EDITOR'S FOREWORD

This is the first of four issues of Volume 4 of the QUARTERLY. With a feeling of pride in the strides made by this publication in three short years, we would like to review its progress.

From its inception in the Fall of 1948, the QUARTERLY has gained in stature within this State and on a National level. A student-edited and managed publication, its aim has been and remains to serve the South Carolina Bar and the student body of the University of South Carolina Law School. Much of the credit for the progress made by the QUARTERLY is due to Professor James D. Sumner, who begins a year's leave of absence this September for study at Yale. Professor Sumner, together with Dean Prince and Professor Karesh, have given this and preceding staffs their undivided cooperation, and for this we would like to express our gratitude.

In this issue is found the minutes of the annual meeting of the South Carolina Bar Association, held this year in Greenville, South Carolina. This meeting was perhaps the most successful in the history of the Association. Also included in this issue is the third installment of Professor Coleman Karesh's article on the "Uniform Partnership Act" and its effect on South Carolina Law.

In the way of student work this issue contains an exhaustive study on the law of Independent Contractors in South Carolina by Mr. H. P. Smith.

Any comments or suggestions from our readers will be appreciated.
