Gun brought on campus

USCPD apprehends armed student after receiving anonymous tip
Josh Dawsey  SEVEN EIGHTS

A 21-year-old USC student was arrested inside the Humanities Classroom Building Tuesday, Sept. 28 for carrying a loaded firearm and a knife into a classroom.

The incident report was released Thursday. Eddie Jones II was taken into custody by officers from USC’s Law Enforcement and Safety Division around 2 p.m. last Tuesday. He was charged with one count of possession of a firearm on school property and two counts of possession of a concealed weapon on school property.

According to the incident report, USCPD received an anonymous tip from Crime Stoppers that Jones was carrying a loaded weapon on campus and immediately located Jones. He was stopped coming out of his class and asked by police officers.

An officer found a loaded 45-caliber handgun inside Jones’s bag. There was also a lock brand knife inside a case on the suspect’s bag.

\[\text{GUN} \in 2A\]

USC drops in sexual health rank

Falls from No. 1 to 30 on Trojan Health Report Card
Jonathan Battaglia  OCTOBER 8

The quality of sexual health information and services available to USC students may not be as exemplary as it used to be, according to a study released Tuesday. The fifth annual Trojan Sexual Health Report Card ranked USC 30 out of 141 universities nationwide.

USC was ranked first in the country in 2006 report and in the 2008 report since the report card’s inception in 2006, USC had never finished outside of the top 20. USC was making this year’s it lowest ranking ever.

The study, completed over the course of three months by Trojan Condoms, Rock the Vote and Splirting’s RedPlaces, measures access and availability of sexual health information and resources at Bowl Championship Series schools from all 50 states and the District of Columbia. The study measured schools based on 12 categories, including contraceptive availability, existence of student peer groups, and sexually transmitted disease testing.

However, the results don’t mean USC isn’t doing anything.

“South Carolina is getting worse; it just means other schools are catching up to them,” Splirting said. “At the beginning of the year, they’re kind of on a whole lot of room for improvement. USC received an “A” rating in sexual assault prevention, and would fall under the category of free condoms. The Thomson Student Health center offers condoms for free, and would receive an “A.”

Sexual Assault Awareness Month is April, a Homophobia Awareness Week and a Stalking Awareness Week. USC’s rating fell in

\[\text{REPORT} \in 2A\]

Trustees to discuss Children’s Law Center move

Meeting could bring law center to Whaley House
Josh Dawsey  SEVEN EIGHTS

"Our Country’s Good"

A 11,000-square-foot three-story mansion on Gervais Street could become the next home to USC’s Children’s Law Center.

USC’s Board of Trustees will consider a proposal to move the center from its offices on Hampton Street to the W.R. Smith Whaley House, commonly known as the Dunbar Funeral Home, near the Clifton Hotel.

The house, which was built by Smith Whaley between 1892 and 1894 in a Queen Anne architectural style, is currently deteriorating from disuse, is listed on the National Register of Historic Places.

Children’s Law Center Director Harry Davis said he would provide education and needed resources to the attorneys who train and prepare resources to send in the legal field who are involved in child maltreatment cases and juvenile justice court proceedings.

The center is a primary source for many processes, federal agencies and criminal justice employees in in-service training and continuing education and is part of USC’s Law School.

But the potential move has its risks. USC will put $453,000 into the project, including $300,000 in public funds. If the University can’t raise almost $900,000 in additional private funds within six years, the money would have to be returned to the National Registry of Historic Columbia Foundation.

And that’s drawn some concerns.

"If we’re trying to raise funds for a new law school and we’re under fire about capital projects that we’re doing, I think it’s extremely risky,” said trustee Leah Moody from Rock Hill.

"I think we need to look at this a little bit further. Trustee Eddie Floyd from Florence expressed concern about the University taking on an overall property in dire need of repairs." According to the proposal, the owner of the building would donate it to the Historic Columbia Foundation.

And that’s drawn some concerns.

"If there’s a requirement for raising $900,000 to renovate the interior of the building," Tom Quasney, USC’s vice president for business and facilities, said the money would fund structural repairs, including repairing gutters, caulking and painting. Additional funds would be raised to repair the interior of the building.

Davis said he plans to work through private

\[\text{LAW} \in 2A\]
we will this Saturday, but celebrate our victories, like however, is not how we “What shows our character, president of business affairs.

“athletics,” said Helen for hungry individuals are providing 35,000 meals students, faculty and staff Carolina counties, can give that provides meals for Hope, an organization Rally raises money for hungry

橘子的Facebook profile features multiple student and online carrying weapons on campuses. USC spokesman Margaret said to comment on whether the student has been expelled but did say he is not going to comment on whether the student has been expelled. There, he gave a written statement admitting to and Punching Bag. I would never see Ed Jones as a dangerous person to the community. “For those who know us and have made us feel special and being a student leader, as a student or in the community.” Ed Jones was a danger to the community to continue doing things.”
CAROLINA PRODUCTIONS PRESENTS:

BIG BOI from OUTKAST

WITH SPECIAL GUEST OCT. 8

CAROLINA COLISEUM 8PM
FREE GENERAL ADMISSION TICKETS
LIMITED $5 FLOOR SEATS
TICKETS AVAILABLE AT COLISEUM BOX OFFICE
FOR MORE INFO OR SPECIAL ASSISTANCE, CALL 777.7130 OR VISIT CPSC.EDU
EVENT SUBJECT TO CHANGE, PAID BY STUDENT ACTIVITY FEES

CAROLINA PRODUCTIONS PRESENTS:

FREE MOVIES IN THE RUSSELL HOUSE THEATER
THURS - SUN
FREE POPCORN & SODA AT EVERY SHOWING
BRING YOUR CAROLINA CARD!

6 9 PM PM
5 things not to do at ‘GameDay’ Sat.

This Saturday, ESPN’s ‘College GameDay’ is coming to Columbia to engage with South Carolina’s fans as we take on Alabama. Everyone from alumni to students, from coaches to fans, will be there. Here are some suggestions.

First, leave your Confederate flags at home. Make us proud.

First, leave your Confederate flags at home. Make us proud.

Second, don’t start chanting insults about the winning team. Supporting the losing side makes us look bad.

Third, maybe when our fans stop being rude to the local police, we won’t have to ask them to leave.

Fourth, don’t think of‘GameDay’ Sat. as a party but as an opportunity to support USC.

Fifth, remember to help out the Student Sustainability Fund. It is not Green Fee, will save USC money.

Student Sustainability Fund is not ‘Green Fee’, will save USC money.

In order for a rational and informed discussion of the proposed Student Sustainability Fund to take place, it is first imperative that we make absolutely clear what Student the Student Sustainability Fund is.

It is not a ‘Green Fee’

It is a fund that allows students and the University to spend money on projects such as water pump regulators, LED lights in parking garages and air conditioning air-water separators to save the University $5 million in energy costs.

Every dollar that is used through energy conservation is a dollar that the student does not need to pay. Yes, the Student Sustainability Fund is beneficial for the environment, but that is not my reason I have chosen to devote so much time and attention to it and bring this to the campus. In the long run, it is precisely because of this commitment to sustainability that our energy costs can be increased.

The University has wanted to implement a number of innovative equipment replacements for years now, but has had to make the difficult choice to forgo these cuts in order to balance the immediate concerns of the University’s continued existence. If the $5 per student fee is instituted in time for the Fall 2011 semester, just the first few projects that have already been researched with cost-benefit analyses could yield a savings of $8 per student per year.

If the fee would only get bigger. The Student Sustainability Fund is not to impose another fee on students but rather to lessen the fees that students must ultimately pay. In just the first four years, the completely student-run Student Sustainability Fund Committee could, with some matching funds from the University and departments, spend nearly $900,000 on projects such as water pump regulators, LED lights in parking garages and air conditioning air-water separators to save the University $5 million in energy costs.

And what is a more productive way to market our university than by telling the world that we are cutting our energy costs? This group has identified how to cut out the unnecessary and inefficient equipment that we use and purchase, which will control where the money is spent.

If you believe us, we can make a difference. We can make a difference.

Social network another global player in game of economic domination

Face the population of the world is living and breathing in an age of globalization. Typically, communicating, networking for foreign relations currently take precedence in the business of the world. Also, in the USA, the United States’ GNP over the past 20 years, it comes as no surprise that our imports have been exponentially escalating, and that those imports are essentially outpacing our exports.

The idea of the Student Sustainability Fund Committee is to be an advocate of environmental responsibility on a college campus. The University wants to implement a number of innovative equipment replacements for years now, but has had to make the difficult choice to forgo these cuts in order to balance the immediate concerns of the University’s continued existence. If the $5 per student fee is instituted in time for the Fall 2011 semester, just the first few projects that have already been researched with cost-benefit analyses could yield a savings of $8 per student per year. The returns analyses could yield a savings of $8 per student per year. The returns analyses could yield a savings of $8 per student per year.

And what is a more productive way to market our university than by telling the world that we are cutting our energy costs? This group has identified how to cut out the unnecessary and inefficient equipment that we use and purchase, which will control where the money is spent. If you believe us, we can make a difference.

Facebook: personal advertising unsetting

Social network another global player in game of economic domination

Face the population of the world is living and breathing in an age of globalization. Typically, communicating, networking for foreign relations currently take precedence in the business of the world. Also, in the USA, the United States’ GNP over the past 20 years, it comes as no surprise that our imports have been exponentially escalating, and that those imports are essentially outpacing our exports.

The idea of the Student Sustainability Fund Committee is to be an advocate of environmental responsibility on a college campus. The University wants to implement a number of innovative equipment replacements for years now, but has had to make the difficult choice to forgo these cuts in order to balance the immediate concerns of the University’s continued existence. If the $5 per student fee is instituted in time for the Fall 2011 semester, just the first few projects that have already been researched with cost-benefit analyses could yield a savings of $8 per student per year. The returns analyses could yield a savings of $8 per student per year. The returns analyses could yield a savings of $8 per student per year.

And what is a more productive way to market our university than by telling the world that we are cutting our energy costs? This group has identified how to cut out the unnecessary and inefficient equipment that we use and purchase, which will control where the money is spent. If you believe us, we can make a difference.

Facebook: personal advertising unsetting

Social network another global player in game of economic domination

Face the population of the world is living and breathing in an age of globalization. Typically, communicating, networking for foreign relations currently take precedence in the business of the world. Also, in the USA, the United States’ GNP over the past 20 years, it comes as no surprise that our imports have been exponentially escalating, and that those imports are essentially outpacing our exports.

The idea of the Student Sustainability Fund Committee is to be an advocate of environmental responsibility on a college campus. The University wants to implement a number of innovative equipment replacements for years now, but has had to make the difficult choice to forgo these cuts in order to balance the immediate concerns of the University’s continued existence. If the $5 per student fee is instituted in time for the Fall 2011 semester, just the first few projects that have already been researched with cost-benefit analyses could yield a savings of $8 per student per year. The returns analyses could yield a savings of $8 per student per year. The returns analyses could yield a savings of $8 per student per year.

And what is a more productive way to market our university than by telling the world that we are cutting our energy costs? This group has identified how to cut out the unnecessary and inefficient equipment that we use and purchase, which will control where the money is spent. If you believe us, we can make a difference.

Facebook: personal advertising unsetting

Social network another global player in game of economic domination

Face the population of the world is living and breathing in an age of globalization. Typically, communicating, networking for foreign relations currently take precedence in the business of the world. Also, in the USA, the United States’ GNP over the past 20 years, it comes as no surprise that our imports have been exponentially escalating, and that those imports are essentially outpacing our exports.

The idea of the Student Sustainability Fund Committee is to be an advocate of environmental responsibility on a college campus. The University wants to implement a number of innovative equipment replacements for years now, but has had to make the difficult choice to forgo these cuts in order to balance the immediate concerns of the University’s continued existence. If the $5 per student fee is instituted in time for the Fall 2011 semester, just the first few projects that have already been researched with cost-benefit analyses could yield a savings of $8 per student per year. The returns analyses could yield a savings of $8 per student per year. The returns analyses could yield a savings of $8 per student per year.

And what is a more productive way to market our university than by telling the world that we are cutting our energy costs? This group has identified how to cut out the unnecessary and inefficient equipment that we use and purchase, which will control where the money is spent. If you believe us, we can make a difference.

Facebook: personal advertising unsetting

Social network another global player in game of economic domination

Face the population of the world is living and breathing in an age of globalization. Typically, communicating, networking for foreign relations currently take precedence in the business of the world. Also, in the USA, the United States’ GNP over the past 20 years, it comes as no surprise that our imports have been exponentially escalating, and that those imports are essentially outpacing our exports.

The idea of the Student Sustainability Fund Committee is to be an advocate of environmental responsibility on a college campus. The University wants to implement a number of innovative equipment replacements for years now, but has had to make the difficult choice to forgo these cuts in order to balance the immediate concerns of the University’s continued existence. If the $5 per student fee is instituted in time for the Fall 2011 semester, just the first few projects that have already been researched with cost-benefit analyses could yield a savings of $8 per student per year. The returns analyses could yield a savings of $8 per student per year. The returns analyses could yield a savings of $8 per student per year.

And what is a more productive way to market our university than by telling the world that we are cutting our energy costs? This group has identified how to cut out the unnecessary and inefficient equipment that we use and purchase, which will control where the money is spent. If you believe us, we can make a difference.

Facebook: personal advertising unsetting

Social network another global player in game of economic domination

Face the population of the world is living and breathing in an age of globalization. Typically, communicating, networking for foreign relations currently take precedence in the business of the world. Also, in the USA, the United States’ GNP over the past 20 years, it comes as no surprise that our imports have been exponentially escalating, and that those imports are essentially outpacing our exports.

The idea of the Student Sustainability Fund Committee is to be an advocate of environmental responsibility on a college campus. The University wants to implement a number of innovative equipment replacements for years now, but has had to make the difficult choice to forgo these cuts in order to balance the immediate concerns of the University’s continued existence. If the $5 per student fee is instituted in time for the Fall 2011 semester, just the first few projects that have already been researched with cost-benefit analyses could yield a savings of $8 per student per year. The returns analyses could yield a savings of $8 per student per year. The returns analyses could yield a savings of $8 per student per year.

And what is a more productive way to market our university than by telling the world that we are cutting our energy costs? This group has identified how to cut out the unnecessary and inefficient equipment that we use and purchase, which will control where the money is spent. If you believe us, we can make a difference.

Facebook: personal advertising unsetting

Social network another global player in game of economic domination

Face the population of the world is living and breathing in an age of globalization. Typically, communicating, networking for foreign relations currently take precedence in the business of the world. Also, in the USA, the United States’ GNP over the past 20 years, it comes as no surprise that our imports have been exponentially escalating, and that those imports are essentially outpacing our exports.

The idea of the Student Sustainability Fund Committee is to be an advocate of environmental responsibility on a college campus. The University wants to implement a number of innovative equipment replacements for years now, but has had to make the difficult choice to forgo these cuts in order to balance the immediate concerns of the University’s continued existence. If the $5 per student fee is instituted in time for the Fall 2011 semester, just the first few projects that have already been researched with cost-benefit analyses could yield a savings of $8 per student per year. The returns analyses could yield a savings of $8 per student per year. The returns analyses could yield a savings of $8 per student per year.

And what is a more productive way to market our university than by telling the world that we are cutting our energy costs? This group has identified how to cut out the unnecessary and inefficient equipment that we use and purchase, which will control where the money is spent. If you believe us, we can make a difference.
Trench coats, leggings, boots among best bets for seasonal look

Amber Rose

Out of sheer excitement for the recently pleasant temperatures cooling down the normally blindingly hot Columbia, it’s worth thinking about what wardrobe changes to set in motion for the arrival of fall. The following are items to resurrect from your closet for a flattering and stylish look that will keep you warm and looking chic for those chilly morning strolls to class.

First, tone down those bright summer looks with neutral fall pieces. The perfect option guaranteed to make a statement and fit in with the new season is a classic tan trench coat. If you want to make a statement and fit in with the new season, a piece is the perfect example of a seamless blend from summer to fall with the use of one garment.

Another weather-appropriate item would be an item that requires attentiveness to resurrect from your closet for a flattering and stylish look that will keep you warm and looking chic for those chilly morning strolls to class. The perfect option is a military-inspired coat in a neutral hue for those chilly morning strolls to class.

Another accessory to break out of your closet are those bright summer scarves that will keep you warm and looking chic for those chilly morning strolls to class. The perfect option is a military-inspired coat in a neutral hue for those chilly morning strolls to class.

Notes: The most overpriced way to welcome fall.

Back to School

Pumpkin Spice is back at Starbucks

The most overpriced way to welcome fall.

Wall Street Journal says Verizon to release iPhone in first quarter of 2011

AT&T goes into cold sweats, asks Luke Wilson to be even meaner in ads.

Justin Bieber set to host "Punk'd"

Wait a minute, are we all being "Punk'd"? Where's Ashton?

— Compiled by The Mix Staff

"A man thinks that by mouthing hard words he understands hard things."

— Herman Melville

Two of hip-hop’s biggest acts are performing in Columbia tonight, courtesy of Carolina Productions. Iyaz, protégé of fellow Virgin Islands sensation Sean Kingston, released his album “Replay” in June with hit singles “Replay” and “Solo,” both of which quickly climbed the Billboard Charts. Iyaz will be opening for Big Boi — previously of the hip-hop duo Outkast — who released his solo debut album “Sir Luscious Left Foot: The Son of Chico Dusty” in July to both critical and public acclaim. The show starts at 8 p.m. Tickets are free with a CarolinaCard ($5 for the floor area), and are available at the Coliseum Box Office.

— Compiled by Colin Campbell, Assistant Mix Editor
This Saturday, the University of South Carolina dance program will be hosting the "RE-MIX Hip-Hop Dance Explosion" from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. The workshop is free to all University students, middle and high school dancers and dance teachers. Classes will be offered for all levels of experience, from beginner to advanced, and will be taught by several hip-hop dance specialists. These include Saza Dimmick, a choreographer with a BFA in dance education, LaQuannia Lewis, a certified dance instructor in Richland County School District 2 and B-Boy House, an instructor who specializes in performance breakdancing. All teachers are experts in various forms of street dance, including hip-hop, locking, breaking, house, punking, contemporary and jazz.

"Integrity without knowledge is weak and unsteady; knowledge without integrity is dangerous and destructive." —Hobbes

"Character, not circumstance, makes the person." —Terence

"Thank you very much. You make sense enough and more than enough to not feel shy about being you. The greatest way to do that is through love." —Tyler Durden

The first hip-hop dance workshop, held last May, received positive feedback from local middle and high school students.

"We want to make sure that everyone in the community knows about USC’s dance program and our versatility," Corrington said. "We are more than just ballet!"

"This workshop would not have been possible without the support of the USC Office of Student Life and the Department of Theatre and Dance," Parrish added. Covington agrees that it took "lots of legwork, phone calls and papers" to organize the workshop, but the ability to bring together students and dancers interested in hip-hop is well worth the effort. The workshop will be held at the University of South Carolina band and dance facility at 324 Sumter St.

Other upcoming events for USC Theatre and Dance include performances of "From Russia With Love" at Drayton Hall Theatre on Oct. 22 and 23, "Big Love" at the Longstreet Theatre from Nov. 12 to 20 and "Classics to Contemporary" at the Koger Center for the Arts on Nov. 18 and 19.
Bunny and Ravy ● by Marlores Lavietes / The Daily Gamecock

Today feels right atmosphere for romantic activities, social venues. Your partner sees the way to success ladder. Others help along the way.

SCORPIO Obstacles dissolve as you get into action, diving in with your natural talents. Everyone agrees that you’re on the right track. This one’s easy.

CANCER Everyone agrees that what you do. Everything falls into place as if by incredible coincidence. You get fantastic results.

PISCES Get everyone on the same page now. Take advantage of this agreement to move any important project forward. A little magic doesn’t hurt.

GEMINI Everyone agrees that what you do. Everything falls into place as if by incredible coincidence. You get fantastic results. You get time for a joyous celebration with friends. Happiness is abundant when you have time for a joyous celebration with friends.

Leo Everyone appears to be on the same page now. Take advantage of this agreement to move any important project forward. A little magic doesn’t hurt.

Aquarius A lucky card keeps you from spilling the beans. The secret will come out when it’s supposed to, so smile and hold it until then.

Virgo Make the most of today to enjoy work, school, and in social venues. Your systems are go at work and in social venues.

Sagittarius Everyone agrees that what you do. Everything falls into place as if by incredible coincidence. You get fantastic results.

Taurus Everyone agrees that what you do. Everything falls into place as if by incredible coincidence. You get fantastic results.

Gemini Everyone agrees that what you do. Everything falls into place as if by incredible coincidence. You get fantastic results.

Capricorn The ball is definitely in your court, and you score. You haven’t been on your game like this for a long time. Back in the saddle.

Aries Today feels right atmosphere for romantic activities, social venues. Your partner sees the way to success ladder. Others help along the way.

Taurus Everyone agrees that what you do. Everything falls into place as if by incredible coincidence. You get fantastic results.

Gemini Everyone agrees that what you do. Everything falls into place as if by incredible coincidence. You get fantastic results.

Capricorn The ball is definitely in your court, and you score. You haven’t been on your game like this for a long time. Back in the saddle.

Aries Today feels right atmosphere for romantic activities, social venues. Your partner sees the way to success ladder. Others help along the way.

Taurus Everyone agrees that what you do. Everything falls into place as if by incredible coincidence. You get fantastic results.

Gemini Everyone agrees that what you do. Everything falls into place as if by incredible coincidence. You get fantastic results.

Capricorn The ball is definitely in your court, and you score. You haven’t been on your game like this for a long time. Back in the saddle.

Aries Today feels right atmosphere for romantic activities, social venues. Your partner sees the way to success ladder. Others help along the way.

Taurus Everyone agrees that what you do. Everything falls into place as if by incredible coincidence. You get fantastic results.

Gemini Everyone agrees that what you do. Everything falls into place as if by incredible coincidence. You get fantastic results.

Capricorn The ball is definitely in your court, and you score. You haven’t been on your game like this for a long time. Back in the saddle.

Aries Today feels right atmosphere for romantic activities, social venues. Your partner sees the way to success ladder. Others help along the way.
Steve Spurrier understands the situation. He senses the extra excitement and anticipation. He knows why the Columbia Broadcasting System has arrived in the Capital City. He realizes why ESPN has sent Kirk Herbstreit and his buddies to a different Horseshoe. He gets that it is about the opponent in this one.

"We're part of the Alabama show this week, but that's OK," Spurrier said.

The reason tomorrow's clash between the No. 19 Gamecocks and the defending national champion and No. 1 Alabama will be broadcast to a national audience on CBS and featured on "College GameDay" is because the defending national champions are involved.

"Alabama is the national team now," Spurrier said. "The TV guys that get first choice, they follow them around now."

If USC was hosting one of the 118 other teams in the Football Bowl Subdivision, the hoopla wouldn't be hitting Columbia. But, Alabama is the show rolling into town, so accordingly, the attention follows. While the vast majority of it will be focused on Alabama, don't expect Spurrier and his team to be disappointed or to perceive slights and take offense.

They understand no matter how partial or insignificant some may see their role in the "show," they are nonetheless still part of the show.

Besides, as long as you are part of the show, you've got a shot to steal the show.

For USC to do that, it will have to accomplish something never before done: defeat a top-ranked team. It is an achievement USC has strived for, but has yet to reach.

"The opportunity's there," Spurrier said. "I think it's been there before, but we haven't done it any time soon."

Carolina is 0-4 in its history against No. 1 teams. The most recent, and possibly most painful, instance came last fall at home against defending national champion Florida.

Having cut an early 10-point deficit to three, USC was driving deep into UF territory and faced a 3rd-and-3 from the Florida 21-yard line to start the fourth quarter, trailing 17-14. Well within kicker Spencer Lanning's range, USC could have played for the field goal and tied the game at 17. But, the Gamecocks had all the momentum, and there seemed to be an air of inevitability in the ballpark that USC would find the end zone and take a 21-17 lead.

Spurrier opted to go for the latter approach. Stephen Garcia dropped back to pass and looked towards his first option, Jason Barnes on the right side. Barnes wasn't open, so the then-redshirt sophomore moved across the field and checked down to Moe Brown on the left.

Brown wasn't looking though. Garcia's pass hit Brown and was deflected into the air, where it was snatched by Florida's Justin Trattou. The defensive end raced 53 yards the other way, with Gamecocks frantically chasing after him, getting to the USC 25-yard line.

Moments later, UF quarterback Tim Tebow would plunge over the goal line to put the game on ice, 24-14. The shot at the historic upset had evaporated in seconds.

"We try not to give a team anything, but for some reason here, Carolina in these past couple of years, it seems like we've just given teams points", Lanning said. "These big teams, you can't give them any crack of daylight, because they're just going to take it and use it against you."

This year, USC is determined not to give the Tide much, if anything, to build an attack on. "There's no reason for us, because it's already hard enough to beat Alabama when things are going well."

"They look to be the best team in the nation. Whether we can beat them or not,"
Red zone production key for USC

Gamecocks look to rack up points against Tide defense

Ed Nealson

When it comes to punching it in the red zone, the Gamecock offense has been fairly potent. But tomorrow, USC will line up against a defense that has been great in preventing just such an occurrence.

South Carolina leads the SEC in red zone efficiency, having scored 13 touchdowns in 16 trips there this season. It's opponent, the No. 1 Alabama Crimson Tide, leads the league in red zone defense, having only allowed eight scores in 12 chances there this season.

Coach Steve Spurrier says the challenge Alabama presents is certainly a daunting one.

"Just because you're down there close, doesn't mean you're going to get a touchdown against Alabama. Those guys, they're not going to concede anything to you," Spurrier said. "To be in the game, we've got to score (touchdowns) if we don't instead of kicking field goal, throw short range." Last season in the league, the Gamecocks had difficulty putting touchdowns on the board, scoring just six points on two field goals, despite having three opportunities in the red zone.

Alabama coach Nick Saban said his team's success in the red zone as important to the team's success this year.

"Our guys have competed very well early in the year. You have to give them credit for the tenacity that they have," Saban said. "I wish we hadn't have played and never let a team get down there! Sure. But we were better in the red zone last year and I think that contributed to our success, and that is something that we have emphasized this year with this team, and it is certainly something that I think we've done well for us so far." The Gamecocks have been successful with the ball close to the end zone this year, though. Of those 13 scores by their red zone offense, 13 of them were touchdowns. Alabama has allowed only two such touchdowns in the red zone this season.

Spurrier credits the tendency of offensive line coach Shawn Elliott to have his players spread out when the team is in the red zone. He says that this has allowed the running game to flourish when the team is down in that area, and Elliott agrees that it has been helpful.

"When you bring everything in there and you put roughly two tight ends, a fullback and one wide receiver, you can definitely attack the area, and Elliott agrees that it has been helpful. When you bring everything in there and you put roughly two tight ends, a fullback and one wide receiver, you can definitely attack the area, and Elliott agrees that it has been helpful.

USC wide receiver Alshon Jeffery couldn't make the catch against Alabama last year.

USC tailback Brian Maddox celebrates a touchdown in Carolina's 38-19 win over Furman.

USC quarterback Stephen Garcia fumbles earlier this season in a 17-6 win over Georgia.

Alabama tailbacks focus for Carolina

Gamecocks look to lock down on Ingram, Richardson

Chris Bilko

Alabama's offense is like a machine that produces touchdowns at will. It has not looked fancy for the Crimson Tide this season, but there are no points for style in football. Alabama has been one of the most efficient offenses in the nation this season and it is built around the running duo of Mark Ingram and Trent Richardson.

Ingram, who missed the first two games of the season due to injury, is the bigger name of the two. He is the incumbent Heisman Trophy winner and is looking to be the first repeat recipient since Archie Griffin. Ingram has been on fire in the three games he has played, amassing 355 yards and six touchdowns.

"One thing we got to do to contain those backs is to play hard and to fit proper gaps," defensive line coach Rob Thompson said. "We've got to take better pursuit angles and play hard all night.

Richardson may not have the national attention like Ingram, but the sophomore has put in better yardage numbers on the season with 495. His speed provides a good balance to Ingram's power and will challenge all aspects of the Gamecock defense, especially the secondary that struggled against Auburn.

They run pretty hard, but I think that if we can get them to stop their feet, then we can do a good job of gang tackling them," linebacker Tony Barrington said. "We've got to make them take that extra step that we expect us to bring them down one on one, but I think we can. If we can stop them from getting a full head of steam before getting to the line of scrimmage, then we can bring them down."

With all the attention being paid to the dynamic duo of Ingram and Richardson, USC needs to not overlook the playmaking ability of Greg McElroy. The senior has been extremely effective this season, completing almost 70 percent of his passing attempts. He also has seven touchdown passes this season and is averaging about 9.6 yards per pass.

"When you have two great tailbacks like they do, you can throw the ball at the defensive coordinator Lorenzo Ward said. "We've got to do a good job of stopping the run and making him heat up by throwing the football."

McElroy certainly has the pedigree of a winner. The Smithfield, Ala., native has not lost a game while at Alabama or in high school. His last loss came when he was in the 8th grade. His fond of mistake-free football is with his carried Alabama these past two seasons.

"He does a good job managing the game," safety DeVonte Holloman said. "He doesn't make any stupid plays, turning the ball over and things like that. When you don't turn the ball over you always put your team in a position to win."

USC will certainly have to improve from the Auburn game if they want any chance to beat Alabama. They will need to focus on stopping the run in order to keep McElroy may make an unlikely mistake.
it will be a difficult task," Spurrier said. "We've had to get a bunch of breaks, this, that and the other. But sometimes that happens in football."

To become the first team to pull off a regular season upset of the nation's top-ranked squad since No. 6 Texas' upset of No. 1 Oklahoma on Nov. 1, 2008, Carolina will have to find a way to stop a team that has won 19 consecutive games overall, nine in a row on the road or a neutral site and 18 straight in regular season league play.

"I guess what's most impressive is that they have won so many games. They have some close games now and then, and they've managed to pull all those wins," Spurrier said. "I know the Auburn game at the end of the regular season league play. And then, and they've managed to pull all those out," Spurrier said. "We'd have no problems getting to 20-0."

"Anytime you do have a chance and upset a No. 1 team, it will be a difficult task," Spurrier said. "The only thing stopping us from beating them is doing it, so we know there's a chance we can do it."

As it pursues history, the Gamecocks have the benefit of having seen the Heisman frontrunner Robinson take on Sparty, Michigan State. In a matchup between two of the most prestigious programs in the nation, Michigan, No. 13, and Carolina, No. 11, the Wolverines will be looking to knock off their No. 2 ranked opponent in a game that could decide the fate of the conference and the national title.

Chris Culliver likely hadn't had the start to his senior season he envisioned. Unable to play in the season opener due to eligibility issues, Culliver has struggled since returning to the lineup and picked up two personal fouls penalties against Auburn, leading to defensive coordinator Lorenzo Ward to announce that he will not play against the Michigan State Spartans from the box three weeks after suffering a heart attack. With its leader making his return, Carolina will need to be on top of things tomorrow against the Tigers.

The Gamecocks hope the fifth time will be the charm for the Gamecocks in these kinds of games. It's a challenge they should consider taking on with vigour, because the potential reward is a precious victory."

"Coach Spurrier said we've got a chance to make history," cornerback Stephen Gilmore said. "They're the No. 1 ranked team in the country, so we've got to be ready for it."
ARE INGRAM AND RICHARDSON LICKING THEIR CHOPS TO FACE USC'S STRUGGLING RUN DEFENSE?

It is difficult to see a bounce-back in games for the Tide this week. It is no secret that Alabama is having a rough season running the football. Now with the Tide under .500 for the first time since 1906,江苏 has a lot to learn and only a few seasons are looking forward to, especially after not producing much last week against Florida. Not only is South Carolina's rush defense in the middle of the pack in the SEC, but Ingram's been asked all week about his record-breaking, 24-yard performance against the Gamecocks in Tuscaloosa last season. Now that Richardson has developed as a runner more, the Gamecocks' front seven has even more on their hands than last year. These two should be their biggest concern on Saturday.

---

WHAT WILL IT TAKE FOR USC TO LEAVE WITH A VICTORY?

Take care of the football. This year's version of the Alabama defense is lacking on the backfield, especially in the red zone. The Gamecocks have scored 14 of 14 red zone opportunities and are averaging just 1.75 points per possession. A young Tide defense is starting to mature, and Alabama's offense is much better than it was last year.

---

WHAT IS ALABAMA PREPARED FOR THE HOSTILE ENVIRONMENT WITH A NATIONAL AUDIENCE AND “GAME DAY” ON THE DOCKET?

The Tide is not used to dealing with hostile environments. Alabama has had a target on its back the last few years, and everyone is gunning to beat the defending national champions. I talked to the sports editor of Alabama's student newspaper two weeks ago for the Tide's last road game. He had written a column that week on how South Carolina's defense was the best in the SEC. Once the game started, it sounded like one of the loudest in the country. Everyone turns up when Alabama comes to town.

---

IS THE TIDE TAKING THIS GAME SERIOUSLY BASED ON LAST SEASON’S DOWN-TO-THE-WIRE FINISH?

I know that's hard to believe, but that's the kind of mentality Nick Saban brings to a team. The Tide did seem to let up in the second half of the Florida game last week, but that wasn't when they were already up by four scores. And this isn't Vandyland we're talking about. South Carolina is the No. 19 team in the country, and like the question asked, Alabama has had little trouble with South Carolina, practically every single play in the fourth quarter to be able toitol this game.

The team and fans both see this as a dangerous game.
SUPPORT THE GAMECOCKS BY WEARING GARNET FOR EVERY GAME

GARNET ON GAMEDAY

GAMECOCK STUDENT REWARDS

UPCOMING GAMES

VOLLEYBALL VS. GEORGIA
FRIDAY, OCTOBER 15 @ 6PM

WOMEN’S SOCCER VS. GEORGIA
FRIDAY, OCTOBER 15 @ 7PM

MEN’S SOCCER VS. UCF
SATURDAY, OCTOBER 16 @ 7PM

WOMEN’S SOCCER VS. TENNESSEE
SUNDAY, OCTOBER 17 @ 1PM

VOLLEYBALL VS. AUBURN
SUNDAY, OCTOBER 17 @ 1:30PM

VOLLEYBALL VS. KENTUCKY
FRIDAY, OCTOBER 22 @ 7PM

VOLLEYBALL V. TENNESSEE
SUNDAY, OCTOBER 24 @ 1:30PM

WOMENS SOCCER VS. LSU (KICK FOR THE CURE)
SATURDAY, OCTOBER 24 @ 3PM

GAMECOCKSONLINE.COM
DEADLINE
Additional info
Two-line minimum
Lines average 28 characters in length
Additional options
See around ed: $1.25
Logo insertion available for an additional cost

Classified ad rates
First insertion: $2.50 per line
Subsequent: $1.50 per line

E-mail: sholmes@mailbox.sc.edu
Office hours: M-F 8:30 am - 5 pm • Russell House, Rm. 343

Now hiring student sales reps

The Office of Student Media is now hiring sales representatives to sell advertising for both print and online. Student needs to be able to work under pressure with deadlines and understand the importance of forming and developing relationships with clients. We are looking for second or third year students from any major.

EBOO PATEL
MEMBER OF PRESIDENT OBAMA'S FAITH ADVISORY COUNCIL

OCTOBER 12 • 8PM
RUSSELL HOUSE BALLROOM
FREE TO USC STUDENTS, FACULTY, & STAFF WITH CAROLINA CARD
for more info call 777-2100 or visit cp.ac.edu, even subject to change, paid by student activity fees