Winter 2-21-2014

The Daily Gamecock, Friday, February 21, 2014

University of South Carolina, Office of Student Media

Follow this and additional works at: https://scholarcommons.sc.edu/gamecock_2014_feb

Recommended Citation
https://scholarcommons.sc.edu/gamecock_2014_feb/13

This Newspaper is brought to you by the 2014 at Scholar Commons. It has been accepted for inclusion in February by an authorized administrator of Scholar Commons. For more information, please contact dillarda@mailbox.sc.edu.
Members of the house of delegates were taken by surprise when they discovered their newly written codes had been altered by someone in the senate before the senate passed the legislation.

House Speaker Chip Fallaw said no one in the house was aware the changes had been made and said it was a miscommunication between the house and senate.

“We assumed that with what we gave them, they understood it was in addition to the original codes,” Fallaw said. “They misinterpreted.”

Student Government has been in the process of conducting a legislative overview over the past several months, updating the organization’s codes, including those of the house of delegates. The codes, previously known as the 100 to 700 codes, are being rewritten and renamed as Chapters 1 to 7.

The original 700 codes established the house of delegates and mandated that any changes to the codes be approved by both the senate and the house concurrently.

However, the codes did not include several provisions necessary to the body, such as a number to establish a quorum, the responsibilities of delegates or the relation between the house and senate.

In order to fill in the gaps the codes left behind, the house pruned Chapter 7, with the intention that it would be added on to the existing codes.

However, between, when the house passed Chapter 7 and when it appeared before the senate for a vote, portions of the language had changed.

A line was added at the beginning of the bill, which read, “the following Codes will be stricken and amended to read as follows,” but did not specify which codes were to be stricken. Therefore, Chapter 7 was passed through the senate, but the house did not add any of the lines as the house intended, nor did it strike the codes, as the senate intended.

The bill now resides with someone in the senate without the knowledge of the house, Fallaw said. He said he was never contacted about the changes and did not learn of them until senate convened Wednesday.

Students got information and samples from stations run by the College of Nursing, Healthy Carolina, Campus Wellness, Campus Recreation, Arnold School of Public Health, Gamecock Athletics, the McCutchen House, the School of Medicine and WP Rawl Farms. Those who visited all of the stations and received a sticker from each were able to spin a wheel at the last station to win a prize.

When friends think of the late Debbie Garris, her many scarves, creative earnings and smile typically come to mind. Garris was a prominent part of the journalism school for years.

Debbie Garris was known for her many scarves, creative earnings and smile. A longtime presence in the journalism school, she died unexpectedly Feb. 14. She was 62.

Garris became the administrative assistant to Shirley Staples Carter and then to Carol Purdon, the director of the school.

“Debbie Garris was the keeper of the lighthouse here at the school,” Purdon wrote in an online memorial. “If something wasn’t working, she found out how to fix it. She kept it in sell.”

Garris was born on July 3, 1951, and grew up in Virginia. She moved to South Carolina in 1968 and attended Radford College in 1969; she finished her degree at USC in 1972.

While in college, she found a passion for photographing horse races and covered many horse shows throughout the Southeast.

Some of her work was published in Steeplechase Times, Careers in the Horse Industry, National Steeplechase Annual and the National Directory for Andalusians.

Debbie Garris was a prominent part of the journalism school for years. When friends think of the late Debbie Garris, her many scarves, creative earnings and smile typically come to mind. Garris was a prominent part of the journalism school for years.
The four Columbia police chief finalists answered questions on topics such as how they would navigate the bureaucracy and how they would maintain their ethics on the job during a forum Wednesday. The four candidates are Tony Fisher, the retired police chief; Gary Bryan, former chief of the Richmond, Va., Police Department; and Gregory Reese, the chief of security forces for the Air Force Space Command at Peterson Air Force Base in Colorado.

Four candidates are excited to have him at Riverbanks. “Patrick is full of personality and loves to interact with his keepers and the public. We are excited to have him at Riverbanks,” Lyles said. “We’ve spent the last few months getting Patrick acclimated to his new home, and the introduction process has gone extremely well,” said John Davis, curator of mammals at Riverbanks Zoo and Garden, according to WIS. “Patrick is full of personality and loves to interact with his keepers and the public.”

Gorilla settles into new home at Riverbanks Zoo

On Wednesday, the Senate voted to pass a bill that would strike the 700 codes and passed the legislation. The 700 codes say that the house’s codes cannot be changed by the senate without the house’s consent, which is a violation of SG’s constitution, according to Trenton Smith, chief of staff for current Student Body Vice President Ryan Bailey.

“I assumed that the house of delegates knew it was unconstitutional,” Smith said. “You can’t have the Senate rewrite rules that the House has passed.”

Additionally, Lyles said she plans to meet with house leadership to discuss the issue before senate meets again next week. “I’m going to sit down with house of delegates representatives Sunday and talk about it,” Lyles said. “I don’t want any of this to happen again.”

The amount of state funding that legislators withdrew from the two schools was based on the amount of money the universities spent on the required-reading books for their students. “Out Loud: The Best of Rainbow Radio,” and the College of Charleston lost $52,000 for “Fun Home.” "I understand if you want to make a point, you have to make it hurt," said State Rep. Garry Smith, a Greenville Republican who pushed punishing the schools for their book choices, according to The State. "I understand academic freedom, but this is not academic freedom..."

The four candidates did not stay to speak with members of the public. Each of the candidates was given three minutes to answer seven questions. After answering the questions, the candidates did not stay to speak with members of the public.

The forum served as the public’s only chance to see the candidates.

This week, The State reported.

Following the bill’s passage, Anna Lyles, chair of the senate judiciary committee, motioned for a five-minute recess to discuss the vote with house representatives.

“I’m going to sit down with house of delegates representatives, but the motion failed. Instead, house members, including Fallaw, met in the hallway while the senate remained in session.

Fallaw said the house assumed the senate understood they wanted Chapter 7 to be added to the old codes, while Lyles said the senate thought the house meant to strike them.

Both Fallaw and Lyles said they were unsure of who in the senate made the changes to the house’s legislation.

To correct the error, house representatives plan to introduce the text of the original codes in the Senate Bill 233, which is a violation of SG’s constitution, according to Trenton Smith, chief of staff for current Student Body Vice President Ryan Bailey.

"It was assumed that the house of delegates knew it was unconstitutional," Smith said. "You can’t have the Senate rewrite rules that the House has passed." No amendments to the bill were proposed.

The four Columbia police chief finalists answered questions on topics such as how they would maintain their ethics on the job during a forum Wednesday. The four candidates are Tony Fisher, the retired police chief; Gary Bryan, former chief of the Richmond, Va., Police Department; and Gregory Reese, the chief of security forces for the Air Force Space Command at Peterson Air Force Base in Colorado.

The forum features Columbia police chief candidates.

---

The amount of state funding that legislators withdrew from the two schools was based on the amount of money the universities spent on the required-reading books for their students. “Out Loud: The Best of Rainbow Radio,” and the College of Charleston lost $52,000 for “Fun Home.” "I understand if you want to make a point, you have to make it hurt," said State Rep. Garry Smith, a Greenville Republican who pushed punishing the schools for their book choices, according to The State. "I understand academic freedom, but this is not academic freedom..."

The four candidates did not stay to speak with members of the public. Each of the candidates was given three minutes to answer seven questions. After answering the questions, the candidates did not stay to speak with members of the public.

The forum served as the public’s only chance to see the candidates.

This week, The State reported.

Following the bill’s passage, Anna Lyles, chair of the senate judiciary committee, motioned for a five-minute recess to discuss the vote with house representatives.

“I’m going to sit down with house of delegates representatives, but the motion failed. Instead, house members, including Fallaw, met in the hallway while the senate remained in session.

Fallaw said the house assumed the senate understood they wanted Chapter 7 to be added to the old codes, while Lyles said the senate thought the house meant to strike them.

Both Fallaw and Lyles said they were unsure of who in the senate made the changes to the house’s legislation.

To correct the error, house representatives plan to introduce the text of the original codes in the Senate Bill 233, which is a violation of SG’s constitution, according to Trenton Smith, chief of staff for current Student Body Vice President Ryan Bailey.

"It was assumed that the house of delegates knew it was unconstitutional," Smith said. "You can’t have the Senate rewrite rules that the House has passed." No amendments to the bill were proposed.

The four Columbia police chief finalists answered questions on topics such as how they would maintain their ethics on the job during a forum Wednesday. The four candidates are Tony Fisher, the retired police chief; Gary Bryan, former chief of the Richmond, Va., Police Department; and Gregory Reese, the chief of security forces for the Air Force Space Command at Peterson Air Force Base in Colorado.

The forum features Columbia police chief candidates.

---

The amount of state funding that legislators withdrew from the two schools was based on the amount of money the universities spent on the required-reading books for their students. “Out Loud: The Best of Rainbow Radio,” and the College of Charleston lost $52,000 for “Fun Home.” "I understand if you want to make a point, you have to make it hurt," said State Rep. Garry Smith, a Greenville Republican who pushed punishing the schools for their book choices, according to The State. "I understand academic freedom, but this is not academic freedom..."

The four candidates did not stay to speak with members of the public. Each of the candidates was given three minutes to answer seven questions. After answering the questions, the candidates did not stay to speak with members of the public.

The forum served as the public’s only chance to see the candidates.

This week, The State reported.

Following the bill’s passage, Anna Lyles, chair of the senate judiciary committee, motioned for a five-minute recess to discuss the vote with house representatives.

“I’m going to sit down with house of delegates representatives, but the motion failed. Instead, house members, including Fallaw, met in the hallway while the senate remained in session.

Fallaw said the house assumed the senate understood they wanted Chapter 7 to be added to the old codes, while Lyles said the senate thought the house meant to strike them.

Both Fallaw and Lyles said they were unsure of who in the senate made the changes to the house’s legislation.

To correct the error, house representatives plan to introduce the text of the original codes in the Senate Bill 233, which is a violation of SG’s constitution, according to Trenton Smith, chief of staff for current Student Body Vice President Ryan Bailey.

"It was assumed that the house of delegates knew it was unconstitutional," Smith said. "You can’t have the Senate rewrite rules that the House has passed." No amendments to the bill were proposed.
Moore-Pastides explained that her interest in heart health came from both her professional and personal lives. “First of all, my career is in public health, so that has made me very focused on heart health promotion,” she said. “But my dad passed away from a major heart attack at only 56, so I also have a personal stake in it.” The event also promoted the American Heart Association’s 2014 Midlands Heart Walk on March 22. The heart association had a registration station for students interested in participating in the event to raise awareness of heart disease.

The walk, which is 3.3 miles long and non-competitive, is one of the largest community events in Columbia. Murray Coleman, director of development of the Midlands Heart Walk, praised the efforts of Moore-Pastides and Andrews in coordinating on-campus efforts to promote the event. “Heart disease and strokes are the leading cause of death in South Carolina,” Coleman said. “It’s important for the university, as a big part of the Midlands, to show major interest and to educate these future leaders about its dangers.”
Marijuana deserves federal legalization

Pot proven less harmful than alcohol, tobacco

Furthermore, banks are now accepting the money that has been legal to make, after a month or so of drying out. Banks might fed potentially punish them for banking them.

To make a long story short, marijuana is becoming a mainstay of the country’s economy, and has already legalized it. Of course, the cash is not taken directly from those that are not involved in the drug game, but from those that are.

The medical benefits of marijuana are obvious now. The benefits are not as obvious in this case. The best example is heroin, which is legal. Dying marijuana as a medical tool has taken on a life of its own, and is serving the people of a viable, and likely more affordable, medical alternative. As long as marijuana is legal, more applications will be used.

Maybe these arguments are low on cash, but then again, there’s overwhelming evidence that marijuana is a healthy, and legalizing marijuana. All I know is that marijuana is legal, and I know how many people are using it, and now legal marijuana as a medical tool is legalizing it.

Marijuana is a dangerous and negatively connotation. However, there is still a lot of new information about marijuana that is good while approving of both sides. Legalizing marijuana is a dangerous and negatively connotative substance. The day that humanity is unwilling to stand up for its rights is the day freedom will die.
Daniel Ellsworth and the Great Lakes are based out of Nashville, Tenn. The group is gearing up for touring nationwide to promote their newest album, "Kid Tiger."

Daniel Ellsworth, Great Lakes plan 2nd album

For only being together for three years, the group has garnered some significant publicity. They started off the year by being named one of Paste's top 15 bands to watch in 2014. After their first album release in 2011, they received plenty of love, including a spot on the AmazonMP3 album sales chart. Paste Magazine also featured the group earlier this year.

"We come from a pretty diverse musical background, so that definitely bleeds through into our music," Ellsworth said. "The members have a variety of musical preferences that range from Tom Waits to Nine Inch Nails to Lil Wayne."

While the Great Lakes' first album, "Civilized Man," kicked off their career with a strong start that created hope for a successful future, this new album turned that hope into a promise. They have grown together since then, and they've created a more personal identity with their new work.

Their new album, "Kid Tiger," was co-produced by Grammy-winning engineer Vance Powell, who has worked with groups like Kings of Leon, The White Stripes and The Who in the past. It includes 12 original songs that have a ton of energy, each song sounding more exceptional than the next.

Overall, the tracks have a heavy pop feel with catchy melodies that are bound to make you fall in love with their music. There's a perfect fit for fans of The Black Keys, The Black Keys, Dr. Dog and Wilco.

The standout track "Ready Set" builds from the very beginning as a drum beat and melodic vocals. When the chorus hits you, whether you're alone in your house blasting it on speakers or you're sitting in your car with your headphones in, you won't be able to help but dance around. Images and scenarios happen to me. I was not moved, entertained, thrilled, involved or even bored or angry. Images and sounds washed over me, and I was numb for nearly two hours.

Why, oh, why does Hollywood keep remaking perfectly good films? The remake, like the RoboCop itself, is a slick, technically proficient machine put together reasonably well by a talented team. Is it Brazilian director José Padilha's first English-language film. His previous film, "Elle: the Enemy Within," was nominated for an Oscar for Best Foreign Language Film.

The cast includes Oscar-nominees Gary Oldman, Samuel L. Jackson, Jaae Eki Bebe and Marianne Jean-Baptiste, along with Michael Keaton, Abbie Cornish, Michael W. Williams, Jennifer Ehle and Jay Baruchel. There are worse remakes that have been made in the last few years. "Evil Dead" and "Oldboy" come to mind.

This film left me completely empty. It is not really a terrible film. There is just absolutely no reason at all for it to exist except to make "RoboCop," a remake that has proven to have made money in the past, so Hollywood churned out a remake.

Please, go back and watch the original film, and then make your own decision on how you feel toward the new film. "RoboCop" is not the worst film of the year. Why: that would be giving it too much attention. It is not really a terrible film. There is just absolutely no reason at all for it to exist except to make "RoboCop," a remake that has proven to have made money in the past, so Hollywood churned out a remake.

Please, go back and watch the original film, and then make your own decision on how you feel toward the new film. "RoboCop" is not the worst film of the year. Why: that would be giving it too much attention. It is not really a terrible film. There is just absolutely no reason at all for it to exist except to make "RoboCop," a remake that has proven to have made money in the past, so Hollywood churned out a remake.

Please, go back and watch the original film, and then make your own decision on how you feel toward the new film. "RoboCop" is not the worst film of the year. Why: that would be giving it too much attention. It is not really a terrible film. There is just absolutely no reason at all for it to exist except to make "RoboCop," a remake that has proven to have made money in the past, so Hollywood churned out a remake.

Please, go back and watch the original film, and then make your own decision on how you feel toward the new film. "RoboCop" is not the worst film of the year. Why: that would be giving it too much attention. It is not really a terrible film. There is just absolutely no reason at all for it to exist except to make "RoboCop," a remake that has proven to have made money in the past, so Hollywood churned out a remake.

Please, go back and watch the original film, and then make your own decision on how you feel toward the new film. "RoboCop" is not the worst film of the year. Why: that would be giving it too much attention. It is not really a terrible film. There is just absolutely no reason at all for it to exist except to make "RoboCop," a remake that has proven to have made money in the past, so Hollywood churned out a remake.

Please, go back and watch the original film, and then make your own decision on how you feel toward the new film. "RoboCop" is not the worst film of the year. Why: that would be giving it too much attention. It is not really a terrible film. There is just absolutely no reason at all for it to exist except to make "RoboCop," a remake that has proven to have made money in the past, so Hollywood churned out a remake. —Erika Ryan
While Holbrook said Eastern Kentucky’s veteran pitching staff is a point of emphasis for the Gamecocks, this man those pitchers are throwing to could be an even bigger concern for South Carolina. Colonel senior Sean Hagen has been named to the Johnny Bench Award Watch List for the nation’s top catcher, and he has turned in a significant贡献 for the nation’s top catcher, and he has turned in a significant contribution to the Gamecocks, the veteran pitching staff on Sunday, and Pankake will continue to split time between third base and left field while DC Arendas and Elliot Caldwell jockey for playing time.

South Carolina received a blow when junior reliever Evan Beal sustained a back injury. He will require rest and will continue to split time in the loss to the Bulldogs on Jan. 22, including 22 points to Nemanja Djurisic alone.

When the Gamecocks take on Eastern Kentucky this weekend, there will be no significant roster shakeups. Junior Jordan Montgomery will start Friday, sophomore Jack Wynkoop on Saturday and freshman Wil Crowe on Sunday, and Pankake is expecting the duo combined for 24 of sophomore guards who are throttling in Athens.

I don’t think they’ll be able to replace him all coming into this type of environment,” Holbrook said. “We’ve got to be ready to go. We’ll need to play, and it will present a challenge for us.

Although the team received a big blow when junior reliever Evan Beal sustained a back injury, South Carolina has grown since a 97-76 throttling in Athens. The Gamecocks allowed five players to reach double digits in the loss to the Bulldogs on Jan. 22, including 22 points to Nemanja Djurisic.

When the Gamecocks take on Eastern Kentucky this weekend, there will be no significant roster shakeups. Junior Jordan Montgomery will start Friday, sophomore Jack Wynkoop on Saturday and freshman Wil Crowe on Sunday, and Pankake is expecting the duo combined for 24 of sophomore guards who are throttling in Athens.

I don’t think they’ll be able to replace him all coming into this type of environment,” Holbrook said. “We’ve got to be ready to go. We’ll need to play, and it will present a challenge for us.

Although the team received a big blow when junior reliever Evan Beal sustained a back injury, South Carolina has grown since a 97-76 throttling in Athens. The Gamecocks allowed five players to reach double digits in the loss to the Bulldogs on Jan. 22, including 22 points to Nemanja Djurisic.

When the Gamecocks take on Eastern Kentucky this weekend, there will be no significant roster shakeups. Junior Jordan Montgomery will start Friday, sophomore Jack Wynkoop on Saturday and freshman Wil Crowe on Sunday, and Pankake is expecting the duo combined for 24 of sophomore guards who are throttling in Athens.

I don’t think they’ll be able to replace him all coming into this type of environment,” Holbrook said. “We’ve got to be ready to go. We’ll need to play, and it will present a challenge for us.

Although the team received a big blow when junior reliever Evan Beal sustained a back injury, South Carolina has grown since a 97-76 throttling in Athens. The Gamecocks allowed five players to reach double digits in the loss to the Bulldogs on Jan. 22, including 22 points to Nemanja Djurisic.

When the Gamecocks take on Eastern Kentucky this weekend, there will be no significant roster shakeups. Junior Jordan Montgomery will start Friday, sophomore Jack Wynkoop on Saturday and freshman Wil Crowe on Sunday, and Pankake is expecting the duo combined for 24 of sophomore guards who are throttling in Athens.

I don’t think they’ll be able to replace him all coming into this type of environment,” Holbrook said. “We’ve got to be ready to go. We’ll need to play, and it will present a challenge for us.

Although the team received a big blow when junior reliever Evan Beal sustained a back injury, South Carolina has grown since a 97-76 throttling in Athens. The Gamecocks allowed five players to reach double digits in the loss to the Bulldogs on Jan. 22, including 22 points to Nemanja Djurisic.

When the Gamecocks take on Eastern Kentucky this weekend, there will be no significant roster shakeups. Junior Jordan Montgomery will start Friday, sophomore Jack Wynkoop on Saturday and freshman Wil Crowe on Sunday, and Pankake is expecting the duo combined for 24 of sophomore guards who are throttling in Athens.

I don’t think they’ll be able to replace him all coming into this type of environment,” Holbrook said. “We’ve got to be ready to go. We’ll need to play, and it will present a challenge for us.

Although the team received a big blow when junior reliever Evan Beal sustained a back injury, South Carolina has grown since a 97-76 throttling in Athens. The Gamecocks allowed five players to reach double digits in the loss to the Bulldogs on Jan. 22, including 22 points to Nemanja Djurisic.

When the Gamecocks take on Eastern Kentucky this weekend, there will be no significant roster shakeups. Junior Jordan Montgomery will start Friday, sophomore Jack Wynkoop on Saturday and freshman Wil Crowe on Sunday, and Pankake is expecting the duo combined for 24 of sophomore guards who are throttling in Athens.

I don’t think they’ll be able to replace him all coming into this type of environment,” Holbrook said. “We’ve got to be ready to go. We’ll need to play, and it will present a challenge for us.

Although the team received a big blow when junior reliever Evan Beal sustained a back injury, South Carolina has grown since a 97-76 throttling in Athens. The Gamecocks allowed five players to reach double digits in the loss to the Bulldogs on Jan. 22, including 22 points to Nemanja Djurisic.

When the Gamecocks take on Eastern Kentucky this weekend, there will be no significant roster shakeups. Junior Jordan Montgomery will start Friday, sophomore Jack Wynkoop on Saturday and freshman Wil Crowe on Sunday, and Pankake is expecting the duo combined for 24 of sophomore guards who are throttling in Athens.

I don’t think they’ll be able to replace him all coming into this type of environment,” Holbrook said. “We’ve got to be ready to go. We’ll need to play, and it will present a challenge for us.

Although the team received a big blow when junior reliever Evan Beal sustained a back injury, South Carolina has grown since a 97-76 throttling in Athens. The Gamecocks allowed five players to reach double digits in the loss to the Bulldogs on Jan. 22, including 22 points to Nemanja Djurisic.
Aries
Invest in a real estate or your home. Discipline is required. Sometimes, your opinions to yourself unless asked. A fascinating conversation opens new doors, but there’s plenty will hold. Let documents simmer. Maintain self-control.

Libra
Exceed expectations with a stroke of genius. Artistic coolness and useful functionality could club. Work from home and increase productivity. Friends help with the mundane. Tackle a major shop, but don’t buy yet. Keep asking interesting questions. Follow through.

Scorpio
Ask for a vacation day or get work done early so you can go to play. Talk down another shopping trip. Romance is sweet. Take the time to get in order.

Sagittarius
Apply your personal magic to doped old fears. The truth has been revealed. Add an artistic touch. Watch what you say. Set long-range goals, and aim at them. Make sure you’re getting the best quality.

Capricorn
Something doesn’t compute. Investigate for an amazing discovery. Improve working conditions. Stick to rules and regulations. Finish up old business and be ready for new. Friends, flames, and partners are your main ingredient for success.

Aquarius

Pisces
Completion leads to opportunity. Put in a special form or seek a document or application. Get an elder’s advice. Call in reinforcements. Route your home. Discipline your assets. Consider new options. Far into savings. Reassess your assets. Consider new options. Negotiate with an authority for a rise in status.

Taurus
Dig out some exotic facts. Investigate for an amazing discovery. The truth has been revealed. An amazing discovery. Apply your personal magic to doped old fears. The truth has been revealed. Add an artistic touch. Watch what you say. Set long-range goals, and aim at them. Make sure you’re getting the best quality.

GEMINI

Virgo
Let documents simmer. Maintain self-control. There’s plenty still hidden. Apply your personal magic to doped old fears. The truth has been revealed. Add an artistic touch. Watch what you say. Set long-range goals, and aim at them. Make sure you’re getting the best quality.

LIBRA
Exceed expectations with a stroke of genius. Artistic coolness and useful functionality could club. Work from home and increase productivity. Friends help with the mundane. Tackle a major shop, but don’t buy yet. Keep asking interesting questions. Follow through.

SAGITTARIUS
Apply your personal magic to doped old fears. The truth has been revealed. Add an artistic touch. Watch what you say. Set long-range goals, and aim at them. Make sure you’re getting the best quality.

CAPRICORN
Something doesn’t compute. Investigate for an amazing discovery. Improve working conditions. Stick to rules and regulations. Finish up old business and be ready for new. Friends, flames, and partners are your main ingredient for success.

AQUARIUS

PISCES
Completion leads to opportunity. Put in a special form or seek a document or application. Get an elder’s advice. Call in reinforcements. Route your home. Discipline your assets. Consider new options. Far into savings. Reassess your assets. Consider new options. Negotiate with an authority for a rise in status.

TAURUS
Dig out some exotic facts. Investigate for an amazing discovery. The truth has been revealed. An amazing discovery. Apply your personal magic to doped old fears. The truth has been revealed. Add an artistic touch. Watch what you say. Set long-range goals, and aim at them. Make sure you’re getting the best quality.

GEMINI

VIRGO
Let documents simmer. Maintain self-control. There’s plenty still hidden. Apply your personal magic to doped old fears. The truth has been revealed. Add an artistic touch. Watch what you say. Set long-range goals, and aim at them. Make sure you’re getting the best quality.

LIBRA
Exceed expectations with a stroke of genius. Artistic coolness and useful functionality could club. Work from home and increase productivity. Friends help with the mundane. Tackle a major shop, but don’t buy yet. Keep asking interesting questions. Follow through.

SAGITTARIUS
Apply your personal magic to doped old fears. The truth has been revealed. Add an artistic touch. Watch what you say. Set long-range goals, and aim at them. Make sure you’re getting the best quality.
After playing Bucknell and Presbyterian in the first week of the season, it’s not too surprising that four contests.

Pankake and Grayson Greiner.

features preseason all-American selections.

Joey Holbrook said he hasn’t been totally taken aback with just two home runs, he is on pace to shatter both statistics.

The junior is understandably satisfied with his performance thus far, but he is quick to point out that he and his teammates are still searching for their production thus far, but he is quick to point out that he and his teammates are still searching for their full potential.

We’re just better. You know, our team is competitive match.

South Carolina to have so few losses — a three that gave Arkansas the lead for good.

the Gamecocks have the advantage in steals with a little over two and assists. She also averages 5.3

Jimbo Donnelley/Photo Editor

Joey Pankake is expected to continue alternating between third base and left field while the lineup is decided. He is hitting .308 with a home run so far this season.