EDITOR'S FOREWORD

This is the first of four issues of Volume 8 of the South Carolina Law Quarterly. The first issue of this publication was printed in the Fall of 1948. Looking back to this beginning we suddenly realize that this was seven volumes or twenty-eight issues ago! During these seven years the Quarterly has grown in many ways. The size, circulation, and the number of contributors have all increased. This issue will be read by well over one thousand subscribers in South Carolina and practically every other state in the United States as well as others in England, Australia, Pakistan, and other foreign countries. In addition, the number of requests for back copies is increasing each day.

The aim of the Quarterly is that of service to the South Carolina Bar and the student body of the University of South Carolina Law School. Much of the credit for progress in this endeavor is due to the whole-hearted cooperation of Dean Prince, Professor King and Professor Karesh. Credit is also due to the entire South Carolina Bar Association, without whose support such a publication would be doomed to remain in the category of an infant publication.

This issue is devoted to the publication of the second Annual Survey of South Carolina Law. The contributors have made an exhaustive survey and have summarized the past year's developments into concise and orderly articles on the different subjects in the field of law. Our appreciation is extended to the Annual Survey of South Carolina Law Committee of the South Carolina Bar Association and to the writers of the herein published articles for their cooperation in making this Survey possible.
