Student suspended, investigation pending

USC has suspended a student and is conducting a code of conduct investigation after a screenshot of a Snapchat depicting a list of complaints about USC including a racial slur began circulating on social media.

Sixteen seconds.

That’s how close South Carolina was to defeating Notre Dame Sunday night to clinch a spot in Tuesday’s national championship game.

Reaching the national championship was a goal head coach Dawn Staley’s team set as soon as last season came to an end and with less than one minute remaining in its showdown against the Fighting Irish in the national semifinals, it looked like South Carolina would have a chance to play for a title.

But Notre Dame had other plans and defeated the Gamecocks 66-65 in a game that featured several twists and turns.

Despite outscoring the Fighting Irish 11-2 in the final 7:28, South Carolina’s historic season came to an end as Notre Dame senior guard Madison Cable scored a bucket with 16 seconds remaining to put her team ahead 66-65.

Moments later, South Carolina junior guard Tiffany Mitchell’s last-second shot at the buzzer wouldn’t fall.

“I felicitate our team did what they had to do, put themselves in the position to win the game,” South Carolina head coach Dawn Staley said. “Unfortunately for us, it came down to them making a play when they needed to make a play and we didn’t.”

Steve and Jerri Spurrier plan to host every former Spurrier-era football player at a reunion at Seawell’s on Friday.

Steve and Jerri Spurrier plan to host every former Spurrier-era football player at a reunion at Seawell’s on Friday.

The gang is getting back together.

Steve and Jerri Spurrier have invited the 453 people who have played football for Steve Spurrier at South Carolina to a reunion on Friday to coincide with the spring scrimmage game, according to GoGamecocks.

The idea for the event came from Jerri — Spurrier’s wife — who has taken the lead on trying to track down as many players that Spurrier has coached during his 10 years at USC as she can, through various outlets.

Jerri said that most of their responses have come from trying to reach the players on social media.

The reunion will be held at Seawell’s on Friday at 6 p.m., and any former player is invited to join the Spurriers for an evening of free food and drinks. Clyde Wrenn, a special assistant for development at USC, said that he hopes it will be a good time for the players.

He said the event will be simple “but a lot of fun.”

Todd Ellis is set to emcee the event, but Jerri Spurrier said there was little formal programming that was scheduled.

Each player can bring one guest, and Jerri hopes they are expecting a good time from the former USC football players.

The returning players will receive a gift from Spurrier and will be introduced during the halftime of the April 11 spring game against Villanova’s.

— Lauren Shirley, News Editor

CHICKS2015 to give advice, empowerment

We’re wrapping around the corner for seniors; many have set their sights on beginning their post-college careers. A new USC event, known as the CHICKS Conference, seeks to give students the perfect way to kick into the professional world by preparing them with invaluable knowledge for their post-college careers.

Started by Tatiana Chom, Kianna Miller and Venisha Pendergrass, as they approached their last semester of college, the CHICKS Conference hopes to counteract the thought “I don’t know that program that was scheduled.”

Each player can bring one guest, and Jerri hopes they are expecting a good time from the former USC football players.

The returning players will receive a gift from Spurrier and will be introduced during the halftime of the April 11 spring game against Villanova’s.

— Lauren Shirley, News Editor
State schools, legislators to reassess current state of Greek life

Following the deaths of two fraternity pledges this school year, officials from both USC and Clemson as well as state officials will begin to exercise more oversight, according to The State.

This year alone, three USC fraternity members have been removed from campus, compared to only two fraternity members at the previous three years combined. At Clemson, as of this week, school officials have called in state police to investigate an alleged hazing incident at a football tailgate.

A focus group at USC has been established to determine other student conduct issues, such as alcohol use, sexual assault, cyberbullying and racism.

Additionally, legislation, more than half of the legislators in the South Carolina House of Representatives voted for a proposal which introduces a statewide task force to examine all student conduct issues at institutions of higher education.

“As a Legislature, we need to look at what’s going on on college campuses,” said House Speaker Jay Lucas.

The West Columbia police officer who sustained a gunshot wound to the head last week has been released from the hospital.

The West Columbia police officer who sustained a gunshot wound to the head last week has been released from the hospital, The State reported.

Kernan submitted a statement signed by offi cers around 4 p.m.

The West Columbia police chief said Thursday that the 51-year-old William Kernan around 1:45 p.m. on March 31.

Additionally, last week, more than half the legislators in the South Carolina Statehouse will begin to exercise more oversight, according to Dennis Tyndall, the West Columbia Police Chief.

Kernan supposedly killed himself at the window of a house and shot through the wall of the home, striking Holland. SWAT was called to the scene and after a brief standoff, Kernan surrendered to the officers around 4 p.m.

USC junior All-American Tiffany Mitchell was presented the award named in honor of her coach at the NCAA Women’s Final Four on Sunday, according to WLTX.

Mitchell, a native of Chauncey, North Carolina, is ranked as the fi fth-best player in the country.

“What greater honor for a coach than to have one of their players win an award named after them,” USC women’s basketball coach Dawn Staley said. “Tiffany has set the standard for this award for the last two seasons.

“Whether she has the opportunity to play in the game or not, Tiffany has set the standard for All-American.”

Additionally, last week, more than half the legislators in the South Carolina Statehouse will begin to exercise more oversight, according to Dennis Tyndall, the West Columbia Police Chief.

Kernan supposedly killed himself at the window of a house and shot through the wall of the home, striking Holland. SWAT was called to the scene and after a brief standoff, Kernan surrendered to the officers around 4 p.m.

USC senior All-American Tiffany Mitchell was presented the award named in honor of her coach at the NCAA Women’s Final Four on Sunday, according to WLTX.

Mitchell, a native of Chauncey, North Carolina, is ranked as the fi fth-best player in the country.

“What greater honor for a coach than to have one of their players win an award named after them,” USC women’s basketball coach Dawn Staley said. “Tiffany has set the standard for this award for the last two seasons.

“Whether she has the opportunity to play in the game or not, Tiffany has set the standard for All-American.”

Top stories

The West Columbia police officer who sustained a gunshot wound to the head last week has been released from the hospital.

The West Columbia police officer who sustained a gunshot wound to the head last week has been released from the hospital, The State reported.

Kernan submitted a statement signed by offi cers around 4 p.m.

The West Columbia police chief said Thursday that the 51-year-old William Kernan around 1:45 p.m. on March 31.

Additionally, last week, more than half the legislators in the South Carolina Statehouse will begin to exercise more oversight, according to Dennis Tyndall, the West Columbia Police Chief.

Kernan supposedly killed himself at the window of a house and shot through the wall of the home, striking Holland. SWAT was called to the scene and after a brief standoff, Kernan surrendered to the officers around 4 p.m.

USC senior All-American Tiffany Mitchell was presented the award named in honor of her coach at the NCAA Women’s Final Four on Sunday, according to WLTX.

Mitchell, a native of Chauncey, North Carolina, is ranked as the fi fth-best player in the country.

“What greater honor for a coach than to have one of their players win an award named after them,” USC women’s basketball coach Dawn Staley said. “Tiffany has set the standard for this award for the last two seasons.

“Whether she has the opportunity to play in the game or not, Tiffany has set the standard for All-American.”

Although the conference is more directed toward women, CHECKS is willing to accept students of all genders, majors, ages and schools to join in their symposiums. It is also open to people from surrounding communities. According to Miller, of the 250 available spots, 105 have already been filled.

Through the tools of professional development and empowerment that students will learn at the conference, CHECKS hopes to give students the opportunity to learn unique and tactical strategies to help them transition from classroom to workplace. And according to Miller, next year, CHECKS will become a USC organization.

“We want game-changing career advice to be accessible to all students, not just those who are hyper-ambitious go-getters,” Miller wrote.

What’s in your college’s fraternities?

The Daily Gamecock is the editorially independent student newspaper of the University of South Carolina. It is published daily during the fall and spring semesters and weekly during the summer. The Daily Gamecock is published by The Student Publishing Company of South Carolina. The Student Publishing Company is the publisher of The Daily Gamecock and The Garnet & Black. The Daily Gamecock is distributed at the Student Union and the classroom centers.

The Garnet & Black is the official student newspaper of the University of South Carolina. The Garnet & Black is published weekly, with each issue containing student articles, columns, and student photography. The Garnet & Black is distributed at the Student Union and the classroom centers.

The Daily Gamecock is the official student newspaper of the University of South Carolina. It is published daily during the fall and spring semesters and weekly during the summer. The Daily Gamecock is published by The Student Publishing Company of South Carolina. The Student Publishing Company is the publisher of The Daily Gamecock and The Garnet & Black. The Daily Gamecock is distributed at the Student Union and the classroom centers.

The Garnet & Black is the official student newspaper of the University of South Carolina. The Garnet & Black is published weekly, with each issue containing student articles, columns, and student photography. The Garnet & Black is distributed at the Student Union and the classroom centers.

The Daily Gamecock is the official student newspaper of the University of South Carolina. It is published daily during the fall and spring semesters and weekly during the summer. The Daily Gamecock is published by The Student Publishing Company of South Carolina. The Student Publishing Company is the publisher of The Daily Gamecock and The Garnet & Black. The Daily Gamecock is distributed at the Student Union and the classroom centers.

The Garnet & Black is the official student newspaper of the University of South Carolina. The Garnet & Black is published weekly, with each issue containing student articles, columns, and student photography. The Garnet & Black is distributed at the Student Union and the classroom centers.

The Daily Gamecock is the official student newspaper of the University of South Carolina. It is published daily during the fall and spring semesters and weekly during the summer. The Daily Gamecock is published by The Student Publishing Company of South Carolina. The Student Publishing Company is the publisher of The Daily Gamecock and The Garnet & Black. The Daily Gamecock is distributed at the Student Union and the classroom centers.

The Garnet & Black is the official student newspaper of the University of South Carolina. The Garnet & Black is published weekly, with each issue containing student articles, columns, and student photography. The Garnet & Black is distributed at the Student Union and the classroom centers.
The Gamecocks trailed for almost the entirety of the night, but a putback by senior Aleighsa Welch gave South Carolina its first lead of the evening with just over one minute remaining. Just a few minutes beforehand, Notre Dame led by 10 points and appeared to be in full control of the game. But the Fighting Irish missed nine of its last 10 shots and South Carolina freshman forward A’ja Wilson led a furious comeback, leading the Gamecocks with 20 points while grabbing nine rebounds. Unfortunately for the Gamecocks, the one shot that Notre Dame hit late in the game is the one that mattered the most. For Welch, it hurts for the season to come to an end in such heartbreaking fashion. "Nothing you end your season, it’s a tough pill to swallow," Welch said. "I credit us, I credit my teammates for still fighting and never dropping their heads." Led by junior guard Jewell Loyd, Notre Dame enjoyed success on offense for much of the night as South Carolina struggled to stop the Fighting Irish from scoring. Meanwhile, the Gamecocks had a tough time manufacturing points, shooting only 33 percent from the field in the first half. In the blink of an eye, Notre Dame held a 12-point lead just five minutes into the game as South Carolina made just one of its first 12 shots as the Gamecocks got off to another slow start for the third consecutive game. Meanwhile, Notre Dame was able to get easy looks at the basket frequently in the opening minutes and the Fighting Irish led 15-3 thanks to key contributions from Loyd, sophomore forward Taya Reimer and freshman forward Brianna Turner. The trio would combine to score 55 of Notre Dame’s 66 points with Loyd leading the Fighting Irish with 22 points. Still, South Carolina weathered the storm following a rough opening like it did in last weekend’s wins over fourth-seeded North Carolina and second-seeded Florida State and trailed by just four points come halftime. Like she did in the Gamecocks’ victory over the Seminoles in the Elite Eight, freshman Bianca Cuevas played a big factor in South Carolina’s turnaround after a less-than-ideal beginning. When Cuevas entered the game for the first time, South Carolina trailed 15-3, but the Gamecocks went on a 10-4 run during the next seven minutes with the Bronx, New York native running the point. After a bucket by sophomore center Alaina Coates, South Carolina tied the game at 36-36 just a few minutes into the second half. But each time South Carolina would make a run, Notre Dame would answer the call. A 10-0 run by the Fighting Irish in the next three minutes after the scores evened put head coach Muffet McGraw’s team back up by double-digits. Ultimately, South Carolina proved to have one last run in them as it led at the final minute before Notre Dame was able to get the victory. The loss closes the door on a season that saw South Carolina set a program record in wins, while also winning the SEC tournament for the first time ever.
A variety of classes are offered on-campus or online from ANYWHERE and may be used for major, minor, cognate or elective credit for ANY student at @UofSC!

SUMMER AT CAROLINA

IT Security.
eCommerce Technology in Hospitality.
Nutrition.
Fashion and the Law.
Current Issues in College Sports.

Those are just a few courses offered by the College of HRSM Summer Institutes.

my.sc.edu/hrsm

Hotel, Restaurant and Tourism Management
Integrated Information Technology
Retailing and Fashion Merchandising
Sport and Entertainment Management

WE'LL INVEST IN YOU. YOU INVEST IN YOUR FUTURE.

There's strong. Then there's Army Strong. Join the U.S. Army right now and you can receive nearly $82,000 in tuition assistance for college. We will not only help support you, but we will also invest in your future. Visit your local recruiter, goarmy.com or call 1-800-USA-ARMY for more.

To learn more about how you can earn money for college, please contact your local Army Career Counselor at (803) 779-7930. Or you can visit us at the U.S. Army Recruiting Center at 1313 Assembly Street Space C, Columbia, SC 29201

 Russell House, Room 343 803-777-3888

MAD ABOUT DESIGN?

NOW HIRING STUDENT DESIGNERS

Student Media is hiring student graphic designers to work for its Creative Services office this summer and fall semester. Designers create ads that publish in The Daily Gamecock, Garnet & Black and their websites. Great opportunity to get experience in a fast-paced work environment and build up your portfolio. We’re looking for second-or third-year students. Resume and work samples are required. Apply by April 17, 2015.

www.sa.sc.edu/studentmedia/creative-services/
Questions: santanae@mailbox.sc.edu or 803-777-5094

Student Media
University of South Carolina Student Life
Russell House, Room 544
803-777-5090

©2009. Paid for by the United States Army. All rights reserved.

LYRICALPAGES

loves his women BBW, he says he was “running through the six with his woes.” ‘The 6’ is referring to Toronto, where the area code he grew up in was 416. ‘Woe’ is a term from New Orleans, Louisiana used for friends from the same neighborhood. So in other words, Drake was running through Toronto with friends from his neighborhood.”

“No type” - Rae Sremmurd
This term is used to refer to people who have no preferences. For example, “I like waffle fries, steak fries or skinny fries. It doesn’t matter to me. I ain’t got no type.”

“7/11” - Beyoncé
Honestly, no one knows. Beyoncé may just like the 7/11 gas station. She waves her hands side to side and puts them in the air and everybody cares. Beyoncé could sing about anything and everyone would listen.

“Sure 4 the wait 2” - Lil’ Wayne
Lil’ Wayne’s latest song “Coco” came out to let us know that he is actually not done yet and we have to keep waiting. Apparently, Lil’ Wayne just ain’t got time, but his record deal contract requires him to put something out there.

WE’LL INVEST IN YOU. YOU INVEST IN YOUR FUTURE.
Rap lyrics: defined

Morgan Smith

A huge part of music is using metaphors and references to make lyrics relevant to the genre. These lyrics are inspired by both culture and literature and often use very similar themes, the language they use to get them across can be very different.

Music is one of the most commonly misunderstood genres, even though listeners of all cultural backgrounds use its lyrics. Here is a list of a few phrases that have been both overused and misunderstood through social media and hashtags, accompanied by their apparent definitions.

Look at the flexa da wrist - Cardi B

Cardi B, Da Connect would like to bring attention to his wrists, which are coiled in bling and expensive watches. In the song, he also referenced a football quarterback and NBA basketball star Kevin Durant, both of which have extensive wrist flexibility that one might want to show off. “Flexa Da Wrist” is just a phrase used to point out someone’s luxury items or talents.

Trap Queen - Fetty Wap

A trap queen is described as a beautiful woman who is down for anything. She helps him for a low price at his home-based business. She is very loyal. He buys her cars and clothing and they even make picks together. Eventually Fetty Wap, is going to spend a couple grand on a ring to marry her.

No Flex Zone - Rae Sremmurd

Flexing refers to showing off or flaunting something that you may or may not have. Typically, people who are flexing are pretending to be something they aren’t or to have something that they do not actually have. A “No Flex Zone” is a designated place where flexing is not allowed.

“Day of the Dead,” released March 31, is Hollywood Undead’s fourth studio album to date. Categorized as an industrial metal/hip-hop, the band is famous for tapping charts with sometimes laughable rap-rock tunes. Not expecting anything different from the group this time, listeners will find new songs, it can really sell it to the audience.

The combination of traditional Indian dance styles, like Bharata Natyam and Bhangra, and Western styles, like hip-hop and contemporary, made the performances more fresh and interesting. But ability to fuse styles was just one piece of what the judges were looking for. "The music, movability and creativity are big," said Pran Gadda, one of the judges. "I do some DJ services for single teams as well, and I think it’s really easy to just get caught up in the simple bass, but if you can really harness the complexity of some of the songs, it can really sell it to the audience."

All of the judges were dancers themselves and have witnessed a trend in recent years: performances becoming more Westernized. "In general, across the years, teams used to be a lot more traditional," said Satheen, another one of the judges, "and since people have been remixing songs a lot more often, and also just the generation shifts to a more modern, integrated society, things are becoming more contemporary. Not as in the dance style, but just a lot more American. But it’s nice to see the effort. I think is something you’re performing for your audience."

First place was awarded to the North Carolina State University, whose performance centered around a true story of a student’s experience with cancer. However, all of the teams, including USC’s noncompeting ones, should be proud of the work that went into their performances.

Lyrics

The combination of traditional Indian dance styles, like Bharata Natyam and Bhangra, and Western styles, like hip-hop and contemporary, made the performances more fresh and interesting. But ability to fuse styles was just one piece of what the judges were looking for. "The music, movability and creativity are big," said Pran Gadda, one of the judges. "I do some DJ services for single teams as well, and I think it’s really easy to just get caught up in the simple bass, but if you can really harness the complexity of some of the songs, it can really sell it to the audience."

All of the judges were dancers themselves and have witnessed a trend in recent years: performances becoming more Westernized. "In general, across the years, teams used to be a lot more traditional," said Satheen, another one of the judges, "and since people have been remixing songs a lot more often, and also just the generation shifts to a more modern, integrated society, things are becoming more contemporary. Not as in the dance style, but just a lot more American. But it’s nice to see the effort. I think is something you’re performing for your audience."

First place was awarded to the North Carolina State University, whose performance centered around a true story of a student’s experience with cancer. However, all of the teams, including USC’s noncompeting ones, should be proud of the work that went into their performances.

"Day of the Dead," released March 31, is Hollywood Undead’s fourth studio album to date. Categorized as an industrial metal/hip-hop, the band is famous for tapping charts with sometimes laughable rap-rock tunes. Not expecting anything different from the group this time, listeners will find new songs, it can really sell it to the audience.

The combination of traditional Indian dance styles, like Bharata Natyam and Bhangra, and Western styles, like hip-hop and contemporary, made the performances more fresh and interesting. But ability to fuse styles was just one piece of what the judges were looking for. "The music, movability and creativity are big," said Pran Gadda, one of the judges. "I do some DJ services for single teams as well, and I think it’s really easy to just get caught up in the simple bass, but if you can really harness the complexity of some of the songs, it can really sell it to the audience."

All of the judges were dancers themselves and have witnessed a trend in recent years: performances becoming more Westernized. "In general, across the years, teams used to be a lot more traditional," said Satheen, another one of the judges, "and since people have been remixing songs a lot more often, and also just the generation shifts to a more modern, integrated society, things are becoming more contemporary. Not as in the dance style, but just a lot more American. But it’s nice to see the effort. I think is something you’re performing for your audience."

First place was awarded to the North Carolina State University, whose performance centered around a true story of a student’s experience with cancer. However, all of the teams, including USC’s noncompeting ones, should be proud of the work that went into their performances.

Hollywood Undead pitifully disappoints

"Day of the Dead" Release Date: March 31 Artist: Hollywood Undead Label: Interscope Duration: 46 minutes

Summer Neal April 7

"Day of the Dead," released March 31, is Hollywood Undead’s fourth studio album to date. Categorized as an industrial metal/hip-hop, the band is famous for tapping charts with sometimes laughable rap-rock tunes. Not expecting anything different from the group this time, listeners will find new songs, it can really sell it to the audience.

The combination of traditional Indian dance styles, like Bharata Natyam and Bhangra, and Western styles, like hip-hop and contemporary, made the performances more fresh and interesting. But ability to fuse styles was just one piece of what the judges were looking for. "The music, movability and creativity are big," said Pran Gadda, one of the judges. "I do some DJ services for single teams as well, and I think it’s really easy to just get caught up in the simple bass, but if you can really harness the complexity of some of the songs, it can really sell it to the audience."

All of the judges were dancers themselves and have witnessed a trend in recent years: performances becoming more Westernized. "In general, across the years, teams used to be a lot more traditional," said Satheen, another one of the judges, "and since people have been remixing songs a lot more often, and also just the generation shifts to a more modern, integrated society, things are becoming more contemporary. Not as in the dance style, but just a lot more American. But it’s nice to see the effort. I think is something you’re performing for your audience."

First place was awarded to the North Carolina State University, whose performance centered around a true story of a student’s experience with cancer. However, all of the teams, including USC’s noncompeting ones, should be proud of the work that went into their performances.

"Day of the Dead," released March 31, is Hollywood Undead’s fourth studio album to date. Categorized as an industrial metal/hip-hop, the band is famous for tapping charts with sometimes laughable rap-rock tunes. Not expecting anything different from the group this time, listeners will find new songs, it can really sell it to the audience.

The combination of traditional Indian dance styles, like Bharata Natyam and Bhangra, and Western styles, like hip-hop and contemporary, made the performances more fresh and interesting. But ability to fuse styles was just one piece of what the judges were looking for. "The music, movability and creativity are big," said Pran Gadda, one of the judges. "I do some DJ services for single teams as well, and I think it’s really easy to just get caught up in the simple bass, but if you can really harness the complexity of some of the songs, it can really sell it to the audience."

All of the judges were dancers themselves and have witnessed a trend in recent years: performances becoming more Westernized. "In general, across the years, teams used to be a lot more traditional," said Satheen, another one of the judges, "and since people have been remixing songs a lot more often, and also just the generation shifts to a more modern, integrated society, things are becoming more contemporary. Not as in the dance style, but just a lot more American. But it’s nice to see the effort. I think is something you’re performing for your audience."

First place was awarded to the North Carolina State University, whose performance centered around a true story of a student’s experience with cancer. However, all of the teams, including USC’s noncompeting ones, should be proud of the work that went into their performances.
Carolina was playing the No. 2 team in the country. In those games, a quick run was enough to lead the Gamecocks to a win. The Fighting Irish, however, responded. Senior forward Aleighsa Welch gave the Gamecocks their first lead at the 1:09 mark, 65-64. Once again, Notre Dame answered the call. Senior guard Madison Cable hit the game-winner with 16 seconds left on the clock.

Finally, the Gamecocks met their match. All season long, the Gamecocks played close games before taking charge midway through the second half. This game however, last year’s national runners-up had the talent and experience to answer every run the Gamecocks had. North Carolina did not. Florida State did not. Notre Dame did.

“I feel like we could’ve controlled the game earlier in the game,” junior guard Asia Dozier said. “It would’ve put us in a better position toward the end of the game. We didn’t do that. Notre Dame played a great game.”

South Carolina led for just 56 seconds in the entire game. Even though freshman A’ja Wilson led all second half scorers with 14, the combination of Turner, Reimer and Loyd was too much for the Gamecocks. "In my mind it did feel (like we would come back again)," sophomore forward Alaina Coates said, "Being down the entire game and then just making a comeback, we didn’t do a couple runs and then they just pull away. Realizing we were probably there and we did take the lead. There’s no doubt we did it in us, we just weren’t able to finish.”

The three combined for 55 points on 22-47 shooting. Their 10 free throws were three more than South Carolina’s entire team.

Loyd has led the Fighting Irish all year, and Sunday was no different. “I mean, we went to Jewell (down the stretch),” Notre Dame head coach Muffett McGraw said. “She had to do everything.”

The Gamecocks made a habit of falling behind early and then coming back, but this time, against one of the nation’s top teams, their comeback fell just short.
Susan Abbott

No U.S. university can afford to be seen as anything but tolerant of all differences in people, ideas and opinions

Ross Abbott

In 1972, the landmark U.S. Supreme Court case Brown v. Board of Education made it unconstitutional to separate students on the basis of race. A 1977 Supreme Court ruling in the case of Employment Division v. Smith relaxed the prohibition on illegal discrimination by limiting government enforcement of laws against discrimination to cases involving constitutional rights of those who were excluded.

Another decade, the University of South Carolina broke federal law by not compensating its public concomitants, no U.S. university can afford to be seen as anything but tolerant of all differences in people, ideas and opinions. The suspension was the right move in response to such a high profile case of racism. From the Oklahoma/SAE incident and the Clemson “Cripmas” tragedy, we will realize the necessity of further. But I am a major proponent of càng không, không được sử dụng trong văn bản.

Journal of Publishing Studies was a book about the history of publishing studies and the evolution of the publishing industry. The book was highly critical of the current state of publishing education and called for a more hands-on approach to teaching the field. The book was published in 2012 and has been well-received by the publishing community.
Experience
the Carolina Band

WHO: Current USC Students with previous band experience

WHAT: Perform in the Stands – Spring Football Game

WHEN: Saturday, April 11, 2015

- 9:15 am Check-In Copenhaver Band Hall, 324 Sumter Street
- 9:45 am Rehearsal
- 10:15 am Lunch Provided
- 10:45 am Depart for Stadium (carpool)
- 12:00 pm Game

RSVP: email -- uscbands@mozart.sc.edu and provide the following information: Name, Cell Phone, Instrument or Auxiliary Unit, # Years Experience

TRADITION — PRIDE — INNOVATION

803.777.4278
www.carolinaband.org

2015 CAROLINA BAND

AUXILLARY AUDITIONS

- DRUMLINE Saturday, April 25
- COLOR GUARD Saturday, April 25
- COQUETTES Sunday, April 26

Visit the “Athletic Bands” page at www.carolinaband.org for more information and to register.
Sagittarius

Discover a new move and clean it. Unexpected visitors could arrive. Costs are higher than expected. Ask your social circles for ideas and support. It’s more fun to collaborate, and others have crazy ideas that may work. Count your blessings.

Capricorn

Work on plans with a group project. A shared vision leads to abundance. Invent on getting what you need. A surprise at home or an event. Consult an ally. Keep your visions together.

Aquarius

Gloria

Get organized and set priorities. A temporary setback interrupts work. Payments could be delayed. Conserving emotional and physical energy. Think from many perspectives and plan your next steps. Make a useful discovery. Brilliant ideas arise in the shower.

Scorpio

A new understanding illuminates a personal matter today and tomorrow. Resist being impulsive, especially if you are feeling graphs. Sparks could fly. Talk it over; you may more importantly listen. Generously present love in family.

Leo

Unexpected circumstances at home hold your attention. New information changes the picture. Put in the correction. Consider all the facts. You can talk your way out of anything today. Impress someone important with a positive presentation.

Virgo

Work on the plan before taking action. Consult an expert. Document problems before they cost money. Resolve discrepancies to align on priorities. Communications flow, which is especially useful to manage breakdowns. Use something you’ve been using.

Libra

Get organized and set priorities. A temporary setback interrupts work. Payments could be delayed. Conserving emotional and physical energy. Think from many perspectives and plan your next steps. Make a useful discovery. Brilliant ideas arise in the shower.

Aries

Talk less. Go to plan B. Make do with less. Talk with your partner about your way out of anything today. Impressing someone important with a positive presentation.

Cancer

Things may not go as planned, surprisingly. Always go back to a place you enjoyed. Play romantically. Go back to as planned, especially if you make an important decision. Make an agreement.

Leo

Unexpected circumstances at home hold your attention. New information changes the picture. Put in the correction. Consider all the facts. You can talk your way out of anything today. Impress someone important with a positive presentation.

Sagittarius

Discover a new move and clean it. Unexpected visitors could arrive. Costs are higher than expected. Ask your social circles for ideas and support. It’s more fun to collaborate, and others have crazy ideas that may work. Count your blessings.

Capricorn

Work on plans with a group project. A shared vision leads to abundance. Invent on getting what you need. A surprise at home or an event. Consult an ally. Keep your visions together.

Aquarius

Gloria

Get organized and set priorities. A temporary setback interrupts work. Payments could be delayed. Conserving emotional and physical energy. Think from many perspectives and plan your next steps. Make a useful discovery. Brilliant ideas arise in the shower.

Scorpio

A new understanding illuminates a personal matter today and tomorrow. Resist being impulsive, especially if you are feeling graphs. Sparks could fly. Talk it over; you may more importantly listen. Generously present love in family.

Leo

Unexpected circumstances at home hold your attention. New information changes the picture. Put in the correction. Consider all the facts. You can talk your way out of anything today. Impress someone important with a positive presentation.

Virgo

Work on the plan before taking action. Consult an expert. Document problems before they cost money. Resolve discrepancies to align on priorities. Communications flow, which is especially useful to manage breakdowns. Use something you’ve been using.

Libra

Get organized and set priorities. A temporary setback interrupts work. Payments could be delayed. Conserving emotional and physical energy. Think from many perspectives and plan your next steps. Make a useful discovery. Brilliant ideas arise in the shower.

Aries

Talk less. Go to plan B. Make do with less. Talk with your partner about your way out of anything today. Impressing someone important with a positive presentation.

Cancer

Things may not go as planned, surprisingly. Always go back to a place you enjoyed. Play romantically. Go back to as planned, especially if you make an important decision. Make an agreement.
No. 18 South Carolina (21-11) continued to struggle this past weekend, dropping two of three games on the road against a tough Mississippi State team.

The series opened early on Thursday at Dudy Noble Field in Starkville when the Gamecocks were looking to clinch a series win against a SEC team after losing their previous two series.

However, Thursday ended in an 11-3 loss against the Bulldogs.

Friday was no different as South Carolina fell early and failed to complete a rally, losing 7-3. A 13-7 win on Saturday was not enough to bring home the series win.

The series loss drops the Gamecocks to 6-6 in conference play.

Game One:

It only took the Bulldogs three innings on Thursday to gain an eight-run lead against the Gamecocks, diminishing on the mound and on the plate to win 13-2.

Senior Ellee Caldwell continued his hot play, going 2-for-4 in the game. Sophomore right-hander Will Crowe failed to protect his team from the hits.

Cawees was relieved after surrendering seven earned runs in just 2.2 innings and only managing two strikeouts.

Game Two:

Although the Gamecocks did not win this game, many accomplishments were made by individuals in their 7-5 loss.

In the top of the second inning Caldwell managed to hit a triple to left field and later scored on an RBI groundout by freshman lefty Destiny. Shortly after, the game was delayed by rain for 53 minutes.

A throwing error by sophomore shortstop Jordan Gore gave Mississippi State a lead into the bottom of the second. The error “opened the floodgates” for the Bulldogs, who scored four more runs in the frame.

In the first game on Friday, the Gamecocks had an early 2-0 lead in the third when sophomore infielder Victoria Williams managed to bring in a two-run RBI single to the plate, but this would end their success for the day.

Two runs came in the top of the bottom of the third and scored three, then scored three more in the fifth. A three-run homer by senior pitcher Lauren Haeger extended their lead to 9-2 in the sixth, then scored one more to end the game giving the final score of 10-2.

Game Three:

A 13-7 Saturday win should give South Carolina a lot of momentum heading into midweek home games against Appalachian State and The Citadel.

The Gamecocks’ starting nine managed to all gain at least one hit for this game.

Holbrook was appreciative of his offense Saturday as they looked more alive, giving their pitcher an easier game to win.

Schorch managed a career-high in hits in going 5-6, including a home run, two RBIs and two runs scored. Freshman Clarke Schorsch started the game for South Carolina but was quickly relieved by freshman Brandon Murray. Murray pitched a career-high 5.2 innings and the team dropped the contest 7-5.

South Carolina scored season-high 11 runs and tied a season high with 11 hits.

“One game doesn’t really show who you are... you can’t just win one game here one game there,” Holbrook said.