book reviews

Dear Readers:

After a hiatus, South Carolina Libraries has resumed publication, once again providing librarians, library workers, and library students with a venue to read about and publish research, news, and book reviews. If you've ever considered writing a book review, now is a great time. Publishers are often willing to send a free copy for review, and as Book Review Editor, I can facilitate this process for you.

If you are interested in reviewing a book for South Carolina Libraries, I will be happy to provide you with a list of suggested titles, or you can contact me if you have a title in mind that meets any of the guidelines below.

Book Review Guidelines

Titles for review must meet at least one of these criteria:

1. Be written by a South Carolina author
2. Address South Carolina related content
3. Contain content of interest to South Carolina libraries
4. Be released by a South Carolina publisher
5. Be related to libraries

The following information must be included when writing a review if it is available:

1. Title
2. Publisher
3. Date of Publication
4. Place of Publication
5. ISBN
6. List Price
7. Your name, position, and library
8. One line about yourself

Suggestions for what to include in a review:

1. Quality and value of the material for its intended audience
2. Comment on the author's/editor's affiliation, subject knowledge, previous publication(s), writing style, and approach or point of view
3. Critical comparison with similar works
4. Who is the intended audience, recommended age range, type of library
5. Have fun and make it interesting

We ask for reviews of 400 – 600 words and the book should have been published within the past two years. Book reviews are accepted on a rolling basis. For more information, please contact me at winches2@mailbox.sc.edu.

Thank you,
