Letter from the Co-Editors

Welcome to the 2021 SCLA Annual Conference edition of the South Carolina Libraries. As you listen and read the news from across the country, you will see so many librarians uniting to support their patrons in so many ways. Although you may not be making headlines, we know you are doing amazing projects within your libraries and communities. This issue of South Carolina Libraries highlights many of the projects, research, and programs that have been happening during these challenging times. This issue is filled with proceedings from the 2021 SCLA Annual Conference. We encourage you to explore what your fellow librarians shared about what they are doing right here in South Carolina.

In the spirit of taking a pause, take a little time for some reflection about your experiences and work over the previous few months and consider your goals for the upcoming months. We would love to hear your voices in the pages of South Carolina Libraries. Consider sharing your research and news in the upcoming fall issue. Do you have a research idea that you would like to collaborate on with others from around the state? Reach out to us by simply completing this form and we can try to make some connections. We would love to hear your voices in the pages of South Carolina Libraries.
