THE SOUTH CAROLINA LAW QUARTERLY

VOL. 2

SEPTEMBER, 1949

NO. 1

FOREWORD

Continuing our efforts to publish timely articles of lasting value to the practicing attorney, we are happy to present in the first part of Volume 2 a scholarly article by Professor Coleman Karesh entitled Probate Court Jurisdiction Over Testamentary Trusts. We feel sure that this article will be a valuable addition to any law library. Due to the length of this article it will be the only leading article in this issue.

It is with regret that we must renege on our promise to publish in this issue an article on the divorce situation in South Carolina. However, circumstances beyond our control prevent publication of the promised article. Undoubtedly such an article will be forthcoming in the near future but no definite commitments will again be made.

The reader's attention is invited to the student work contained in each issue of the QUARTERLY. In the notes and case notes presented the answer can be found to some of the unsettled questions of law. In this issue we have an interesting sidelight on the removal question in federal procedure. Different phases of bailment, labor law and trusts are brought forth for attention. The careful work done by students in preparing this material is to be highly commended.
