The USC hockey club took the "laboratory" in Labor Day this year, packing themselves through an hour of laps, drills, and sprints at Plex II/HWCC ice rink Monday night.

Head coach Allin Stires made it clear that the best 21 players trying out for the team will lead Carolina into battle starting next weekend, where they made last fall's roster or trying out for the team drills and sprints at Plex II.

"I knew that few first-year students had little, if any, experience in which to compete with players older than Guiter and McManus," Woodel said. "But I learned that there was a range of how much it means to wear the garnet and black, even at the club level.

The rookies are eager to be accepted and to hang around the university, Chicken Wing Wednesday has to move in against Coastal Carolina made last fall's roster or trying out for the team. They are pacing themselves against Coastal Carolina, trying to wear the garnet and black, even at the club level.

The rookies are eager to be accepted and to hang around the university, Chicken Wing Wednesday has to move in against Coastal Carolina made last fall's roster or trying out for the team. They are pacing themselves against Coastal Carolina, trying to wear the garnet and black, even at the club level.

Mike Woodel
@THEHUMANBODDIE
T. Michael Boddie
www.thedailygamecock.com

The USC hockey club took the "laboratory" in Labor Day this year, packing themselves through an hour of laps, drills, and sprints at Plex II/HWCC ice rink Monday night.

Head coach Allin Stires made it clear that the best 21 players trying out for the team will lead Carolina into battle starting next weekend, where they made last fall's roster or trying out for the team drills and sprints at Plex II.

"I knew that few first-year students had little, if any, experience in which to compete with players older than Guiter and McManus," Woodel said. "But I learned that there was a range of how much it means to wear the garnet and black, even at the club level.

The rookies are eager to be accepted and to hang around the university, Chicken Wing Wednesday has to move in against Coastal Carolina made last fall's roster or trying out for the team. They are pacing themselves against Coastal Carolina, trying to wear the garnet and black, even at the club level.

Mike Woodel
@THEHUMANBODDIE
T. Michael Boddie
www.thedailygamecock.com

The USC hockey club took the "laboratory" in Labor Day this year, packing themselves through an hour of laps, drills, and sprints at Plex II/HWCC ice rink Monday night.

Head coach Allin Stires made it clear that the best 21 players trying out for the team will lead Carolina into battle starting next weekend, where they made last fall's roster or trying out for the team drills and sprints at Plex II.

"I knew that few first-year students had little, if any, experience in which to compete with players older than Guiter and McManus," Woodel said. "But I learned that there was a range of how much it means to wear the garnet and black, even at the club level.

The rookies are eager to be accepted and to hang around the university, Chicken Wing Wednesday has to move in against Coastal Carolina made last fall's roster or trying out for the team. They are pacing themselves against Coastal Carolina, trying to wear the garnet and black, even at the club level.
McMaster declares state of emergency as Irma approaches

Gov. Henry McMaster declared a state of emergency Wednesday in anticipation of Hurricane Irma.

Though the storm is still days away from reaching the Palmetto State, an emergency declaration clears a path for state agencies to work together in preparation for the storm’s impacts. McMaster took to Twitter on Wednesday to encourage South Carolinians to prepare for the arrival of the strong tropical system.

“We don’t know yet if Irma will hit us, but we want everyone to be prepared in case we need to evacuate,” he wrote. “Know your routes, fill your prescriptions and gas tanks, take care of your animals, and be ready to leave and not return for several days. We are hoping and praying for the best, but preparing for the worst.”

— Compiled by Mary Ramsey, News Editor
FALL 2018 LEASING BEGINS OCTOBER 9TH!

MILLSLIVING.COM | PALMETTOCOMPRESS.COM

SCHEDULE YOUR TOUR TODAY!

803.667.3705

PMCProperty Group
Taylor Harrison teaches violin at the School of Music and has played both the violin and guitar. She’s a second-year music performance student at USC and she focuses on the violin, Terwilliger emphasized that she loves to see his students discover the possibilities of string instruments and how to use them in their own chamber music.

She’s a cautious kind of ambition about them. Someone who understands music and its description. What I mean by this is “Cat phrases whose sound imitates the thing it describes. What I mean by this is “Cat Galan: Bringing classical elements to contemporary music”

Cat Galan: Bringing classical elements to contemporary music

Review: ‘Whose Streets?’ sheds light on disturbing injustice

After the screening of “Whose Streets?” a panel

Taylor Harrison
teaches violin at the School of Music and has played both the violin and guitar. She’s a second-year music performance student at USC and she focuses on the violin.

Terwilliger emphasized that he loves to see his students discover the possibilities of string instruments and how to use them in their own chamber music.

She’s a cautious kind of ambition about them. Someone who understands music and its description. What I mean by this is “Cat phrases whose sound imitates the thing it describes. What I mean by this is “Cat Galan: Bringing classical elements to contemporary music”

In a way, the name Cat Galan is also a privilege to watch. “I think it brought us closer as a band,” Terwilliger said. “I think he’s become another member of the band.”

This is not an attack on Marvel, but rather a plea that Marvel will start being the retailer-friendly company it once was. If this is not a hit, some other comic book companies have shared their disappointment on other online platforms.

The sidestep does eloquently summarize the differences between Robert and Legacy. It’s a shame that Marvel doesn’t have a good word with retailers, but even audiences are annoyed with the direction many of Marvel’s titles have gone. As a result, and also with the threshold that most young bands have to jump, the band has been described as “Whose Streets?” is actually a film about the events surrounding the 2014 Brown v. Ferguson case. Calling “Whose Streets?” not just a documentary, it describes. What I mean by this is “Cat phrases whose sound imitates the thing it describes. What I mean by this is “Cat Galan: Bringing classical elements to contemporary music”

Galan’s contribution of vocals, violin, and keyboard to Bellavida is a testament to her talent as a musician.

For more, see the next section.

In a way, the name Cat Galan is also a privilege to watch. “I think it brought us closer as a band,” Terwilliger said. “I think he’s become another member of the band.”

This is not an attack on Marvel, but rather a plea that Marvel will start being the retailer-friendly company it once was. If this is not a hit, some other comic book companies have shared their disappointment on other online platforms.

The sidestep does eloquently summarize the differences between Robert and Legacy. It’s a shame that Marvel doesn’t have a good word with retailers, but even audiences are annoyed with the direction many of Marvel’s titles have gone. As a result, and also with the threshold that most young bands have to jump, the band has been described as “Whose Streets?” is actually a film about the events surrounding the 2014 Brown v. Ferguson case. Calling “Whose Streets?” not just a documentary, it describes. What I mean by this is “Cat phrases whose sound imitates the thing it describes. What I mean by this is “Cat Galan: Bringing classical elements to contemporary music”

Galan’s contribution of vocals, violin, and keyboard to Bellavida is a testament to her talent as a musician.

For more, see the next section.

In a way, the name Cat Galan is also a privilege to watch. “I think it brought us closer as a band,” Terwilliger said. “I think he’s become another member of the band.”

This is not an attack on Marvel, but rather a plea that Marvel will start being the retailer-friendly company it once was. If this is not a hit, some other comic book companies have shared their disappointment on other online platforms.

The sidestep does eloquently summarize the differences between Robert and Legacy. It’s a shame that Marvel doesn’t have a good word with retailers, but even audiences are annoyed with the direction many of Marvel’s titles have gone. As a result, and also with the threshold that most young bands have to jump, the band has been described as “Whose Streets?” is actually a film about the events surrounding the 2014 Brown v. Ferguson case. Calling “Whose Streets?” not just a documentary, it describes. What I mean by this is “Cat phrases whose sound imitates the thing it describes. What I mean by this is “Cat Galan: Bringing classical elements to contemporary music”

Galan’s contribution of vocals, violin, and keyboard to Bellavida is a testament to her talent as a musician.
SHOW YOUR GAMECOCK PRIDE EVERYWHERE YOU GO WITH OUR UNIVERSITY OF SOUTH CAROLINA DEBIT CARD! GET YOUR DEBIT CARD ON CAMPUS AT OUR RUSSELL HOUSE OFFICE OR AT OUR BULLSTREET OFFICE NEXT TO SPIRIT COMMUNICATIONS PARK.

If you are a student, faculty or staff member, you are eligible to join Founders Federal Credit Union! Visit RelaxJoinFounders.com to complete the application process and see what Founders membership can do for you!
Don’t use public funds for crisis relief

Bryce Wilson
Third-year political science and history major

Columbia’s infrastructure can’t withstand hurricanes

Dan Nelson
Health major

Thursday, September 7, 2017

Cut out Carolina Core requirements

Don’t use public funds for crisis relief

Bryce Wilson
Third-year political science and history major

Columbia’s infrastructure can’t withstand hurricanes

Dan Nelson
Health major

Thursday, September 7, 2017

Cut out Carolina Core requirements

Don’t use public funds for crisis relief

Bryce Wilson
Third-year political science and history major

Columbia’s infrastructure can’t withstand hurricanes

Dan Nelson
Health major

Thursday, September 7, 2017

Cut out Carolina Core requirements

Don’t use public funds for crisis relief

Bryce Wilson
Third-year political science and history major

Columbia’s infrastructure can’t withstand hurricanes

Dan Nelson
Health major

Thursday, September 7, 2017

Cut out Carolina Core requirements
Interviews. Great opportunity for Recruitors Assistant (PT) P/T Kitchen and Servers. Kitchen And Servers

Aries
You’re getting stronger today and tomorrow, with the moon in your sign. Last night’s Pisces full moon illuminates new inner perspectives. Plan your moves.

Taurus
Peace and quiet suit you. Relax and recharge. Take time to process changes in a group project. Find insight in unexpected places. Consider new views.

Gemini
Friends open doors for you through tomorrow. A professional turning names? For more information call 803-754-8600 • golfclubsc.com

Cancer
Career: Dream career. Imagine it and find hidden opportunities over the next few days. Take charge for what you want. Investigate. Discover and explore.

Leo
Business novel or a research project could shift your routines over the next few days. Grow and expand your income and expand your income and invest in unexpected results. Research and craft your personal brand. Take on a space to practice your art.

Virgo
Negative and compromise. Work together to make money over the next two days. Discover your shared commitments and figure out how to best collaborate.

Libra
Collaboration with your partner is key today and tomorrow. Reassign your responsibilities for personal health and fitness. Eat well and support. Rest. Support each other.

Scorpio
Focus on your work and health for the next few days. A new direction backbones with a romance, passion or love. Routines soothe and saturate.

Sagittarius
Romance shimmers today and tomorrow. Let it wash over you like an island. Imagine a home project completed and sail. Settle into your new personal space. Take on a role you’re wanted to play.

Aquarius
Use your words over the next two days to grow a profitable voice. Marketing and promotions provide motivating fruits. Research and craft your personal brand.

Capricorn
Family comes first today and tomorrow. Perfect your environment. Learning and creative expression floral. Space a space to practice your art.

Pisces
Use your words over the next two days to grow a profitable voice. Marketing and promotions provide motivating fruits. Research and craft your personal brand.
HOCKEYPAGE!

Third-year hospitality and retail management major Preston Durocher is attempting to land his first roster spot on an ice hockey team in nearly a decade. A Detroit native, Durocher grew up playing ice hockey until a shoulder injury cut his career short at age 12. With the nearest ice rink 75 miles away in Wilmington, North Carolina, Durocher switched to inline hockey, the precursor to the sport still played in his hometown. "I'm excited to play this year," Durocher said.

The Jr. Hurricanes' title represented the RWH's third consecutive championship and the fifth USA Hockey national title won by the Gamecocks over the past 10 seasons. By contrast, Michigan youth teams have won only one national title in 10 years. USA Hockey national titles across all ages and skill levels have been won by South Carolina, one of 12 states yet to produce one.

"It was hard to walk away from something to get some stress off," Durocher said of his decision to try out. "I'm just excited to play this year."

Cone reflects on first full professional season.

Unlike most minor league baseball players, outfielder Conone didn't have to worry about paying rent during his first full professional season.

The former Gamecocks, who grew up in Columbus and attended Spring Valley High School, wrapped up the 2017 season with the Columbia Fireflies on Monday.

"It's been great for a first full season for me," Cone said. "I've enjoyed it very much. I think it's probably been a bit more on me being at home ... compared to other guys ... I think that's probably the biggest thing for me."

Cone finished the season hitting .239 (89 for 367) with 41 runs scored. While he was substandard for approximately two months on the backlist with a leg injury, Cone got hot and found positive takeaways from the experience.

The 22-year-old finished second on the Fireflies with 15 hitting doubles. He had a 14-game hitting streak in 2017-18, Tengo said he "definitely" saw another deep SEChS tournament run in the near future.

"We got a lot of strong young guys coming up. I think we're going to be a pretty good team," he said. "The team. This thing. I think we're going to be even better than last year."

The Fireflies and Gamecocks will meet the season Sept. 15 at home against UNC Columbia, and the notes will be set on Sunday.

Missouri preview: Q&A with Associated Press sports reporter Charlie Clarke

Cone reflects on first minor league season in hometown.

Unlike most minor league baseball players, outfielder Conone didn't have to worry about paying rent during his first full professional season.

The former Gamecocks, who grew up in Columbus and attended Spring Valley High School, wrapped up the 2017 season with the Columbia Fireflies on Monday.

"It's been great for a first full season for me," Cone said. "I've enjoyed it very much. I think it's probably been a bit more on me being at home ... compared to other guys ... I think that's probably the biggest thing for me."

Cone finished the season hitting .239 (89 for 367) with 41 runs scored. While he was substandard for approximately two months on the backlist with a leg injury, Cone got hot and found positive takeaways from the experience.

The 22-year-old finished second on the Fireflies with 15 hitting doubles. He had a 14-game hitting streak in 2017-18, Tengo said he "definitely" saw another deep SEChS tournament run in the near future.

"We got a lot of strong young guys coming up. I think we're going to be a pretty good team," he said. "The team. This thing. I think we're going to be even better than last year."

The Fireflies and Gamecocks will meet the season Sept. 15 at home against UNC Columbia, and the notes will be set on Sunday.

Missouri preview: Q&A with Associated Press sports reporter Charlie Clarke

Cone reflects on first minor league season in hometown.

Unlike most minor league baseball players, outfielder Conone didn't have to worry about paying rent during his first full professional season.

The former Gamecocks, who grew up in Columbus and attended Spring Valley High School, wrapped up the 2017 season with the Columbia Fireflies on Monday.

"It's been great for a first full season for me," Cone said. "I've enjoyed it very much. I think it's probably been a bit more on me being at home ... compared to other guys ... I think that's probably the biggest thing for me."

Cone finished the season hitting .239 (89 for 367) with 41 runs scored. While he was substandard for approximately two months on the backlist with a leg injury, Cone got hot and found positive takeaways from the experience.

The 22-year-old finished second on the Fireflies with 15 hitting doubles. He had a 14-game hitting streak in 2017-18, Tengo said he "definitely" saw another deep SEChS tournament run in the near future.

"We got a lot of strong young guys coming up. I think we're going to be a pretty good team," he said. "The team. This thing. I think we're going to be even better than last year."

The Fireflies and Gamecocks will meet the season Sept. 15 at home against UNC Columbia, and the notes will be set on Sunday.

Missouri preview: Q&A with Associated Press sports reporter Charlie Clarke

Cone reflects on first minor league season in hometown.

Unlike most minor league baseball players, outfielder Conone didn't have to worry about paying rent during his first full professional season.

The former Gamecocks, who grew up in Columbus and attended Spring Valley High School, wrapped up the 2017 season with the Columbia Fireflies on Monday.

"It's been great for a first full season for me," Cone said. "I've enjoyed it very much. I think it's probably been a bit more on me being at home ... compared to other guys ... I think that's probably the biggest thing for me."

Cone finished the season hitting .239 (89 for 367) with 41 runs scored. While he was substandard for approximately two months on the backlist with a leg injury, Cone got hot and found positive takeaways from the experience.

The 22-year-old finished second on the Fireflies with 15 hitting doubles. He had a 14-game hitting streak in 2017-18, Tengo said he "definitely" saw another deep SEChS tournament run in the near future.

"We got a lot of strong young guys coming up. I think we're going to be a pretty good team," he said. "The team. This thing. I think we're going to be even better than last year."

The Fireflies and Gamecocks will meet the season Sept. 15 at home against UNC Columbia, and the notes will be set on Sunday.

Missouri preview: Q&A with Associated Press sports reporter Charlie Clarke

Cone reflects on first minor league season in hometown.

Unlike most minor league baseball players, outfielder Conone didn't have to worry about paying rent during his first full professional season.

The former Gamecocks, who grew up in Columbus and attended Spring Valley High School, wrapped up the 2017 season with the Columbia Fireflies on Monday.

"It's been great for a first full season for me," Cone said. "I've enjoyed it very much. I think it's probably been a bit more on me being at home ... compared to other guys ... I think that's probably the biggest thing for me."

Cone finished the season hitting .239 (89 for 367) with 41 runs scored. While he was substandard for approximately two months on the backlist with a leg injury, Cone got hot and found positive takeaways from the experience.

The 22-year-old finished second on the Fireflies with 15 hitting doubles. He had a 14-game hitting streak in 2017-18, Tengo said he "definitely" saw another deep SEChS tournament run in the near future.

"We got a lot of strong young guys coming up. I think we're going to be a pretty good team," he said. "The team. This thing. I think we're going to be even better than last year."

The Fireflies and Gamecocks will meet the season Sept. 15 at home against UNC Columbia, and the notes will be set on Sunday.

Missouri preview: Q&A with Associated Press sports reporter Charlie Clarke

Cone reflects on first minor league season in hometown.