a threat to justice everywhere.” While we must consider our own interests abroad, we also have a responsibility to alleviate suffering and work for justice and peace.

Given the repeated collapse of peace talks between rebel groups and the regime, the ethnic, religious and regional tensions that foster hatred and fear of reprisal, and the armaments committed by the regime and its allies, the hope that a unified state might emerge is increasingly unlikely. But, as we are under Obama, unity only sets us back on the campaign trail and forces us to let the situation devolve further. We need to take the opportunity to stop this bloodshed.

One option is to establish safe zones to protect the population and improve access for aid workers and supplies and perhaps even set up a partitioned government for Syria. If President Trump, the most radical and controversial, so far, spends some time explaining how it represents an improvement on the current state of affairs. The partition model would be the current state of affairs. Participants in the conference would be the current state of affairs. Participants in the conference would be

Letter to the editor: The Daily Gamecock

Letters to the editor must not exceed 300 words. Students must include their full name and applicable job title. Non-student members must include their full name and applicable job title. Verifiable statements of fact must include at least one source. If we cannot verify a statement of fact, editors will not publish the letter, which will be subject to a combined effort to eradicate it. The lines would have to be drawn, taking into account current territory occupied but also ethnic boundaries. You might interject at this point that to do so would be committing a mass murder on one hand and jihadi groups ideologically similar to al-Qaeda on the other. These are valid objections, but the atrocities committed in the past year justify extreme measures. With hundreds of thousands of civilians displaced and peace no closer than it has been in the last five years, it’s time to think outside the box to restore peace. There is historical precedent — seven centuries before the current chemical attack — to establish zones of international influence by Arab powers, the Balkans did endure several years of violence as the national tensions were part of the Syrian conflict from the beginning.

But will the power accept the settlement? I think so. The rebel groups are more united in their opposition to a state of affairs than they have been for a long time. The regime forces are overstretched, and it is relying heavily on its allies to avoid a decisive military defeat. So, there is a little chance of recapitulating all of its former territory. And the Syrian Kurds, long marginalized and frustrated by the lack of a jumping at the chance to become a recognized state or autonomous region. It’s a solution that would make few people happy, and it would leave in place a ruthless tyrant and rebel groups that are incomparably closer to our own than to the jihadi rebels, but it could end the slaughter, it’s worth at least proposing. Perhaps a few years of peace from the bloodshed would calm the animosity. Reparations may not come about until the children or grandchildren of this generation. If nothing else, it would make any decisive moves in Syria, which is likely to be a feasible solution for Syria.

If it could end the slaughter, it’s worth at least proposing.

Letters to the editor must not exceed 300 words. Students must include their full name and applicable job title. Non-student members must include their full name and applicable job title. Verifiable statements of fact must include at least one source. If we cannot verify a statement of fact, editors will not publish the letter, which will be subject to a combined effort to eradicate it. The lines would have to be drawn, taking into account current territory occupied but also ethnic boundaries. You might interject at this point that to do so would be committing a mass murder on one hand and jihadi groups ideologically similar to al-Qaeda on the other. These are valid objections, but the atrocities committed in the past year justify extreme measures. With hundreds of thousands of civilians displaced and peace no closer than it has been in the last five years, it’s time to think outside the box to restore peace. There is historical precedent — seven centuries before the current chemical attack — to establish zones of international influence by Arab powers, the Balkans did endure several years of violence as the national tensions were part of the Syrian conflict from the beginning.

But will the power accept the settlement? I think so. The rebel groups are more united in their opposition to a state of affairs than they have been for a long time. The regime forces are overstretched, and it is relying heavily on its allies to avoid a decisive military defeat. So, there is a little chance of recapitulating all of its former territory. And the Syrian Kurds, long marginalized and frustrated by the lack of a jumping at the chance to become a recognized state or autonomous region. It’s a solution that would make few people happy, and it would leave in place a ruthless tyrant and rebel groups that are incomparably closer to our own than to the jihadi rebels, but it could end the slaughter, it’s worth at least proposing. Perhaps a few years of peace from the bloodshed would calm the animosity. Reparations may not come about until the children or grandchildren of this generation. If nothing else, it would make any decisive moves in Syria, which is likely to be a feasible solution for Syria.

If it could end the slaughter, it’s worth at least proposing.

Letters to the editor must not exceed 300 words. Students must include their full name and applicable job title. Non-student members must include their full name and applicable job title. Verifiable statements of fact must include at least one source. If we cannot verify a statement of fact, editors will not publish the letter, which will be subject to a combined effort to eradicate it. The lines would have to be drawn, taking into account current territory occupied but also ethnic boundaries. You might interject at this point that to do so would be committing a mass murder on one hand and jihadi groups ideologically similar to al-Qaeda on the other. These are valid objections, but the atrocities committed in the past year justify extreme measures. With hundreds of thousands of civilians displaced and peace no closer than it has been in the last five years, it’s time to think outside the box to restore peace. There is historical precedent — seven centuries before the current chemical attack — to establish zones of international influence by Arab powers, the Balkans did endure several years of violence as the national tensions were part of the Syrian conflict from the beginning.

But will the power accept the settlement? I think so. The rebel groups are more united in their opposition to a state of affairs than they have been for a long time. The regime forces are overstretched, and it is relying heavily on its allies to avoid a decisive military defeat. So, there is a little chance of recapitulating all of its former territory. And the Syrian Kurds, long marginalized and frustrated by the lack of a jumping at the chance to become a recognized state or autonomous region. It’s a solution that would make few people happy, and it would leave in place a ruthless tyrant and rebel groups that are incomparably closer to our own than to the jihadi rebels, but it could end the slaughter, it’s worth at least proposing. Perhaps a few years of peace from the bloodshed would calm the animosity. Reparations may not come about until the children or grandchildren of this generation. If nothing else, it would make any decisive moves in Syria, which is likely to be a feasible solution for Syria.

If it could end the slaughter, it’s worth at least proposing.

Letters to the editor must not exceed 300 words. Students must include their full name and applicable job title. Non-student members must include their full name and applicable job title. Verifiable statements of fact must include at least one source. If we cannot verify a statement of fact, editors will not publish the letter, which will be subject to a combined effort to eradicate it. The lines would have to be drawn, taking into account current territory occupied but also ethnic boundaries. You might interject at this point that to do so would be committing a mass murder on one hand and jihadi groups ideologically similar to al-Qaeda on the other. These are valid objections, but the atrocities committed in the past year justify extreme measures. With hundreds of thousands of civilians displaced and peace no closer than it has been in the last five years, it’s time to think outside the box to restore peace. There is historical precedent — seven centuries before the current chemical attack — to establish zones of international influence by Arab powers, the Balkans did endure several years of violence as the national tensions were part of the Syrian conflict from the beginning.

But will the power accept the settlement? I think so. The rebel groups are more united in their opposition to a state of affairs than they have been for a long time. The regime forces are overstretched, and it is relying heavily on its allies to avoid a decisive military defeat. So, there is a little chance of recapitulating all of its former territory. And the Syrian Kurds, long marginalized and frustrated by the lack of a jumping at the chance to become a recognized state or autonomous region. It’s a solution that would make few people happy, and it would leave in place a ruthless tyrant and rebel groups that are incomparably closer to our own than to the jihadi rebels, but it could end the slaughter, it’s worth at least proposing. Perhaps a few years of peace from the bloodshed would calm the animosity. Reparations may not come about until the children or grandchildren of this generation. If nothing else, it would make any decisive moves in Syria, which is likely to be a feasible solution for Syria.

If it could end the slaughter, it’s worth at least proposing.

Letters to the editor must not exceed 300 words. Students must include their full name and applicable job title. Non-student members must include their full name and applicable job title. Verifiable statements of fact must include at least one source. If we cannot verify a statement of fact, editors will not publish the letter, which will be subject to a combined effort to eradicate it. The lines would have to be drawn, taking into account current territory occupied but also ethnic boundaries. You might interject at this point that to do so would be committing a mass murder on one hand and jihadi groups ideologically similar to al-Qaeda on the other. These are valid objections, but the atrocities committed in the past year justify extreme measures. With hundreds of thousands of civilians displaced and peace no closer than it has been in the last five years, it’s time to think outside the box to restore peace. There is historical precedent — seven centuries before the current chemical attack — to establish zones of international influence by Arab powers, the Balkans did endure several years of violence as the national tensions were part of the Syrian conflict from the beginning.

But will the power accept the settlement? I think so. The rebel groups are more united in their opposition to a state of affairs than they have been for a long time. The regime forces are overstretched, and it is relying heavily on its allies to avoid a decisive military defeat. So, there is a little chance of recapitulating all of its former territory. And the Syrian Kurds, long marginalized and frustrated by the lack of a jumping at the chance to become a recognized state or autonomous region. It’s a solution that would make few people happy, and it would leave in place a ruthless tyrant and rebel groups that are incomparably closer to our own than to the jihadi rebels, but it could end the slaughter, it’s worth at least proposing. Perhaps a few years of peace from the bloodshed would calm the animosity. Reparations may not come about until the children or grandchildren of this generation. If nothing else, it would make any decisive moves in Syria, which is likely to be a feasible solution for Syria.

If it could end the slaughter, it’s worth at least proposing.
CLASSIFIEDS, ETC,

HOUSING

402-B, 2 BR house for rent 803-673-2886, has for rent, full kitchen, close to campus, has use of yard. Includes heat and is included with rent. Full Kyle 402-673-2886

EMPLOYMENT

FAMILY PHOTOGRAPHER WANTED- MAKE MONEY-WHY?
Top rated sports equals top rated for loving counselors to teach at camp. Maine! Call (888) 844-8080; sports. Great summer in Maine! Make money! Play sports! Have fun! Top-rated sports camp needs 50+ counselors to teach at camp. www.campcedar.com

How to Live United: Join Hands, Open Your Heart, Serve, Advocate, Volunteer, Live United.

every day, in every way. Add something, not nothing. Add meaning, not mediocrity. Add character, not success. Add passion, not parochialism.

---

HOROSCOPES

PHD • JORGE CHAM

---

Sagittarius

Rural and remote. A confusing situation can lead to optimism. Meditate, exercise andavor peaceful moments. Postpone nonessential choices. Discuss situations when you’re not looking for a fight.

Capricorn

Share a lovely moment with friends. Voice your opinions, concerns and appreciate discussions. Make amazing discoveries together.

Aquarius

A professional relationship has your attention. Don’t take action yet. Polish your presentation and beauty your portfolio. Prepare for inspection.

---

Crossword

Edited by Wayne Bobit Williams

4/13/17

For solutions to today’s puzzle, go to dailygamecock.com or download our app!

---

SUDOKU

By The Mepham Group

4/13/17

---

For solutions to today’s puzzle, go to dailygamecock.com or download our app!

---

PAGES

15¢ per word. Five characters per line. Center align at $1.75 per ad. Bolded words are $1.75 per word. Deadline is one day prior to publication.

---

DISCOUNTS

20% less for 10 issues, 40% off of 6 issues

---

CLASSIFIEDS

For solutions to today’s puzzle, go to dailygamecock.com or download our app!

---

HOUSING

EMPLOYMENT

Family Photographer Wanted- Make Money- Why?
Top rated sports equals top rated for loving counselors to teach at camp. Maine! Call (888) 844-8080; sports. Great summer in Maine! Make money! Play sports! Have fun! Top-rated sports camp needs 50+ counselors to teach at camp. www.campcedar.com

---

HOROSCOPES

PHD • JORGE CHAM

---

Sagittarius

Rural and remote. A confusing situation can lead to optimism. Meditate, exercise andavor peaceful moments. Postpone nonessential choices. Discuss situations when you’re not looking for a fight.

Capricorn

Share a lovely moment with friends. Voice your opinions, concerns and appreciate discussions. Make amazing discoveries together.

Aquarius

A professional relationship has your attention. Don’t take action yet. Polish your presentation and beauty your portfolio. Prepare for inspection.

---

Crossword

Edited by Wayne Bobit Williams

4/13/17

For solutions to today’s puzzle, go to dailygamecock.com or download our app!

---

SUDOKU

By The Mepham Group

4/13/17

---

For solutions to today’s puzzle, go to dailygamecock.com or download our app!

---

PAGES

15¢ per word. Five characters per line. Center align at $1.75 per ad. Bolded words are $1.75 per word. Deadline is one day prior to publication.

---

DISCOUNTS

20% less for 10 issues, 40% off of 6 issues

---

CLASSIFIEDS

For solutions to today’s puzzle, go to dailygamecock.com or download our app!

---

HOUSING

EMPLOYMENT

Family Photographer Wanted- Make Money- Why?
Top rated sports equals top rated for loving counselors to teach at camp. Maine! Call (888) 844-8080; sports. Great summer in Maine! Make money! Play sports! Have fun! Top-rated sports camp needs 50+ counselors to teach at camp. www.campcedar.com

---

HOROSCOPES

PHD • JORGE CHAM

---

Sagittarius

Rural and remote. A confusing situation can lead to optimism. Meditate, exercise andavor peaceful moments. Postpone nonessential choices. Discuss situations when you’re not looking for a fight.

Capricorn

Share a lovely moment with friends. Voice your opinions, concerns and appreciate discussions. Make amazing discoveries together.

Aquarius

A professional relationship has your attention. Don’t take action yet. Polish your presentation and beauty your portfolio. Prepare for inspection.

---

Crossword

Edited by Wayne Bobit Williams

4/13/17

For solutions to today’s puzzle, go to dailygamecock.com or download our app!

---

SUDOKU

By The Mepham Group

4/13/17

---

For solutions to today’s puzzle, go to dailygamecock.com or download our app!

---

PAGES

15¢ per word. Five characters per line. Center align at $1.75 per ad. Bolded words are $1.75 per word. Deadline is one day prior to publication.

---

DISCOUNTS

20% less for 10 issues, 40% off of 6 issues

---

CLASSIFIEDS

For solutions to today’s puzzle, go to dailygamecock.com or download our app!
Tech IT Up A Level

Seize The Summer Edition

SUMMER SESSIONS AVAILABLE

May 22 – August 4
May 22 – June 23
June 26 – August 4

BE OUR GUEST THIS SUMMER AND TAKE ADVANTAGE OF SUMMER CLASSES AT YORK TECH

REGISTER NOW!

Catch Up - Boost Your GPA - Get Ahead

York Technical College

Carolina Productions
University of South Carolina Student Life

For more information or assistance, visit cp.sc.edu or call (803) 777-3950. Paid for by campus activity fees.

Graphic Designer

Open Position

get paid to design promo materials for on-campus events!

visit www.cp.sc.edu for more information

applications due April 14th!

@usccp /usccp @usccp

Open House

Splash Bash

April 14, 2-6p

Poolside Fun + Food + Giveaways

Sign & Get $500 & Apple TV

Limited Time

The Village Columbia.com

TechITUpALevel.com
The Gamecocks ended up making it to a bowl game, all while showcasing the potential of young talent. This was catalyzed by Muschamp making the call to bring quarterback Jake Bentley’s redshirt. It was a bold move, but it looks like it has paid off in a major way for the Gamecocks.

Bentley now has an incredible arsenal of skill players at his disposal this season. With players like Bryan Edwards, Rico Dowdle, Ty'Son Williams, Deebo Samuel and many more, the Gamecock offense looks potent. The defense was exposed a bit in the spring game, but it is difficult to be overly critical in a spring game. Moore is a special player and his leadership will help bolster the defense. Muschamp is also one of the better defensive coordinators in college football, so it would not be very shocking if he could bring this unit to play in a timely manner in college.

A coaching staff led by a coach who has proven himself can also bring about immediate impact on the defense. They've got an easy schedule, but still have a few games that will be tough to handle.

The coaching staff is also emerging as one of the top recruiting classes. They've got an easy schedule, but still have a few games that will be tough to handle. The coaching staff is also emerging as one of the top recruiting classes. They've got an easy schedule, but still have a few games that will be tough to handle.

Speaking of Florida, the Gators are replacing several players from last season, including their quarterbacks and top pass rushers. Mizzou is, well, Mizzou. That is a game South Carolina shouldn’t lose. Georgia is going to be a tough one, but the Gamecocks can likely afford to drop two SEC games and still make it to Atlanta, like Florida did last year.

Moore is a special player and his leadership will help bolster the defense. Muschamp is also one of the better defensive coordinators in college football, so it would be very shocking if he didn’t have this unit ready come fall. Didn’t have this unit be very shocking if he didn’t have this unit ready come fall.

Muschamp is also one of the better defensive coordinators in college football, so it would be very shocking if he didn’t have this unit ready come fall. Didn’t have this unit be very shocking if he didn’t have this unit ready come fall.

The defense was exposed a bit in the spring game, but it is difficult to be overly critical in a spring game. Moore is a special player and his leadership will help bolster the defense. Muschamp is also one of the better defensive coordinators in college football, so it would be very shocking if he didn’t have this unit ready come fall.

Meanwhile, the Gamecocks will come in with minimal expectations. They can hang with a chip on their shoulder, but also without a ton of pressure from the fan base. That combination, as well as having a coach with a coaching staff, is likely to result in a team with a coach who has something to prove, screams dark horse.

FOOTBALL PAGE 12

undoubtedly true. What sport a school is defined by is not dependent on short term success or failure, but long-standing traditions and social stigmas.

To offer what it would take for South Carolina to be a basketball school, I will paint you a picture of South Carolina as such.

The year is 2017, and South Carolina is a member of the Big East Conference. Long ago they left the Southeastern Conference, which in Nick Fitzgerald when Mississippi State shows up between the hedges on late September. Georgia is going to have to play very well to win the East.

Meanwhile, the Gamecocks will come in with minimal expectations. They can hang with a chip on their shoulder, but also without a ton of pressure from the fan base. That combination, as well as having a coach with a coaching staff, is likely to result in a team with a coach who has something to prove, screams dark horse.

The coaching staff is also emerging as one of the top recruiting classes. They've got an easy schedule, but still have a few games that will be tough to handle. The coaching staff is also emerging as one of the top recruiting classes. They've got an easy schedule, but still have a few games that will be tough to handle.

11
Dozier sets sight on NBA future, but retains option to return

South Carolina point guard PJ Dozier helped lead the Gamecocks to the Final Four by averaging 15.5 points per game in the NCAA Tournament.

Frank Martin said Dozier is the only five-star recruit Martin has signed to his team at South Carolina. He was a McDonald's All-American out of Spring Valley High School in Colommbia.

The 6-foot-6 point guard made significant strides during his sophomore campaign. He was more efficient at the line and from beyond the arc, while slashing his turnovers from 2.6 to 2.2 per game. Dozier averaged 15.6 points and 4.8 rebounds per game in the NCAA Tournament.

Dozier decided to embark upon his professional career, the Gamecocks will lose three regular starters from their Final Four team as they are already set to absorb the departure of seniors Sindarius Thornwell and Duane Notice and the graduation of Sindarius Thornwell. The Gamecocks will lose a key piece as the team can no longer rely on the three regular starters that they had.

Should Dozier decide to embark upon his professional career, the Gamecocks' featured senior guard will not become a “football school.”

Despite Final Four runs, football will always reign

Alie Dunbar (Charleston Post-Courier)

It’s simple. South Carolina is not and will not become a “football school.”

This is no knock on the recent successes of the men’s and women’s basketball programs. It is no way to understate their tremendous accomplishments, or the overwhelming support that the Gamecock community has put behind them. These programs have surged into the national limelight with South Carolina fans accompanying them every step of the way.

But that still will not change the deep-set culture at this university, the financial landscape of the conference that South Carolina resides in and the special spot in most fans hearts where football resides — a spot that losses, coaching changes or failure can not change.

We should begin by offering a simple definition: What does it mean to be a “football school”?

Others may disagree, but for the purpose of this argument the definition is such: a school with an image most closely tied with the sport of football. A university with traditions stretching deep into the sport of football. And here at South Carolina, both are accomplished.

South Carolina football a dark horse for 2017

Pete Helms (AuburnSports.com)

When South Carolina hired head coach Will Muschamp, most college football fans and writers were highly skeptical that such a pairing would work.

Muschamp failed at Auburn and was coming off a disappointing year as Auburn’s defensive coordinator, where his defense finished last nationally.

People forgot that Muschamp won at one time considered the next big-time coach. He spent a lot of time with Nick Saban at LSU and the Miami Dolphins, was the coach-in-waiting behind Mack Brown at Texas and was the head coach of Florida.

Now, he is in Columbia, where he is largely being ignored by the national media. However, people should take note of what he accomplished last year. South Carolina was predicted to finish dead last in the SEC East, and with good reason. That was a roster that seemed completely devoid of talent. It looked like a walk-on or freshman would be the quarterback. Shaq Morris was going to miss the whole season and there were question marks at almost every position.

The Daily Gamecock
Thursday, April 13, 2017