SYMPOSIUM: THE FEDERAL COURTS: THE NEXT 100 YEARS

DEAN'S REMARKS

CHARLES H. RANDALL, JR.*

The University of South Carolina School of Law was pleased and proud to sponsor the symposium, The Federal Courts: The Next 100 Years. The Symposium has been officially recognized by the Commission on the Bicentennial of the United States Constitution. We are very pleased that the South Carolina Law Review has been able to publish the principal papers, comments by the panelists, and a summation by Professor James L. Underwood of our faculty.

Principal credit for the organization of this Symposium belongs to Judge Donald S. Russell and Senior Judge Clement F. Haynsworth, Jr., of the United States Court of Appeals for the Fourth Circuit; Professor Charles Alan Wright of the University of Texas School of Law; and, from our own faculty, Associate Dean Harry J. Haynsworth IV and former Dean Harry M. Lightsey, Jr., now President of the College of Charleston. The excellence of the cast they assembled matched the profundity and importance of the subject matter.

* Acting Dean and Professor of Law, University of South Carolina School of Law.
