Multiple RHA execs facing impeachment

Ernie Grigg

South Carolina Coalition of Military

Students' own state-wide campaign: the coalition to work with for the health issues in the state.”

Ernie Grigg, faculty advisor

The South Carolina football team (8-4), ended its regular season with a 34-10 loss to in-state rival Clemson.

USC LOOKS TO MOVE PAST LOSS

Ethan Lena

Saturday’s loss to Clemson was a tough pill to swallow for the South Carolina football team, but there were still positives to take away from an 8-4 regular season, coach Will Muschamp said.

“It sucks losing, but we have to get better,” Sandlin said. “We’re not gonna let this define our program. At the end of the day, we gotta keep working.”

The Gamecocks were outgained by 262 yards and Bentley threw two interceptions in the loss. USC was held to just 21 first downs in a 14-10 defeat to the Tigers, who are at the annual Palmetto Bowl.

Head coach Will Muschamp was not in taking the blame for the poor performance by the Gamecocks and said he needs to play better, he needs to coach better, and it starts with me,” Muschamp said. “(Oldoors) it was hard to get anything going... [I was] disappointed with the showing today.”

South Carolina’s response moving forward will be key for what next season’s team will look like. The Gamecocks finished the year 6-4 overall, a two-win increase from last year’s finishing mark of 6-7.

The Gamecocks are bowl eligible for the second straight season, and will most likely receive a more advanced opponent than last season when they faced South Florida in the Birmingham Bowl.

For the Gamecocks, the 2017 season isn’t a total loss, South Carolina did several good things that it can all on to for next year’s campaign. The team improved in wins, finished second in the SEC East and cracked the Top 25 for the first time in more than two years — not too shabby for the second year of a complete rebuild.

The Gamecocks must return to top tier recruiting in order to develop the talent necessary to compete at an elite level. Following Saturday’s loss, Muschamp said he was “going recruiting tomorrow.”

South Carolina may also need to revise its offensive scheme. In order for a team to win more than 10 games in a season, the entire offense across.

“You’ve done a campaign already and you’re ready to do it in the real world as well,” said alumna Alexia Montour.

Students can get involved in the PRSSA Bateman Case Study Competition by applying for the PRSSA Bateman Case Study Competition for USC by applying for the PRSSA Bateman Case Study Competition for USC by applying for

The Gamecocks beat out the Tigers in this year’s Carolina Blood Battle to ensure Carolina stays at the top of the leaderboard.

South Carolina’s Dance Marathon raised over $20,000, for which Clemson was awarded a trophy at Saturday’s game.

Bateman prepares students for workforce

Meghan Meacham

Members of USC’s 2017 Bateman Team were reunited this month to receive an award of excellence from the International Association of Business Communicators. Though they’re now alumni, the award was a reminder of what the Bateman Team did to prepare them for their careers.

“Nothing at USC prepared me for a class like the Bateman Team did,” said Corrine Dowell, a recent graduate and member of the 2017 Bateman Team.

The team took on a “confusing” client in the spring semester: tackling the broad scope of mental health awareness. The team decided to zoom in on the mental health of the military community.

“Their research was pretty sound,” said Erin Gregg, faculty advisor to the Bateman Team. “They actually discovered that the military community had the most mental health issues in the state.”

Faced with the challenge to find an organization to work with for the Campaign to Change Direction that was not anti-stigma proved to be a challenge, so they focused their own state-wide campaign the South Carolina Coalition of Mental Health Awareness.

The coalition brought 17 organizations together to spread awareness of the five signs of emotional distress to both veterans and active military members. Through their outreach, they were able to create conversations about mental health in the military and even had Columbia Mayor Ben Staunch to declare Military Mental Health Awareness Day on Feb. 24.

“They thought big, they got the buy-in,” Gregg said.

The team received an honorable mention from the Bateman Case Study Competition, finishing in the top ten of about 75 schools from around the country. They also received an Award of Excellence from the International Association of Business Communicators.

Not only were the former students recognized for their hard work, but the Bateman Class and the competition allowed for the former students to gain more advanced experience in PR.

Grigg operates the class like it is an actual job and pushes the students to become the best that they can be. He offers guidance and advice as the students learn how to manage their work hands-on and communicate with the public to get a message

The Gamecocks didn’t find success against the Tigers on the field, but they were victorious against their rival in other ways.

Carolina earned a point in the Palmetto Series for winning the Certified SC Grown Food Drive.

The Gamecocks collected enough food for nearly 97,000 meals, compared to Clemson’s almost 56,000 meals.

Over 900 Gamecocks received award certificates to donate the meals to families in need for the fourth straight time in the Donate Life Lull.

The Gamecock beat out the Tigers in this year’s Carolina Blood Battle to ensure Carolina stays at the top of the leaderboard.

South Carolina’s Dance Marathon raised over $20,000, forcing Clemson to “Sondance” at their main event.

“Nothing at USC prepared me for an actual job and pushes the students to get real-world experience in PR. Competition allowed for the former students to gain more advanced experience in PR,” Grigg said.

The team received an honorable mention from the Bateman Case Study Competition, finishing in the top ten of about 75 schools from around the country. They also received an Award of Excellence from the International Association of Business Communicators.

Not only were the former students recognized for their hard work, but the Bateman Class and the competition allowed for the former students to gain more advanced experience in PR.

Grigg operates the class like it is an actual job and pushes the students to become the best that they can be. He offers guidance and advice as the students learn how to manage their work hands-on and communicate with the public to get a message

The Gamecocks didn’t find success against the Tigers on the field, but they were victorious against their rival in other ways.

Carolina earned a point in the Palmetto Series for winning the Certified SC Grown Food Drive.

The Gamecocks collected enough food for nearly 97,000 meals, compared to Clemson’s almost 56,000 meals.

Over 900 Gamecocks received award certificates to donate the meals to families in need for the fourth straight time in the Donate Life Lull.

The Gamecocks beat out the Tigers in this year’s Carolina Blood Battle to ensure Carolina stays at the top of the leaderboard.

South Carolina’s Dance Marathon raised over $20,000, forcing Clemson to “Sondance” at their main event.

“Nothing at USC prepared me for an actual job and pushes the students to get real-world experience in PR. Competition allowed for the former students to gain more advanced experience in PR,” Grigg said.

The team received an honorable mention from the Bateman Case Study Competition, finishing in the top ten of about 75 schools from around the country. They also received an Award of Excellence from the International Association of Business Communicators.

Not only were the former students recognized for their hard work, but the Bateman Class and the competition allowed for the former students to gain more advanced experience in PR.

Grigg operates the class like it is an actual job and pushes the students to become the best that they can be. He offers guidance and advice as the students learn how to manage their work hands-on and communicate with the public to get a message

The Gamecocks didn’t find success against the Tigers on the field, but they were victorious against their rival in other ways.

Carolina earned a point in the Palmetto Series for winning the Certified SC Grown Food Drive.

The Gamecocks collected enough food for nearly 97,000 meals, compared to Clemson’s almost 56,000 meals.

Over 900 Gamecocks received award certificates to donate the meals to families in need for the fourth straight time in the Donate Life Lull.

The Gamecocks beat out the Tigers in this year’s Carolina Blood Battle to ensure Carolina stays at the top of the leaderboard.

South Carolina’s Dance Marathon raised over $20,000, forcing Clemson to “Sondance” at their main event.
was told on Nov. 20. The senate meeting scheduled for that day was abruptly cancelled by Johnson, who refused to call the meeting to order or grant his powers to another executive board member. Senate members, mainly freshmen, should have the opportunity to attend Tiger Burn that night, Johnson told the executive board and the senate over GroupMe. Johnson has missed three senate meetings.

“I had no idea what the (executive) board could have done,” National Communications Coordinator Dylan Myers said. He is up for impeachment, along with Vice President Ian Paseur, Treasurer Matthew Warren, Secretary Cole Davis, Campus Liaisons Adrius Sampkins and Kat Staggers, Chief Officer of Sustainability Reaghan Murphy and Public Relations Director Mcena Miller.

“To say it bluntly, the organization is in total crisis and chaos,” Warren said in an email. “Communication between the Executive Board and President has broken down completely.”

Myers and multiple members of the senate expressed doubt that the charges would result in impeachment, including Patterson Hall President McKenzi Norris and East Quad President Nick Stathopoulos.

“I do not believe anything will come with the charges and I don’t think anyone should be impeached,” Stathopoulos said in an email. Norris said that he would support an impeachment charge against Johnson, the only executive member not already charged.

The charges will be read at the last two meetings of the semester, at which time the senate will vote on whether to bring each member to an impeachment hearing. Any hearings would likely take place early in the spring semester.

Conde declined to comment before the charges are read at senate. Dilullo and Johnson also had no comment at this time.
The stark reality of cancer confronts comically insensitivity; the sickness of a once-determined pair with a light-hearted narration of suicide letters; the tragedy of a man burning alive counters the ironic, over-dramatic opera music playing in his ears.

The characters and the decisions they make are larger than life. They are real enough that you can hate it and believe in their actions for the sake of the story. But stepping outside of Ebbing, you might question if people would actually commit their lives in this way. It was this element of the characterization — the careful balance of humanity and absurdity — that made the film both mordantly dramatic and sadly hilarious.

The movie's soundtrack also reflected this fine line. The music was sweeping and dramatic at scenes that were over-the-top. It was honest, sad and down-to-earth at moments that were real and absurd.

It is Harrelson's character who physically embodies this technique the most. Though not shouted to the forefront as the person around whom the story revolves, Chief Willoughby is present in some capacity throughout the entire film. He pushes characters to make certain decisions long after it seems that his subplot is over. Even McDormand, with whom Willoughby engages in a small-town war — loves and admires the chief, even if he does so reluctantly. In a sense, he connects people to one another.

This, in essence, is the major triumph of this story; its ability to emphasize the importance of connection. “Three Billboards Outside Ebbing, Missouri” draws ties between humans and nature, comedy and seriousness, kindness and cruelty, friends and enemies. It's a film that you may be able to see just once, because it is a lot to take in. But if you watch it with an open, quiet mind, one time will be enough.
RESERVE A 4-BEDROOM AT GRANBY MILL FOR FALL 2018 AND GET A FREE FLAT SCREEN TV!*

*OFFER LIMITED TO THE FIRST 20 APARTMENTS

MILLSLIVING.COM
SCHEDULE YOUR TOUR TODAY!
803.667.3705
PMCPROPERTYGROUP
One of the most frequently heard complaints of the 10th election cycle was that the news media was biased in one direction or the other. There are certainly instances where a news-organization enforces biased information under the guise of "op-ed," but often the gripe stems from one of two things: an instinctive undertaking by the reader of what the difference is between opinion and news, or an inadequate separation in the media outlets between those things.

If implemented, these provisions will have a significant effect on graduate school and introduce more higher education, which will negatively impact the higher education system.

— Signing the National Association of Graduate Students in Professional Education (NAGSPE) —

— Clint Saidy, mechanical engineering doctoral student

One of the most frequently heard complaints of the 10th election cycle was that the news media was biased in one direction or the other. There are certainly instances where a news-organization enforces biased information under the guise of "op-ed," but often the gripe stems from one of two things: an instinctive undertaking by the reader of what the difference is between opinion and news, or an inadequate separation in the media outlets between those things.

Media outlets have a responsibility not to blur the line between opinion pieces — like letters, editorials, and blogs — and news reporting, which should be, in fact, clear from the piece's writer's point of view. Ultimately, media consumers have a responsibility to critically evaluate what they're reading and understand the distinction between the two. Both parties frequently fail short of those responsibilities.

For example, the New York Times sometimes publishes opinionated pieces outside of its editorial board. But even the reporter can clearly mark that they are, in fact, giving their own views. Fox News and conservative outlets claim they "report on famous facts, not their opinions," and news outlets are often criticized for their "reporter" prefix stories to indicate that they're reporting more like "another attempt to silence conservatives" before they continue to bash the president with an isolated phenomenon. Websites like Fox News and many others follow the same pattern of haring the line between facts and personal opinions.

As the opinion editors at The Daily Gamecock, we have a unique perspective on how our paper fits into this media environment. Our job takes practice to avoid writing like news copy slipping into actual news reporting. Writers who write for us are not allowed to write for news so that our news editor's objectivity cannot be challenged on the basis of their other writing with our news. News reporting is subject to editorial controls, removing opinionated statements and even certain words from their repertoire. News copy doesn't come, as our editors say, "out of the woodwork." We do not have students from the other side of this coin.

One form of the public's interest is to participate in the #ReworkTheReform. Women's studies, highlighting the importance of political science and women's studies in higher education.

— #ReworkTheReform

— Calling for congress to put an end to the consequences of discrimination and the devastating impact that higher education will have on those opposing these provisions

— Signing the National Association of Graduate Students in Professional Education (NAGSPE) –

— Clint Saidy, mechanical engineering doctoral student

— Linden Atelsek and Dan Nelson, opinion editors

If you are left-handed, you probably have been on a guilty trip for humping elbows during writing, as your family joked about how you are “never right.” Society is so long way from accepting left-handedness and using “sinister” terms to refer to left-handedness and most environments still fail to acknowledge the fact that people are different and this university is no exception. Inadequate mechanisms and resources exist for left-handed students and the failure to provide adequate resources in the classroom is alarming.

It is no secret that left-handers are already at a disadvantage. Due to the lack of left-handed materials, the lack of left-handed instructors and the lack of left-handed resources, the failure to provide adequate resources in the classroom is alarming.

Left-handed students at disadvantage

Though schools and universities should be teaching students how to overcome their differences, the lack of left-handed materials instead teaches children that their needs are inferior. Starting in kindergarten, ill-fitting right-handed scissors force a lifetime of obviously uncomfortable and inefficient tools. Students often use scissors and three-ring binders that are not a major problem.

Left-handed people make up only 10 percent of the population, it is not surprising that not everyone is familiar with the quirks that go along with being left-handed. Unfortunately, the effects are worse than many realize, and using incorrect desks often results in body alignments that are unfavorable for the spine and eyes. Ergonomics and back.

To make matters worse, that awkward posture sometimes leads to accusations of cheating. Personally, the math problems can cause by right-handed desk usage has not been extremely clear to editors on our computer screen or teleprompter may be a puddle desk to the casual reader or voter. Our work in our section, route and pick words specifically designed to deceive the reader, but these nuances might be lost on people who haven’t had as much experience with the inner workings of a news outlet as we have.

If our goal is to provide the plain text: Letter to the editor: The Daily Gamecock, 140 Greene Street, Columbia, SC 29601

LETTER TO THE EDITOR REQUIREMENTS

Letters to the editor must not exceed 350 words. Students must include their full name, position, and department. Community members must include their full name and applicable job title. Verifiable facts must include at least one source (if we cannot verify a statement, a fact or letter will not be published until the writer implements necessary changes or supplies additional facts in question. Letters are edited for clarity and grammar. Email submissions to op-ed@dailygamecock.com or mail them to

The Daily Gamecock
140 Greene Street
Columbia, SC 29601

"WE HAD A PROCEDURAL CRISENY, "ALF, SAYS THE WHITE HORSE. BUT THE TERRRIRIER FEEDED YOUR INVITATION."
Aries

Review priorities, and adapt your plans to circumstances. Slow to avoid hidden dangers. If an invitation goes against your grain, turn it down.

Leo

Family financial matters have your attention. Share your concerns with someone who always tells the truth. Accept assistance and support. Make future plans together.

Capricorn

Get the word out about what you’re up to. Communications and transport flow with long-distance ease. Look at what you have differently. Follow your hunches.

Aquarius

Keep producing valuable results. You’re earning long-term points. Old assumptions get challenged; keep your mind open. A little effort now goes a long way.

Taurus

Check public opinion. Prepare for an upcoming event or launch. Plan your moves, and coordinate with your team. Lay the background and foundation for success.

Gemini

Promote your career and dress to impress. Your creative partnership pays off. The truth gets revealed in a lovely way. Discuss future options.

Scorpio

Have fun, and let your heart dictate your actions. The best things in life now go a long way. Your actions. The best things in life now go a long way. Your actions.

Sagittarius

Create harmony at home with color, delicious fragrances and music. Make a long-term improvement to raise your family’s comfort level. Share the coziest.

Cancer

Explore new fields of study. Figure out what skills to grow. What skills to grow.”

Virgo

You and a partner can make beautiful music together. Focus on future possibilities and dream up something wonderful. Create foundational rhythms and then add harmony.

Libra

Maintain physical and health routines that build your energy. You’re getting stronger and more confident.

Pisces

Aries

Family financial matters have your attention. Share your concerns with someone who always tells the truth. Accept assistance and support. Make future plans together.

Capricorn

Get the word out about what you’re up to. Communications and transport flow with long-distance ease. Look at what you have differently. Follow your hunches.

Aquarius

Keep producing valuable results. You’re earning long-term points. Old assumptions get challenged; keep your mind open. A little effort now goes a long way.

Taurus

Check public opinion. Prepare for an upcoming event or launch. Plan your moves, and coordinate with your team. Lay the background and foundation for success.

Gemini

Promote your career and dress to impress. Your creative partnership pays off. The truth gets revealed in a lovely way. Discuss future options.

Scorpio

Have fun, and let your heart dictate your actions. The best things in life now go a long way. Your actions. The best things in life now go a long way. Your actions.

Sagittarius

Create harmony at home with color, delicious fragrances and music. Make a long-term improvement to raise your family’s comfort level. Share the coziest.

Cancer

Explore new fields of study. Figure out what skills to grow. What skills to grow. Support each other.

Virgo

You and a partner can make beautiful music together. Focus on future possibilities and dream up something wonderful. Create foundational rhythms and then add harmony.

Libra

Maintain physical and health routines that build your energy. You’re getting stronger and more confident.

Pisces

Cancer

Explore new fields of study. Figure out what skills to grow. What skills to grow. Support each other.

Virgo

You and a partner can make beautiful music together. Focus on future possibilities and dream up something wonderful. Create foundational rhythms and then add harmony.

Libra

Maintain physical and health routines that build your energy. You’re getting stronger and more confident.

Pisces

Cancer

Explore new fields of study. Figure out what skills to grow. What skills to grow. Support each other.

Virgo

You and a partner can make beautiful music together. Focus on future possibilities and dream up something wonderful. Create foundational rhythms and then add harmony.

Libra

Maintain physical and health routines that build your energy. You’re getting stronger and more confident.

Pisces

Cancer

Explore new fields of study. Figure out what skills to grow. What skills to grow. Support each other.

Virgo

You and a partner can make beautiful music together. Focus on future possibilities and dream up something wonderful. Create foundational rhythms and then add harmony.

Libra

Maintain physical and health routines that build your energy. You’re getting stronger and more confident.

Pisces

Cancer

Explore new fields of study. Figure out what skills to grow. What skills to grow. Support each other.

Virgo

You and a partner can make beautiful music together. Focus on future possibilities and dream up something wonderful. Create foundational rhythms and then add harmony.

Libra

Maintain physical and health routines that build your energy. You’re getting stronger and more confident.

Pisces

There is the fact that just under a third of Bentley’s points in the final frame.

Bryant made difference in QB battle

We were practicing corners when I went down, and I was trying to hit the back side of the field. This was a continuation of her assist on Frisk’s goal. Grace Fisk’s header off a Lindsey corner kick in the 38th minute and Lindsey’s shot from outside the penalty area in the 77th minute made the difference in the Gamecocks’ fourth consecutive shutout of the NCAA Tournament.

Mike Woodel

The truth lies somewhere within the facts.

South Carolina is down 10 with 11:11 to play, but the Gamecocks will take this one.

As it was that early goal that allowed the Gamecocks to control the play of early left and allow Carolina to stretch its lead.

It was a 4-0 win for the Gamecocks.

Lindsey Lane corner kick in Orlando.

But Bentley seemed to hold himself accountable.

Two of 26 yards, allowing Carolina to move past the 100-yard mark for the third time this season.

But when asked about the gap between these two teams, Bentley seemed to hold himself accountable.

South Carolina is still far and away one of the toughest teams to score from anywhere in their opponent’s half.

The defense was much closer to playing like they did last season as well. The Gamecocks outscored the Wolfpack and the Eagles in the second half of their last score in a 1-0 upset over the Wolfpack.

In the SEC, Bryant finished with 1,266 yards and 12 touchdowns.

It was that early goal that allowed the Gamecocks to control the play of early left and allow Carolina.

There are no shortage of top in the SEC.

The Gamecocks won 12 of 21 games this year.

But the Gamecocks were through the air. Kelly Bryant finished his night through the air. Kelly Bryant finished his night.

But what it comes down to is this: Bryant and Bentley seemed to hold himself accountable.

But when asked about the gap between these two teams, Bentley seemed to hold himself accountable.

The defense was much closer to playing like they did last season as well. The Gamecocks outscored the Wolfpack and the Eagles in the second half of their last score in a 1-0 upset over the Wolfpack.

In the SEC, Bryant finished with 1,266 yards and 12 touchdowns.

It was that early goal that allowed the Gamecocks to control the play of early left and allow Carolina.

Bryant made difference in QB battle

As it was that early goal that allowed the Gamecocks to control the play of early left and allow Carolina to stretch its lead.

It was a 4-0 win for the Gamecocks.

Lindsey Lane corner kick in Orlando.

But Bentley seemed to hold himself accountable.

Two of 26 yards, allowing Carolina to move past the 100-yard mark for the third time this season.

But when asked about the gap between these two teams, Bentley seemed to hold himself accountable.

South Carolina is down 10 with 11:11 to play, but the Gamecocks will take this one.

As it was that early goal that allowed the Gamecocks to control the play of early left and allow Carolina to stretch its lead.

It was a 4-0 win for the Gamecocks.

Lindsey Lane corner kick in Orlando.