The Daily Gamecock, Wednesday, November 24, 2015

The University of South Carolina, Office of Student Media

Follow this and additional works at: https://scholarcommons.sc.edu/gamecock_2015_nov

Recommended Citation
https://scholarcommons.sc.edu/gamecock_2015_nov/10

This Newspaper is brought to you by the 2015 at Scholar Commons. It has been accepted for inclusion in November by an authorized administrator of Scholar Commons. For more information, please contact dillarda@mailbox.sc.edu.
University President Harris Pastides announced the formation of the new Center for Civil Rights History and Research to be housed in the Ernest F. Hollings Special Collections Library at an event Monday morning. Additionally, Rep. James Clyburn, who serves as assistant House Democratic leader and is the first African-American member of United States Congress from South Carolina since Reconstruction, announced that he will donate his Congressional papers to the center.

The center, described by a press release from the university as “the first single entity dedicated to telling South Carolina’s civil rights story,” will bring together collections previously held by the university from notable civil rights leaders in the state as well as new collections such as that of Clyburn. It is a joint initiative between University Libraries and the College of Arts and Sciences.

Pastides emphasized that the announcement is part of a broader move by the university to acknowledge and pay respect to the state’s history with civil rights while helping bring about progress in South Carolina and around the country.

“The University of South Carolina is re-energizing its commitment to keep pressing forward,” he said in his address, “and today’s announcement is a big and correct step in the right direction.”

Pastides also noted that the 2013 commemoration of the school’s desegregation helped

Mary Ramsey
©SCMagazine

Civil Rights History Center announced

Congressman Jim Clyburn announced the new center on Monday.

The last time South Carolina hosted Clemson, the Gamecocks were 9-2, ranked 10th in the country, and seeking their 13th straight home victory under senior quarterback Connor Shaw and fifth-straight win over the Tigers. Clyburn, on the other hand, was ranked sixth and seeking a shot at the National Championship.

Now, the Gamecocks are 3-8, facing their worst season since 1999 and coming off a loss to the Citadel, South Carolina’s first loss to an FCS school in 25 years. Clyburn is the No. 1 team in the country and will play in the College Football Playoff barring an unexpected loss. Few Gamecock fans expected the season to turn out this way, but it was evident from the start that this would not be a bounce-back season for South Carolina. With a former walk-on at quarterback and a defense that never improved from last season, the Gamecocks never really had a chance of a winning season.

However, the Palmetto Bowl is a rivalry, and rivalries don’t always turn out as expected. South Carolina fans are holding out hope that their team can somehow pull off the miraculous upset.

The 3-8 Gamecocks will face off against No. 1 Clemson Saturday, seeking an upset.

Emily Barber
@EMILYRISA

GAMECOCKS SEEK MIRACULOUS WIN

The Tiger Burn is the last big event of Rivalry Week before the football game this Saturday. The Carolina-Clemson rivalry reaches back to the late 1800s and stems from more than athletic Belgian capital on lockdown following manhunt of Paris attacks suspect

After five unsuccessful raids were carried out Monday by police in Brussels, Belgium, the capital city remains in a pseudo-lockdown, according to NBC News. The police were in search of Salah Abdeslam, potential accomplice to the Nov. 13 attacks in Paris. According to Belgian Interior Minister Jan Jambon, approximately 1,000 officers were working during the overnight raids of almost 20 properties after citizens of the Belgian capital were ordered to shelter in place Sunday night. After the Paris attacks that left 130 people dead, Abdeslam is believed to have fled France to neighboring Belgium, which has forced Belgian officials to place the capital on heightened alert and level with tight security measures to avoid what they say is an imminent threat to the city.

— Compiled by Patrick Ingraham, News Editor

Two men charged in murder of Indianapolis woman

According to CNN, the Indianapolis Metropolitan Police Department (IMPD) have charged Larry Taylor, 18, and John Watson, 21, of Indianapolis in connection with the murder of Amanda Blackburn, 28, during a home invasion on Nov. 10. Federal marshals, IMPD violent crimes detectives and the gangs unit worked in cooperation to solve the break-in and shooting of Blackburn, who was the wife of Indianapolis pastor Davey Blackburn and was 15 weeks pregnant with their second child at the time of her death. Weston Blackburn, the couple’s one-year-old son, was home at the time of the incident, but was unhurt. Davey Blackburn, who discovered his wife shot after returning home from the gym, released a statement Monday commending the detectives and officers in the case and issuing his hope that justice will prevail, but also that he is “deciding to love, not hate.”

— Compiled by Patrick Ingraham, News Editor

Man attempting to rob store in Vader mask stopped by salad dressing

Fox News reported Monday that Jacksonville, Florida, police have arrested a man who attempted to rob a convenience store wearing a Darth Vader costume and wielding a pistol. Jacob Mercer, 32, was charged with attempted armed robbery of Jacksonville Beach’s 8 til Late store wearing the mask of the Sith Lord and demanding cash from the store’s cashier with pistol in tow. The cashier grabbed a nearby bottle of salad dressing— it is unconfirmed what flavor — and threw it at the robber, striking him in the face. Mercer fled the scene but was identified by a bystander because of the cuts on his face from the dressing bottle.

—Compiled by Patrick Ingraham, News Editor

CORRECTIONS
If you find an error in today’s edition of The Daily Gamecock, let us know about it. Email editor@dailygamecock.com and we will publish the correction in our next issue.
Kroc gave short performances as Cockappella, the co-ed a cappella and the Carolina Girls dance team. Performances by Project Dance tape -- burning of the tiger. Local band "Sandstorm," and traces of smoke fl flattened into the sky. In minutes, all that remained was piles of ashes. He was pleased at the turnout and is optimistic about the future. He was pleased at the turnout and is optimistic about the future.

"I'm most excited to see all of the student participation," first-year marketing student Jacqueline Phillips was quoted as saying. "This is the best turnout I've ever seen," he said. Of the upcoming game, he said, "Honestly, we are not very good this year, but everyone here is looking forward to the upcoming game and their appreciation of students' support. Despite the team's shaky season, many students were enthusiastic about the Tiger Burn and have hopes for the upcoming season. The crowd was excited about the Tiger Burn and the possibility of a win.

Despite the team's shaky season, many students were enthusiastic about the Tiger Burn and have hopes for the upcoming season. The crowd was excited about the Tiger Burn and the possibility of a win. "As an engineering (student), it's cool to see what the mechanical engineers built and appreciate their work," said a first-year chemical engineering student Madison Hancock. "I think people have accepted that we've had a very good year this year, and everyone's still having fun," Hancock said. "We've all just held high hopes that we might beat Clemson this year."

After all the performances and speeches were over, the "2001: A Space Odyssey" theme began to play, much like before a kickoff at Williams-Brace, as anticipation heightened. This was followed by "Sandstorm," and traces of smoke could be seen curling from around the tiger's base. Minutes later, "Sandstorm" exploded, flames crawled up the sides of the tiger and engulfed its body and head. The detailed snout and eyes were quickly consumed, and the front legs fell off dramatically and amber and burning scraps of paper fluttered into the sky.

In minutes, all that remained was a skeletal wooden frame and several piles of ashes. Taylor, who has helped build the tiger in years past, said that the best part about watching the tiger go up in flames. He was pleased at the turnout and is optimistic about the future.

"This is the best turnout I've ever seen," he said. Of the upcoming game, he said, "Honestly, we are not very good this year, but everyone here is looking forward to the upcoming game and their appreciation of students' support. Despite the team's shaky season, many students were enthusiastic about the Tiger Burn and have hopes for the upcoming season. The crowd was excited about the Tiger Burn and the possibility of a win."
UofSC Probs

Your Solutions Start Here.

Like us on Facebook, post your suggestions, and follow the progress of your initiatives.

If you have any questions, concerns or feedback about something you see or experience on campus, post it on our Facebook page!

UofSC Probs
@UofSCSG
@UofSCStudentGovernment
U of SC Probs
@UofSCSG

GO COCKS

Student Health Services
University of South Carolina

Medical Services:
- General/primary care*
- Women’s care*
- Lab testing*
- X-rays*
- Immunizations
- Travel consultations
- Sports medicine & physical therapy
- Pharmacy* (Transfer refills here)
- Administration of allergy shots

Mental Health Services:
- Counseling*
- Psychiatry

Hours
- 8 a.m. - 5 p.m. M-F
- 2-8 p.m. Sundays*, fall/spring
- 8:30 a.m. - 4:30 p.m. M-F, breaks/summer

Learn more about our services & programs at sa.sc.edu/shs

THE FLU SEASON
LASTS UNTIL SPRING!

Flu shots are FREE for students* and $20 for faculty/staff

For more information about the flu vaccine call 803-777-9511 or visit sa.sc.edu/shs/flu

Just walk in to the Thomson Student Health Center and get the flu vaccine - no appointment needed.

Prevention & Advocacy Services:
- Campus Wellness prevention and wellness programming. Includes nutrition appointments, stress management programs, exercise consultations, tobacco treatment programs, sexual health consultations & more
- Sexual Assault and Violence Intervention & Prevention (SAVIP) advocacy and prevention services. Victim advocacy, prevention programs and more. If you experience sexual assault, relationship violence or harassment and need support services, call USC police at 803-777-4215 and let them know you need to reach a SAVIP advocate. Advocates are on call 24/7.
- Healthy Carolina initiatives, programs and policy changes. Promotes health and wellness for a healthy campus environment through the collaborative development, promotion and assessment of policies, programs, services, health communications and initiatives.

Supporting the vision of a Healthy Carolina community

Like us on Facebook: facebook.com/UofSCshs Follow us on Twitter: @UofSCshs

FRIENDS DON’T LET FRIENDS SUPPORT CLEMSON

Sincerely,
The Daily Gamecock staff

GO COCKS

THE FLU SEASON
LASTS UNTIL SPRING!

Flu shots are FREE for students* and $20 for faculty/staff

For more information about the flu vaccine call 803-777-9511 or visit sa.sc.edu/shs/flu

Just walk in to the Thomson Student Health Center and get the flu vaccine - no appointment needed.

Prevention & Advocacy Services:
- Campus Wellness prevention and wellness programming. Includes nutrition appointments, stress management programs, exercise consultations, tobacco treatment programs, sexual health consultations & more
- Sexual Assault and Violence Intervention & Prevention (SAVIP) advocacy and prevention services. Victim advocacy, prevention programs and more. If you experience sexual assault, relationship violence or harassment and need support services, call USC police at 803-777-4215 and let them know you need to reach a SAVIP advocate. Advocates are on call 24/7.
- Healthy Carolina initiatives, programs and policy changes. Promotes health and wellness for a healthy campus environment through the collaborative development, promotion and assessment of policies, programs, services, health communications and initiatives.

Supporting the vision of a Healthy Carolina community

Like us on Facebook: facebook.com/UofSCshs Follow us on Twitter: @UofSCshs
Southern Squeezed juice promotes healthy lifestyle

Rachel Minetti
July 2015, Southern Squeezed fresh, cold-pressed juices. In Francisco with the intent of and her husband, Saket, moved promoted a healthy and clean squeezed juice on location, Adele's evolution clear in '25' Street every Tuesday at the Healthy Carolina Farmer's Market. cries out in "I Miss You." also serve as sultry love songs. "Were Young" are two tunes that tear. the tracks on this album are instruments. promotes Adele's powerful vibrato over-produced beats — it only to large and more hip promotes Adele's powerful vibrato over-produced beats — it only to large and more hip

Fresh juice shops are growing in popularity all around the country — and to all get behind. Usually small and local, these stores make freshly squeezed juice an Incubator, promoting a healthy and clean lifestyle. Originally a concept reserved to larger and more hip cities such as New York City and Los Angeles, juice shops are popping up everywhere — and are finally here in Columbia. Munshaw said. "Some of the other juice shops around Columbia are of a restaurant, ours is a juice bar," Munshaw said. "There is more of a grab-and-go place." While smoothie shops might work as your daily intake of fruits and vegetables, juices are lighter alternatives. Each one of our juices has boost three to five pounds of produce in each bottle," Munshaw said. Each ounce bottle costs around $6 to $8—a squeeze for most—but almost all of their ingredients are locally grown. Southern Squeezed gets their arugula and romaine from Freshly Grown Farm, another Soda City market staple. "Whatever is available that is local, we try and get," Munshaw said. "We use a produce distributor that we can specifically ask for organic South Carolina produce, which is as much as we can do. Along with their variety of cold-pressed juices and almond milks, Southern Squeezed recently has begun selling local organic eggs from a farm in Clapin, South Carolina. If you’re looking for an alternative to your fruit smoothie and want to be more conscious of purchasing locally produced goods, Southern Squeezed is ready to be the next popular spot. Now with a table at the Healthy Carolina Farmer’s Market every Tuesday on Greene Street, picking up a refreshing boost is even easier for USC students. Adele is back with mature, introspective lyrics and defined musical sound. Four years in the making, "25" has a similar style to its predecessor. The sheer difference in which Adele reminisces on her past life in South London, so fans get a peak into how she lived before she was famous. Though the lanterns her former years back home, Adele accepts the reality of growing up and maturing: "I miss my friends / I miss my mother, I miss when / I was a party to be thrown / but that was a million years ago." "Inexperienced" concludes the album with echoes of a child’s voice. Adele once again speaks of her only child and the optimism her family feels for the future. Adele’s future is definitely lengthy, and "25" only serves to prove that no matter how many years pass, her voice is timeless. The album is a cultural masterpiece of world music, growth and, ultimately, admiration for loved ones. No longer is she the meek, heartbroken girl who dominated the music scene some years ago. Adele is now a woman with a family of her own, and "25" represents her evolution perfectly. The biggest problem of the game is the writing. Instead of the usual tropes, the player must choose from four options that are one of a kind. The game includes a new "check-in" feature that allows you to bring the character to life. Costumes now have their own story. Spend enough time with them and they'll ask for help solving their own problems. Though many elements have been improved in "Fallout 4," it still lacks the charm of the previous two games. The writing is bland and shallow. Technical hiccups have come and gone with most games, but the bugs and glitches in "Fallout 4" make this one more difficult. Some time later you are awoken prematurely as your spouse is killed off. You spend more time after another indeterminable amount of years and are thrust out into the wasteland, forced to find your soul. "Fallout 4" follows in its predecessor’s footsteps with a mixture of wandering through4A

"Fallout 4" blows away expectations

Moments after your character emerged from the tunnel of Vault 111, I found myself staring at a keyboard and wand full of things to do. Naturally, I ignored what the game wanted me to do and headed south, no destination in mind. I just wanted to explore. About five minutes later something amazing happened — what began as a simple radar ambush turned into a 10-minute hunt for survivors to fight my way through enemy encampments. After the exciting duel andooth each and every one, I checked my map and saw just how far I had traveled. It wasn’t a bad way to start a new game.

It’s good to be back. Bethesda Softworks’ second numbered entry into the “Fallout” series may have changed a lot, but one thing hasn’t. "Fallout 4" remains the same post-apocalyptic, role-playing game that was first released in 1998. "Fallout 4" takes place in post-apocalyptic Boston in the year 2102. It’s good to be back. Bethesda Softworks’ second numbered entry into the “Fallout” series may have changed a lot, but one thing hasn’t. "Fallout 4" remains the same post-apocalyptic, role-playing game that was first released in 1998. "Fallout 4" takes place in post-apocalyptic Boston in the year 2102.

Adele’s evolution dear in ‘25’

Adele’s evolution dear in ‘25’

\[Image: Adele's evolution dear in ‘25’\]

Since the release of "Hello," a love ballad worthy of praise, fans have been anxiously awaiting the release of Adele’s latest album. "Hello" stands as a more vulnerable state. Unlike the rearing hit song, "Hello," this track is a smooth, sweet and beautiful edition to the album. "Million Years Age" is a story in which Adele reminisces on her past life in South London, so fans get a peak into how she lived before she was famous. Though the lanterns her former years back home, Adele accepts the reality of growing up and maturing: "I miss my friends / I miss my mother, I miss when / I was a party to be thrown / but that was a million years ago." "Inexperienced" concludes the album with echoes of a child’s voice. Adele once again speaks of her only child and the optimism her family feels for the future. Adele’s future is definitely lengthy, and "25" only serves to prove that no matter how many years pass, her voice is timeless. The album is a cultural masterpiece of world music, growth and, ultimately, admiration for loved ones. No longer is she the meek, heartbroken girl who dominated the music scene some years ago. Adele is now a woman with a family of her own, and "25" represents her evolution perfectly.

The game follows your character from the moments before the Great War to the year 2287, centuries since the Great War of 2077. The game follows your character from the moments before the Great War to the year 2287, centuries since the Great War of 2077

Moments after your character emerged from the tunnel of Vault 111, I found myself staring at a keyboard and wand full of things to do. Naturally, I ignored what the game wanted me to do and headed south, no destination in mind. I just wanted to explore. About five minutes later something amazing happened — what began as a simple radar ambush turned into a 10-minute hunt for survivors to fight my way through enemy encampments. After the exciting duel and tooth each and every one, I checked my map and saw just how far I had traveled. It wasn’t a bad way to start a new game.

It’s good to be back. Bethesda Softworks’ second numbered entry into the “Fallout” series may have changed a lot, but one thing hasn’t. “Fallout 4” remains the same post-apocalyptic, role-playing game that was first released in 1998. “Fallout 4” takes place in post-apocalyptic Boston in the year 2102. It’s good to be back. Bethesda Softworks’ second numbered entry into the “Fallout” series may have changed a lot, but one thing hasn’t. “Fallout 4” remains the same post-apocalyptic, role-playing game that was first released in 1998. “Fallout 4” takes place in post-apocalyptic Boston in the year 2102.

Moments after your character emerged from the tunnel of Vault 111, I found myself staring at a keyboard and wand full of things to do. Naturally, I ignored what the game wanted me to do and headed south, no destination in mind. I just wanted to explore. About five minutes later something amazing happened — what began as a simple radar ambush turned into a 10-minute hunt for survivors to fight my way through enemy encampments. After the exciting duel and tooth each and every one, I checked my map and saw just how far I had traveled. It wasn’t a bad way to start a new game.

It’s good to be back. Bethesda Softworks’ second numbered entry into the “Fallout” series may have changed a lot, but one thing hasn’t. “Fallout 4” remains the same post-apocalyptic, role-playing game that was first released in 1998. “Fallout 4” takes place in post-apocalyptic Boston in the year 2102.
THANKSGIVING

RECIPIES FOR THE BROKE COLLEGE STUDENT

Joseph Glass
@TDG_ARTS

1: Roasted Vegetables
Almost everything can be roasted. Potatoes? Roasted. Asparagus? Roasted. Brussel Sprouts? Roasted! Roasting vegetables is easy; it doesn’t take too much time and can be delicious with the right seasonings. You can use a singular vegetable or mix and match, but some veggies are better for roasting than others. Potatoes- white or sweet, carrots, parsnips, Brussel sprouts and asparagus are all perfect for roasting. Just pre-heat the oven to 400 degrees, slice up your vegetables and toss them with olive oil, balsamic vinegar, fresh salt and pepper and fresh Italian seasonings (oregano, rosemary, thyme and basil). Let the vegetables roast in the middle of the rack for 20 to 40 minutes depending on chosen produce- potatoes take longer. If you’re feeling particularly adventurous, dice up some bacon to roast with the dish.

2: Mashed Potatoes
Almost everyone loves mashed potatoes. But who wouldn’t- they’re creamy and delicious. They’re also really easy to make. You can use almost any type of potato to make mashed potatoes and the preparation will be the same- though flavors will differ. The first step is to wash and peel each potato unless you plan to keep the rind in. The rind is full of nutrition but can grate against more sensitive palates. Boil the potatoes in salted and oiled water- making sure they’re fully cooked by testing them with a fork. Once cooked, just throw them in a bowl for mashing with butter, cream (or milk), salt and pepper. For a gourmet touch, add pureed roasted garlic and fresh Parmigiano-Reggiano to white potatoes or diced and roasted chipotles and cumin to sweet potatoes.

3: Sautéed Green Beans
This dish is as easy as the pie you’ll be eating after dinner. You technically only need green beans and oil, but dicing up some bacon, fresh garlic and almonds can really add to the flavor. Just dice your green beans- once on each side and then to an appropriate length. And then stir fry the ingredients over a pre-heated pan on medium heat. If you’re looking for an international flavor, you can add leeks, bok choy, or shallots to the stir-fry. A simple Asian dressing can be made by mixing corn starch into a warmed mixture of soy sauce, rice wine vinegar and honey- and then add the dressing to the stir-fry part way through cooking. The sauce should thicken uniformly across the dish. Garnish with sliced almond or pecan and you’re done!

Other Tips for a Delicious Thanksgiving:
You can make homemade butter with some heavy whipping cream, a small glass mason jar and a marble. Fill the glass about one-half full with heavy whipping cream, place the clean marble inside, seal and shake until the contents become thick and then re-separate into butter and buttermilk. This makes a great activity for young children who will squeal in delight when it works.
Likewise, adding hard liquor as replacement for half of the water in a pie crust will make your crust flaky and delicious. Vodka will maintain a neutral flavor, whereas rum and bourbon will impart their respective profiles.

TIME TO RAIN ON THEIR PARADE

Come and get your umbrella and other officially licensed merchandise today!
OPEN HOUSE

DECEMBER 1ST, 2ND & 11TH

FREE FOOD & REFRESHMENTS

TAKE A TOUR NOV 20TH - DEC 11TH & BE ENTERED TO WIN A $750 GIFT CARD.

SAVE UP TO $450 WITH REDUCED FEES

Apply online today at AMERICANCAMPUS.COM FORMERLY COLUMBIASTUDENTLIVING.COM

You’re going to love it here:

Where students love living.
Gender-divided housing no longer has purpose

I don't believe that the university should be in the business of trying to block consenting college students from doing things that consenting college students have done since Adam and Eve existed in U. Eden. But what about the comparison of mixed-gender housing? Surely some couple would want to room together even if they were not romantically involved. To start with, it’s not like the university has literally never dealt with roommates who start the semester as friends and then have a conflict. Furthermore, that particular point, as well as many others, are really heteronormative. After all, surely we’ve had a gay or lesbian couple room together and break up as some point but on no one has ever called for exclusively single-sex housing so we don’t have breakups. And the current system only affects the plaintiffs (male friends of gay and lesbian people, without fulfilling that All Important Objective of preventing the sex. This is both a compelling reason for it to continue and it’s not close. We need to invest resources through air power and in order to do so, we have to update our strategies for defeating terrorist groups. We are losing the social media war against the IS and it is not close. We need to invest in combating the recruitment efforts of the IS through new media, as well as dismantling their economical resources through power and diplomacy.

We learned in Afghanistan and Iraq that we can’t win the battle against terrorism on our own. France has taken a first step in the fight against the Islamic State, and we should let them lead. Russia has lent its support, and while we have a knee-jerk distrust of any Russian activity, we should support them as well. Let Putin send his army to Syria, and we should give the Russians support in any way we can. The Cold War is over, and we must find new allies in the war on terrorism.

We have the most powerful air force that the world has ever seen. And in order to defeat the Islamic State against the Islamic State would militarily as well as economically and socially. Taking away refugees is exactly what the Islamic State wants and expects us to do as it drives our nationalism of the narrative of the United States as a Muslim-hating nation—which drives their recruitment. Global terrorism is not going away any time soon, but we cannot fight it with the same losing tactics that we’ve used since Vietnam. We need to find the Islamic State not only militarily but also economically and politically. Putting thousands of troops in Syria will not help anything, but will cost the U.S. millions of dollars and too many lives. If we don’t learn from our mistakes, we are doomed to repeat them. As noted by economists like Thomas Piketty and Nobel-laureate Paul Krugman.

The attacks on Paris were barbaric, and it’s not close. We need to invest resources through air power and in order to do so, we have to update our strategies for defeating terrorist groups. We are losing the social media war against the IS and it is not close. We need to invest in combating the recruitment efforts of the IS through new media, as well as dismantling their economical resources through power and diplomacy.

We learned in Afghanistan and Iraq that we can’t win the battle against terrorism on our own. France has taken a first step in the fight against the Islamic State, and we should let them lead. Russia has lent its support, and while we have a knee-jerk distrust of any Russian activity, we should support them as well. Let Putin send his army to Syria, and we should give the Russians support in any way we can. The Cold War is over, and we must find new allies in the war on terrorism.

We have the most powerful air force that the world has ever seen. And in order to defeat the Islamic State against the Islamic State would militarily as well as economically and socially. Taking away refugees is exactly what the Islamic State wants and expects us to do as it drives their nationalism of the narrative of the United States as a Muslim-hating nation—which drives their recruitment. Global terrorism is not going away any time soon, but we cannot fight it with the same losing tactics that we’ve used since Vietnam. We need to find the Islamic State not only militarily but also economically and politically. Putting thousands of troops in Syria will not help anything, but will cost the U.S. millions of dollars and too many lives. If we don’t learn from our mistakes, we are doomed to repeat them. As noted by economists like Thomas Piketty and Nobel-laureate Paul Krugman.
Clemson\textsuperscript{PAGE1}

After last week’s loss, this will likely be Shawn Elliott’s last game as South Carolina’s head coach. Obviously, Elliott would like to go out with an incredible win over the Tigers, and to do that the Gamecocks will have to play a nearly perfect game in all three phases.

Currently, the 11-0 Tigers are 18 point favorites on the road. Starting quarterback Deshaun Watson and starting running back Wayne Gallman have led the Tiger offense this season. However, with the exception of a 38-0 drubbing at Miami earlier this season, the Tigers have struggled on the road. Though undefeated at Louisville, North Carolina State and Syracuse, the Tigers only won by a combined 28 points in those games, with all three coming down to the wire.

Under Elliott, the Gamecocks have gone 1-4, losing to Texas A&M, Tennessee, Florida and The Citadel by a combined 21 points. South Carolina has not led at halftime yet this season. For the Gamecocks to have a shot against Clemson this year, they will have to get off to a fast start and keep momentum throughout the game.

South Carolina vs. Clemson

Saturday, November 28, 2015

12:00 PM on ESPN

Williams-Brice Stadium

A former walk-on, Orth has played well this season, earning the full-time starting job over two highly-rated recruits in Lorenzo Ruez and Connor Mitch.

Olivia Barthel

The digital archive for The Daily Gamecock newspaper is NOW available online. Read entire issues of the newspaper from spring 2007 through fall 2015. Great for researching the University or seeing what was happening on campus.

More issues coming soon!

Tuesday, November 24, 2015

The Daily Gamecock

newspaper archive NOW available online

scholarcommons.sc.edu/gamecock

Student Media

University of South Carolina student media

Russell House, Bly 242

2025.771.9965

www.sc.edu/studentmedia

500 School Street
Columbia, SC 29208

The Daily Gamecock

VISIT HOUSING.DAILYGAMECOCK.COM

South Carolina vs. Clemson

Saturday, November 28, 2015

12:00 PM on ESPN

Williams-Brice Stadium

A former walk-on, Orth has played well this season, earning the full-time starting job over two highly-rated recruits in Lorenzo Ruez and Connor Mitch.
Basketball teams prepare for busy week

COLUMNA

Orth shouldn’t be forced to shoulder blame

Adam Orfinger
SPORTS WRITER

With all the frustration, disappointment and even anger that this season has generated, Gamecock fans should keep one thing in mind: it’s not Perry Orth’s fault. Even with all the finger-pointing that has been occurring, no one should ever point at Orth.

Just last year, Perry Orth was a walk-on. Before this year, he had thrown three collegiate passes. The plan was never for Orth to play much this year, much less start as many games as he has. For a former walk-on to be the starting quarterback at an SEC school seems preposterous, at best, especially for a school with the recent success South Carolina has had.

But Perry Orth has done something that both Connor Mitch and Lorenzo Nunez have been incapable of doing: he has stayed healthy. You may question his accuracy on the deep ball or his decision-making, but you can’t question his toughness. He has taken some ferocious hits in the pocket yet always seems to pop right up. He’s smart when he tucks the ball and rare is the occasion when he should ever slide before getting drilled, but don’t take this for weakness. Against the Citadel, his ability to stand tall showed that he is equipped to stand tall in full display when, with a minute left and backed up in his own end zone, two Citadel defenders broke free right through the middle of the offensive line. A sack would have virtually ended the game, so instead of going down to avoid the shot he knew he’d get if he remained standing, he stood tall and released the football only milliseconds before getting driven into the dirt.

Even in the embarrassing, gun-wrenching loss to the Citadel, Orth was one of the few to deliver. Going into the game, all some fans could have hoped for was a mistake-free game from their quarterback. But on top of throwing no interceptions, Orth added 367 yards and a touchdown.

As much as Gamecock fans didn’t expect this season to go this way, neither did Orth. Three years ago, when he was just a student at a junior college who was never even playing football, he probably would have never dreamed he’d become an SEC quarterback. Even in the embarrassing, gun-wrenching loss to the Citadel, Orth was one of the few to deliver. Going into the game, all some fans could have hoped for was a mistake-free game from their quarterback. But on top of throwing no interceptions, Orth added 367 yards and a touchdown.

As much as Gamecock fans didn’t expect this season to go this way, neither did Orth. Three years ago, when he was just a student at a junior college who was never even playing football, he probably would have never dreamed he’d become an SEC quarterback. But on top of throwing no interceptions, Orth added 367 yards and a touchdown.

But Perry Orth has done something that both Connor Mitch and Lorenzo Nunez have been incapable of doing: he has stayed healthy. You may question his accuracy on the deep ball or his decision-making, but you can’t question his toughness. He has taken some ferocious hits in the pocket yet always seems to pop right up. He’s smart when he tucks the ball and rare is the occasion when he should ever slide before getting drilled, but don’t take this for weakness. Against the

Information extracted from the staff of

WEEK 13

#1 Florida State @ #8 Florida
#3 Ohio State @ #12 Michigan
#7 Oklahoma @ #6 Oklahoma State
#4 Notre Dame @ #11 Stanford
#1 Clemson @ South Carolina

OVERALL RECORD

South Carolina 34, Clemson 31
South Carolina 34, Clemson 31
South Carolina 34, Clemson 31
South Carolina 34, Clemson 31
South Carolina 34, Clemson 31
34-21
29-26
30-25

Florida State
Ohio State
Oklahoma State
Notre Dame
Florida State
Michigan
Oklahoma
Stanford
South Carolina 21, Clemson 38
South Carolina 21, Clemson 38
South Carolina 21, Clemson 38
South Carolina 21, Clemson 38
South Carolina 21, Clemson 38

Jeffrey Davis
SPORTS WRITER

Season Predictions from the staff of

Editor vs. Editor vs. Writer