The University Libraries ranked 37th among public research libraries in the United States, according to the Association of Research Libraries.

The libraries own more than 3,225,000 books and serial volumes, 944,000 documents, and 323,000 maps. Users have access to more than 300 electronic databases via approximately 250 computer workstations. The libraries’ online catalog received nearly 3 million requests for information during the year.

About 1.2 million visitors entered through the libraries’ doors last year and checked out about 309,000 items.

The libraries expended a total of $6,567,639 during the year on such materials as books, journals, Internet products, electronic databases, electronic books, newspapers, microforms, videos, sound recordings, visual materials, CD-ROMs, and manuscripts.

UNIVERSITY LIBRARIES FACTS AND FIGURES

ADMINISTRATIVE CHANGES

- Thomas F. McNally, formerly director of Thomas Cooper Library, was appointed interim dean of the University Libraries on July 1.
- Pamela Cowart was appointed director of advancement for the University Libraries on July 2.
- Mary Horton was appointed director of administrative services for the University Libraries on June 16.

IN MEMORIAM

- Charles J. Alber, who gave the University Libraries his extensive collection of materials by and about leading contemporary Chinese writer Ding Ling and named the Treasures Acquisition Program as a recipient of memorials, passed away on June 13.
- Matthew J. Bruccoli, who built the libraries’ Matthew J. and Arlyn Bruccoli Collection of F. Scott Fitzgerald, the Joseph M. Bruccoli Great War Collection, and other American literature collections, died on June 4.
- John E. Swearingen, major University benefactor, passed away on Sept. 14. Swearingen’s personal papers have been given to the South Caroliniana Library.
- Kenneth E. Toombs, who served the University as director of the libraries from 1967 to 1988, passed away on March 4.
The measure of any library, no matter how great or how small, has to do with the quality of the library’s collections, services, spaces, and staff. Any library that has wonderful collections in all the areas required by its users; has beautiful, comfortable spaces for people to read, socialize and study; provides exactly the services that assist users and makes them more productive; and has exceptional, bright, friendly, and helpful librarians will be the finest library on the planet. That is exactly the goal of our University Libraries.

This year’s Annual Report focuses on service. And what a time in the history of the libraries to be a librarian providing service! Today we can find virtually anything that has ever been published and deliver it to our users anywhere in the world, in whatever format they wish it to be.

That’s the good news. The bad news is that if you can find anything, how can you find the one thing that you really need? That’s where service librarians become all-important. Our librarians interact with users in person, on the phone, through instant messaging, online chat sessions, and social networking software systems. If someone invents a way to communicate, our librarians will find a way to use it to help our users.

Library service is not just answering questions or delivering information. It is selecting the materials that will be of the greatest value to our users. It is acquiring these resources in a timely and cost-efficient manner, and organizing materials and catalogs that will guide users to what they are seeking.

There is really much more. New approaches, like digitization, make local resources available worldwide. Old services like reshelving materials where they belong are still vital to the more than 3 million volumes we own. And opening the Thomas Cooper Library 24 hours a day, seven days a week is a monumental service in itself.

In short, the world of library services is both new and old and evolving every day. It is my sincere hope that you will enjoy reading about the services that are being provided every day by the dedicated individuals of our University Libraries.

Tom McNally
Interim Dean of Libraries

The reference librarians at the University of South Carolina are service-oriented. They find great satisfaction in helping students, faculty, and patrons from the community find the information they need and are continually trying to find new ways to connect people and information.

Reference librarians are available to students and faculty in a variety of ways including one-on-one interviews at the Reference Desk, as well as by e-mail, chat, IM, and phone. Instruction by librarians is conducted in the classrooms of Library 100, University 101, Freshman English, and many upper-level courses. The resources purchased by the University for its libraries are literally at the fingertips of the library visitor with worldwide connections available through the Internet.

Librarians consider themselves successful when information connects to a person, so don’t be surprised if you hear a reference librarian say, “Go ahead, ask me a question; make my day.”

Processing Services actively supports USC’s academic mission and the University Libraries’ mission of making resources and information available quickly and accurately to the University community. By organizing available information resources via the library’s Web site and online catalog, the Processing Services staff supports the teaching and research needs of faculty, staff and students and the support role of public-service librarians in helping them to identify, select, and locate materials that will best contribute to their thinking, research, and writing.

We’re working in the background to make your library experience a fulfilling one. When we do our jobs right, you find that the material you want in our collection just waiting for you to make use of it.

“A CONTRIBUTION TO THE WELFARE OF OTHERS” LIBRARIANS TALK ABOUT LIBRARY SERVICES
“Service” is defined by Merriam-Webster, in part, as “a contribution to the welfare of others.” For academic librarians, service by this definition is both part and parcel of the way we see our roles—serving others through the wide variety of opportunities extended to us as purveyors of information, keepers of the storehouse of knowledge, preservers of the past, and those who help point the way to the future.

At the South Caroliniana Library's Manuscripts Division, staff members preserve and make accessible to researchers primary materials dating from the 1680s to the present.

But there are other means through which service is extended: seeking out and accepting for the library's permanent collection personal papers and manuscripts, as well as institutional and business records, deemed to be of lasting importance and research value; analyzing these newly acquired collections and revisiting primary materials held for many years by the library so that we may provide the level of access that is necessary if we are to successfully connect users with collection materials through online catalog records and auxiliary finding aids that can be consulted via the library's Web site; providing general orientations and subject specific bibliographic instruction for USC classes and secondary school groups; supporting the work of youthful scholars of tomorrow engaged in National History Day projects; and extending points of entry to the collection for public school teachers of South Carolina who participate in the annual Teaching American History program and seek ways to integrate primary research materials into classroom instruction.

In today's digital age, a significant new tool of library service is providing increased opportunities for collaboration between library professionals while profoundly impacting user needs. The staffs of the Manuscripts Division and the Digital Collections office have partnered to make available online several collections of South Carolina history documents in digital format. These range from Revolutionary War–era letter books and journals to correspondence of both Union and Confederate soldiers in the Civil War, to documents detailing the grassroots struggle of African Americans for civil rights in the mid-20th century. Through these digital collections service is extended to users worldwide in a way never before possible.

Notable Acquisitions

Many valuable items were purchased for Thomas Cooper Library through library endowments, including the Robert I. and Swannanoa Kenny Phillips Library Endowment, the Katharine Otis and Bruce Oswald Hunt Biography Collection Endowment, the Donna I. Sorensen Endowment Fund for Southern Women in the Arts, and the War Years Library Acquisitions Endowment. A notable gift was received from Sharon Horton of more than 800 books on paranormal phenomena. All told, more than 76,400 items were acquired through gifts and endowment purchases.

Reference Services
During calendar year 2007, reference librarians at the Thomas Cooper, Business, Math, Music, and Newsfilm Libraries responded to 128,497 requests for information and research assistance.

During the year, the libraries’ reference librarians began a new service called LibGuides which may be found at www.sc.edu/library. LibGuides is a Web publishing system that brings together at one site reference books, article databases, electronic journals, Websites, and digital collections relevant to a specific course or subject.

Reference librarians at TCL taught library and research skills to 3,940 students in 222 sections of University 101 and English 101 and 102 during the year. They also provided 111 discipline-specific classes to 2,444 students and taught two sections of LIBR 100, which enrolled a total of 44 students.

Circulation Services
New services provided by the Circulation Department this year include Book Delivery, Paging Service, and E-Reserves. More than 250 faculty and staff members used Book Delivery to receive 1,713 books. More than 5,400 items were supplied to patrons through the Paging Service and 1,352 items were placed on E-Reserves.

Interlibrary Loan Services
A new service, “Scan and Deliver,” provides desktop delivery of articles and book chapters from titles owned by the University Libraries.

During the year, ILL borrowed 17,670 items from other institutions, loaned 23,660 items, delivered 9,195 articles electronically to patrons’ desktops, and delivered 4,850 articles through “Scan and Deliver.”
Government Information Services
TCL’s Government Information, Microforms, Newspapers, and Maps Department’s staff members relocated current newspaper collections to the Main Floor, increased seating capacity in the department by 25 percent, and began to provide free digital microform copying to all users.

During the year the department received 5,721 print and electronic acquisitions and 9,357 microfiche sheets from the Government Printing Office, as well as 4,050 other print and electronic acquisitions, 489 reels of microfilm, and 14,715 other sheets of microfiche. Staff members transferred 31,996 items to the Library Annex and answered 26,737 reference questions.

Professional Activities
Marilee Birchfield was a member of the Association of College and Research Libraries’ (ACRL) Evaluation and Selection Project for education journal titles in JSTOR and served as a usability tester for Education Resources Information Center (ERIC) database development. She taught Social Science Information Services for the School of Library and Information Science.

Betty Boswell retired from her position as library manager I in Processing Services.

Karen Brown indexed 10 journals for the Annual Bibliography of English Language and Literature and directed the University’s Fall Festival of Authors. She chaired the South Carolina Library Association’s (SCLA) College and University Libraries Section and presented a poster session, “LIBR 100: Information Literacy, The History and Future of a One-Credit Information Literacy Course” at the SCLA 2007 conference.

Gerri Corson served as program chair for the SCLA College and University Libraries Section. With Rebecca Gettys, she presented “Connecting with Students in Their Digital World: LibGuides in Two Academic Libraries” at the Electronic Resources and Libraries 2008 Annual Conference in Atlanta.

Jo Cottingham retired from her position as a librarian in the Interlibrary Loan Department.

Joshua Garris presented “Preservation Training Initiative for Small Libraries and Museums in South Carolina and Virginia,” a virtual copresentation with Holly Herro at Virginia Commonwealth University.

Gary Geer served on the editorial board of the journal Collection Management and as a judge for ForeWord Magazine’s 2007 Book of the Year Award.

Rebecca Gettys presented “Transforming Content: Using LibGuides to Harness Web 2.0 Resources” at the Southeastern Library Network (SOLINET) Annual Membership Meeting in Atlanta. She also served the SCLA as secretary of the College and University Section and as a member of the Editorial Committee.

Kathleen McAlister accepted a position as catalog librarian.

David McQuillan served as chair of the Special Libraries Association’s International Relations Committee, secretary/treasurer of the Geography and Map Libraries Section of the International Federation of Library Associations and Institutions (IFLA), project organizer for the IFLA Guidelines for Paper Maps in Libraries, and curator for the South Carolina Academy of Sciences.

Caroline Ogburn retired as library technical assistant in Processing Services.

Jodi Spillane served as a member of the Partnership Among South Carolina Academic Libraries (PASCAL) Union Bibliographic Committee.

Bill Sudduth served on the Executive Committee of the Association of Southeastern Research Libraries’ (ASERL) Federal Regional Depository Library Project and served as an intern on the American Library Association’s Committee on Legislation.

Sharon Verba served as S.C. liaison to the national Lots of Copies Keep Stuff Safe (LOCKSS) program.

Virginia Weathers served on the H.W. Wilson Advisory Panel.

Andrea Wright accepted the position of science reference librarian. In 2007, Wright received the Lucille M. Wert Scholarship Award from the American Chemical Society, Division of Chemical Information. She also served as project coordinator for the ASERL Ask-a-Librarian Online Chat Reference service.
The South Caroliniana Library collects and preserves materials pertaining to the history, literature, and culture of South Carolina and makes them available to the citizens of the state.

Statistics

During 2007–2008, the South Caroliniana Library accessioned 159.33 linear feet of new collections, received 4,979 individual manuscripts, and added 273 manuscript volumes. The library’s holdings of South Carolina newspapers increased with the addition of 208 microfilm rolls from commercial sources.
vendors and 173 rolls produced by the library’s Micrographics Division. This division also produced six rolls of church, business, and organizational records.

The Manuscripts Division recorded 1,443 research visits and retrieved 279,781 manuscripts and manuscript volumes for use by researchers.

The Published Materials Division received 4,296 research visitors for whom staff retrieved 10,203 stack items, including books, serials, maps, newspaper volumes, and reels of microfilm. Two hundred forty interlibrary loan requests were filled. Reference questions answered included 3,737 in person, 1,912 by telephone, and 938 by e-mail or postal mail. The cataloger for published materials added 1,399 new titles to the online catalogue. More than 4,000 books and serials were rehoused and/or received conservation treatment in-house.

The visual materials librarian responded to 470 reference requests for images, completed 67 requests for copies of images, and created 207 original MARC-VM records for the online catalog.

Exhibits and Events
“Starting From Five” part of the Bicentennial Celebration of the University’s first commencement at the Newberry Opera House and at the Visitor’s Center

“The Great Adventure: The University of South Carolina and World War I” public lecture and exhibit, which is online at www.scforwardtogether.org

Reception for attendees of academic symposium “Forward Together: South Carolina and the Nation in World War I”

Book signing for South Carolina authors, Dec. 5, honoring Robert Ackerman, Andrew Billingsley, Wilmot Irvin, Terry Lipscomb, James D. McCallister, John Hammond Moore, Karen Petit, and Mary W. and Martin N. Schaller

Reception at USC Aiken exhibiting the materials from the Mary Walther Oswald Collection relating to her career as a librarian in the Pacific during World War II, as well as documents and images about the history of Aiken, S.C.

Seventy-second annual meeting of the University South Caroliniana Society (USCS), presided over by President Steve Griffith, who also presented the address, “Two South Carolinians Worthy of Remembrance: Joel Roberts Poinsett and Walker Gill Wylie”

During the year the society published its Annual Report of acquisitions, two issues each of the newsletters, Caroliniana Columns and Voices from the Caroliniana, the Newsletter of the Oral History Program at the South Caroliniana Library.

Professional Accomplishments
Beth Bilderback served as chair-elect of the Society of American Archivists’ (SAA) Visual Materials Section and as liaison to the Architectural Records Roundtable. She published two Architectural Records Roundtable columns for Views: Newsletter of Visual Materials Section of SAA. Bilderback presented talks to the National Endowment for the Humanities Institute and Teaching American History Institute and a workshop, “Caring for Photographs” at a Congregational Heritage Archives Symposium held at Lutheran Theological Southern Seminary in Columbia.

She also supervised two HIST 790 interns during the fall semester.

Henry Fulmer edited and typeset the USCS Annual Report of gifts. He also presented a workshop “Creating Church Archives” a Congregational Heritage Archives Symposium held at Lutheran Theological Southern Seminary and served as a panelist and presenter about “African-American History as Public History” at the National Endowment for the Humanities Summer Institute. Fulmer supervised two interns from the School of Library and Information Science and a practicum project for a history graduate student in basic archives.

Allen Stokes served on the Editorial Board of the South Carolina Historical Magazine and as secretary-treasurer of the USCS.

Elizabeth West published “Addressing the Great War,” in Sandlapper, the Magazine of South Carolina (Winter 2007) and a chapter in Forward Together: South Carolinians in the Great War (History Press, 2007). West also served on the Board of Trustees’ 1807 Commencement Commemoration Committee and chaired the Subcommittee on Exhibits, Logos, Resolutions, and Formal Recognitions. She also co-directed “Forward Together: South Carolina in World War I,” a multi-institutional project that produced exhibits, a Web site, a book, a public lecture series, and a symposium to commemorate the 90th anniversary of the U.S. entry into the Great War.
RARE BOOKS AND SPECIAL COLLECTIONS

Rare Books and Special Collections (RBSC) owns and cares for a collection of more than 134,000 items valued in excess of $175 million. During 2007–2008, RBSC staff members cataloged and added 9,392 items, chiefly from the Wickenheiser and Savage Collections, and processed 21 linear feet of archival material. The newly digitized facsimile of the University’s copy of Phillis Wheatley’s Poems on Various Subjects was reported on NPR and in over 100 newspapers worldwide, including the Washington Post, Pravda, and the Taiwan News service.

Nearly 90 percent of RBSC researchers are USC faculty or students; another five percent come from elsewhere in South Carolina; and the rest are from universities elsewhere in the U.S. or from abroad (this year from Britain, Germany, and Italy).

Notable Acquisitions

Cistercian Preacher’s Miscellany (ca. 1269), purchased with funding from the B.H. Breslauer Foundation.

Leaf from the Llangattock Breviary, ca.1450, purchased with support from the Thomas Cooper Society.

Edmund Spenser, The Faerie Queen . . . with other works (1617).

John Milton, The Judgement of Martin Bucer, first edition (1644), purchased by the Thomas Cooper Society and Paradise Lost, 2nd edition (1674), and seven other 17th-century editions, donated by Prof. Roy Flannagan.

Al-Ghārd fi ḥaṭha ’l-Kitab Dhikr al-Salah ‘ala ’l-Nabi‘, Islamic manuscript (18th century), donated by Prof. G. Ross Roy.

Regimental Return of Strength, Second South Carolina Regiment, signed by Francis Marion (1778), donated by James P. Barrow, ‘61.

Collection of Manuscripts by Robert Burns, and the W. Ormiston Roy Papers, donated by Prof. and Mrs. G. Ross Roy.

“Heaven,” oil painting after John Martin (ca. 1860), donated by Dr. and Mrs. Robert F. Wickenheiser.

Isaac Rosenberg, Self-portrait [sketch, ca. 1910], donated by Dr. Joseph Cohen.

The Charline C. Brandt Kennedys Collection, donated by Charline C. Brandt, ’58.

Exhibits and Events

Major events of the year included the Fall Writers Festival, with Galway Kinnell, Bobbie Ann Mason, and James Barilla; talk by children’s writer Jacqueline Woodson; opening lecture by Prof. Scott Gwara and concert for “Pages from the Past,” talk on Garibaldi by Prof. Lucy Riall of the University of London, and Thomas Cooper Society Annual Dinner with Janette Turner Hospital as speaker and recipient of the Thomas Cooper Medal for Distinction in the Arts and Sciences, presided over by President Judith Felix.

Professional Activities

Jeffrey Makala published (with Matthew J. Bruccoli) the exhibit catalogue Scottie Fitzgerald: The Stewardship of Literary Memory, (Thomas Cooper Library, 2007).

For the Southeast Book Arts Association Conference, Makala presented “Everything Old is New Again, Or, How Early Printed Books Can Inform Contemporary Book Arts” and hosted a workshop utilizing the USC Book Arts Studio, which he directs.

For the American Library Association (ALA) Association of College and Research Libraries (ACRL) Rare Books and Manuscripts Section, Makala chaired the 2007 Conference Program Committee, and was a member of the Conference Development and Preconference Program Planning Committees. He organized and moderated a panel at the ALA Annual Conference, “Rare Books and Special Collections in Public Libraries: Collections and Locations, Old and New,” in Washington, D.C., and served as an interim member of the ALA/Society of American Archivists/American Association of Museums Joint Committee.

Scott taught SCCC 354, the Great War in Literature, in the fall, and SLIS 716, Introduction to Descriptive Bibliography, in the spring. He also served as vice president of the Victorians Institute, and on the advisory board for the Victorians Institute Journal.

Elizabeth Sudduth coordinated the South Carolina Humanities Council Book Festival Gala held in Thomas Cooper Library.
South Carolina Political Collections (SCPC) maintains 84 collections pertaining to the Palmetto State’s political and social history. Fifty-one of these collections are currently open for study. During 2007–2008, SCPC accessioned 75.5 ft. of material and received 63 visits from 37 researchers who requested 383,953 documents from 24 different collections, vertical files, and oral history transcripts. Many additional inquiries were handled via telephone or the Internet.

SCPC’s 2007 summer internship was awarded to Middle Tennessee State University archives student Amy Lundell, who helped process the 1992 and 1998 campaign files of Ernest F. “Fritz” Hollings and speeches of Richard W. Riley. The 2008 intern, Malisa Lewis, arrived in June from the University of Michigan to help process a major addition to the papers of Nick Zeigler.

During the year, planning continued for the Ernest F. Hollings Special Collections Library, which will become SCPC’s new home when it is completed in 2010.

Notable Acquisitions

- Papers of Republican activist Charles Appleby Jr.
- Papers of Republican Eric Dell.
- Papers of Edward Whaley Seabrook Hull, marine scientist, rocketry expert, journalist, publisher, and photographer.
- Papers of longtime S.C. State Treasurer Grady Patterson Jr.

Additions were received to the collections of: Allard H. Gasque, Lindsey Graham, Donald Holland, Ernest F. “Fritz” Hollings, League of Women Voters of South Carolina, C. Bruce Littlejohn, Barbara Moxon, Gregory D. Shorey, Modjeska Simkins, David Wilkins, Joe Wilson, and Hastings Wyman.

In June, SCPC opened the papers of Ernest F. “Fritz” Hollings to research. The Hollings papers project began in 1991 with the first transfer of what eventually became more than 2,400 linear feet of papers, audiovisual records, and electronic data.

Events and Exhibits

- “Christmas in Canada,” holiday cards of Ambassador and Mrs. David Wilkins, TCL, East Gallery
- “The Richard W. Riley Collection,” at dinners honoring Gov. Riley hosted by South Carolina New Democrats in Columbia, and by the Greenville County Democratic Women at Furman University
- “The First Draft of History: Collecting the Papers of Journalists and Editorial Artists” TCL, East Gallery
- “Friend of the People: Donald Holland of Kershaw,” TCL, East Gallery

“African American Holdings of SCPC,” at a reception for the Institute of African American Research, TCL, Graniteville Room

“Holdings of SCPC,” for the Ex Libris Society annual meeting, Capstone House

Portraits of Kershaw County legislators Donald Holland, Robert Sheheen, and John West were unveiled in the Kershaw County Courthouse together with an exhibit which was later presented at the Camden Archives and Museum.

Professional Activities

SCPC staff members conducted oral history interviews with early Republican leader Gayle Averyt; with former congressman Butler Derrick and his former chief of staff John Gregory; and with former Hollings chief of staff, Joey Lesesne. Fifteen full-text, searchable transcripts of oral history interviews were mounted on the SCPC Web site.

Staff members also began the creation of “Resource Pages” to bring together in one site links to all SCPC holdings on a particular topic. The first such page describes SCPC materials relating to the civil rights movement. In addition to the papers of civil rights leaders I. DeQuincey Newman and Modjeska Simkins, the site links to the papers of such persons as legislators Bryan Dorn, Fritz Hollings, Olin Johnston, Bob McNair, and John West, as well as journalist Bill Workman, all of which hold important documentation on the movement.

Herb Hartsook discussed donor relations at the fall meeting of the South Carolina Archival Association, as well as the careers and impact of Donald Holland and John West at the unveiling of their portraits at the Kershaw County Courthouse.

He was appointed chair of a new Archives Committee created by the Association of Centers for the Study of Congress. He also served on the Editorial Board of the Society of Georgia Archivists, as a consultant on the Robert Dole Papers Project at the University of Kansas, and as oral historian of the South Carolina Bar Foundation.

Dorothy Hazelrigg served as secretary and Executive Board member of the South Carolina Archival Association (SCAA) and served on the Partnership Among South Carolina Academic Libraries’ task force on digital finding aids.

Kate Moore served on the board of SCAA, as editor of the organization’s newsletter, SCAAzette, through fall 2007, and was elected membership officer in October.

Lori Schwartz was elected vice chair and chair-elect of the Archives and Special Collections Round Table of the South Carolina Library Association.

The Digital Activities Center serves the students, faculty, staff, and alumni of the University by making selected rare and special materials from all the libraries available online for study and research. Twelve new collections were mounted this year, which brings the number of library collections to 30, with about 30,000 items digitized. All of the USC digital collections can be accessed at www.sc.edu/library/digital.

New Collections

“Carolina Bands Collection,” from the Music Library includes audio files and sheet music.

“Travel Journal and Album of William Tennent III” from SCL includes maps and an essay.

“Phillis Wheatley’s Poems on Various Subjects (1773),” from RBSC is the first book published by an African-American author. The online collection is full-text searchable and the poems are accessible individually within the database.

“World War I Letters of Samuel Bloom,” from RBSC.

“Garnet and Black Yearbooks,” from RBSC

“Pages from the Past,” a digital record of medieval manuscripts in South Carolina institutional archives managed by Dr. Scott Gwara of the Department of English Language and Literature and funded by the South Carolina Humanities Council.

“Joseph Winter Photograph Collection,” from SCL with more than 4,000 images.

“Berkeley County Photographs,” “The Beulah Glover Photographs,” “E.E. Burson Photographs, and “The Start Photographs,” from SCL.

Professional Activities

With the assistance of the Partnership Among South Carolina Academic Libraries (PASCAL) and a Library Services and Technology Act sub-grant, Digital Collections Librarian Kate Boyd, along with representatives from Clemson University and the College of Charleston, was instrumental in setting up the South Carolina Digital Library (SCDL), a statewide digital library of cultural heritage materials.

In connection with this project, Boyd, provided outreach services and training to other institutions concerning the SCDL guidelines, policies, and procedures.

Boyd was a panelist on digital collection programs at the University of North Carolina in Charlotte, spoke on SCDL at the annual Palmetto Archives, Libraries, and Museums Council on Preservation Conference, and attended the University of Kentucky’s Film to Digital Institute.
NEWSFILM LIBRARY

At the heart of the Newsfilm Library is the Fox Movietone News Collection, which was given to the University by the 20th Century Fox Film Corporation in 1980. This gift of internationally important, irreplaceable, and unique newsreel footage was the starting point for what has become one of the most significant academically housed news film libraries in the United States.

Notable Acquisitions
The Anna and Archer Huntington Collection, 16mm. home movie collection from Brookgreen Gardens in Georgetown, S.C.

The Southeast Educational Film Company Collection, museum quality audiovisual equipment and supplies that were the residue of the company’s salable stock when it closed in the early 1980s.

Statistics
During the year, Newsfilm Library staff enhanced access to the collections by creating 2,442 new catalog records and revising 7,132 existing records. They also prepared about 200,000 feet of local television news film for transfer, provided image content to 163 separate projects, and processed the Ben Boatwright Film Collection and the Taylor Family Films.

A major project was the completion of work on the National Endowment for the Humanities, Stabilization of the Humanities Grant, to rehouse all the film elements of the Fox Movietone News Collection, providing archival microenvironments to the 15,000 newsreel stories on nitrate stock and the 6,640 stories on acetate film stock.

Working with the Digital Activities Center, staff members uploaded a pilot version of the World War II dope sheet Web presence involving about 2,000 images.

Exhibits and Events
The Newsfilm Library hosted a National Endowment for the Humanities Summer Institute for four graduate classes, two undergraduate classes, and a fifth grade class.

“World War II: The Homefront,” a multimedia kiosk and ephemera exhibit created for the Ex Libris Society’s annual meeting in May

exhibits at the South Carolina State Museum for which Newsfilm Library staff provided extensive research and technical support

Professional Activities
Newsfilm Library staff members continued collaboration with the Library of Congress on the Fox Movietone Newsfilms preservation project.

MUSIC LIBRARY

The Music Library, one of the largest music libraries in the Southeast, houses books, music scores, periodicals, recordings in all formats, DVDs, videos, microforms, and special collections to assist students with their academic, performance, and research activities.

Notable Acquisitions
Signed copy of L’Art décoratif de Léon Bakst, (Paris, Maurice de Brunoff, 1913) original edition, 77 plates of costumes and set designs created by Bakst for Diaghilev’s Ballets Russes, given by John K. Adams as part of the John K. Adams French Music collection

Naxos Online Music Library provides access to more than 170,000 audio tracks from more than 12,000 CDs from the Naxos, Marco Polo, and other licensed independent labels, acquired through the Dorothy K. Payne Music Library endowment.

Exhibit
“Mixed Media of Edwin E. Gordon,” a collection of mixed media works by the noted teacher in music education and the psychology of music who is research professor in the library’s Gordon archive

Professional Activities
Jennifer Ottervik edited and published four issues of Music Reference Services Quarterly.

Phinney presented “Career in Music: Major Decisions” at Davidson College in February and “Mozart’s La Clemenza di Tito” to the Magellan Scholars in October. He also served as secretary/treasurer of the Southeast Chapter of the Music Library Association (MLA).

Ashlie Conway joined the music library faculty in January. She served the Southeast Chapter of MLA as an archivist and member of the Educational Outreach Program Committee.
ELLIOTT WHITE SPRINGS BUSINESS LIBRARY

The Elliott White Spring Business Library houses core collections of business and economics books and journals. The library has 30 computers, which provide access to library resources, the 2007 Microsoft Office Suite, and the Internet. All computers were recently upgraded to flat screen monitors and more powerful CPUs.

Notable Acquisitions
This year the library acquired the Ayn Rand Collection, a special collection of books by and about the noted author. The collection was established through the BB&T Endowment for the Study of Capitalism.

New subscriptions this year included the Small Business Resource Center database and Standard & Poor’s NetAdvantage.

Database enhancements included: global and Chinese modules added to IBISWorld; new geographic coverage of Latin America and China added to Industry Module to Mergent Online; and Interactive Advertising Sources module added to SRDS

Statistics
During the year, business librarians presented 51 bibliographic instruction sessions, reaching about 1,312 graduate and undergraduate students. They also provided reference assistance and fielded business-related reference questions referred by the University Libraries’ “Ask-A-Librarian” Web-based reference service.

Professional Activities

Christie Baird joined the library staff as assistant department head of the business library. She has become a key player in University Libraries’ information literacy initiative.

LIBRARY ANNEX AND CONSERVATION FACILITY

The Library Annex and Conservation Facility is a 19,000-square-foot building which incorporates a high-density storage area and the Arthur E. Holman Jr. Conservation Laboratory, as well as research and conference rooms.

Library Annex
The Library Annex houses and maintains infrequently used materials (books, journals, manuscripts, films, portraits, rare and fragile items, newspapers, microforms, and AV materials) in a controlled environment, high-density storage area with 380,000 cubic feet of shelf space.

During 2007–2008, staff members accessed 57,117 items for storage; processed 8,629 patron requests, including 1,432 articles delivered via the Electronic Desktop Delivery service for a total of 12,322 pages scanned; re-filed 8,297 items; and processed 52 items for permanent withdrawal. At year’s end, the annex housed 842,065 items and was at about 56 percent of its capacity.

The Arthur E. Holman Jr. Conservation Laboratory
During the year, staff members organized and coordinated matting (including long-term storage package), exhibit mount construction, and conservation of the 100-item illuminated manuscript exhibit “Pages From the Past.”

They provided oversight of integrated pest management (IPM) at the South Caroliniana, Map, and Music Libraries, as well as at South Carolina Political Collections and the Library Annex. They continued oversight of environmental monitoring of storage at the South Caroliniana and Music Libraries, the Library Annex, and Rare Books and Special Collections. They also developed training for library staff on the use of environmental software.

The Library Annex storage area is about 80 feet high and is accessible by an open elevator.
The Ernest F. Hollings Special Collections Library will be constructed behind the Thomas Cooper Library to house the University’s Rare Books and Special Collections as well as South Carolina Political Collections. The new library will be built at a cost of more than $18 million and will encompass about 50,000 square feet of space on three levels.
