EDITOR'S FOREWORD

With this issue, Volume III of the QUARTERLY is completed and we feel that the two articles presented herein will add greatly to the value of this Volume to the South Carolina Bar.

The first article is entitled Restrictive Covenant Cases Reviewed by Professor Richard C. Baker of Drake University. Professor Baker reviews the historical background and problems presented by the recent decisions of Shelley v. Kraemer and Hurd v. Hodge.

The second article is the second part of the three part treatment of the UNIFORM PARTNERSHIP ACT and its effect on the existant South Carolina law on the subject, by Professor Coleman Karesh of the University of South Carolina Law School. In this scholarly article Professor Karesh compares each section of the UNIFORM Act with the South Carolina cases involving the particular point discussed.

This issue also marks the first endeavor of the new staff. At this time the new Editorial and Business Staffs would like to express our appreciation to the outgoing Editor A. A. Rosenblum and his Staff for the help and guidance they have given us in this presentation, and to extend to them our best wishes for success in their chosen profession.

W. JERRY FEDDER.
