May 6, 1961

WHEREAS, National Library Week has been successfully observed in the State of South Carolina during the week of April 16-22, 1961, and

NATIONAL LIBRARY WEEK 1961
IN SOUTH CAROLINA

By MRS. CATHERINE H. LEWIS
Executive Director and Librarian,
Horry County Memorial Library, Conway, S. C.

Sam L. Latimer, Jr., Editor Emeritus of The State, was State Chairman for National Library Week 1961. The interest and energy, with which he filled this position are directly reflected in the success of this year's observance. Mr. Latimer comes close to being the ideal for a lay chairman. In addition to his remarkable energy he brought to the job wide experience in public service activities of all kinds, a deep personal commitment to the whole world of books and reading, and specific know-how in the field of communications.

Unprecedented publicity was given the Week throughout South Carolina. Clippings were gathered from 42 different papers of local and statewide circulation. The report of Mrs. Verena L. Bryson, Librarian, on NLW activities at Donaldson AFB, Greenville, was placed in the Congressional Record, May 25, 1961, by Rep. Robert T. Ashmore. Statistics on radio and television coverage are incomplete, but at least 24 radio and 3 television stations cooperated by giving public service time. Three counties reported that local movie houses used the film spot prepared by national headquarters.

Aside from releases from the state chairman and local librarians and NLW committees, there was a gratifying number of editorials and feature stories with pictures, indicating the active cooperation of newspaper. The effect of such lavish and favorable coverage in the press is presumed to be an improvement of the images of libraries and librarians in the public mind and the creation of a better climate of opinion as regards books and reading.

The executive director received reports of a varying degree of fullness from 33 counties and these, supplemented by clippings, correspondence and verbal reports, reveal a wide variety of activities. Some counties took full advantage of the promotional value of the Week, many worked it into their regular publicity program, and still others made no specific use of it.

Eighteen counties had local citizens committees involved in planning and executing programs, but it is impossible to determine the total number of laymen who contributed their time and talents. Some 108% special events were reported. These involved all age groups and many types of organizations. There was a definite trend toward the participation of the business community, with as many as 60 business firms using NLW promotional materials and more than 80 store window displays.

There was also an encouraging increase in the participation of school libraries. The NLW Chairman for the School Library Section, Mrs. Retha Mark of Edmunds High School, Sumter, sent a letter and report form to 428 school libraries. From the results of these and the county reports there is evidence of the participation of more than 116 schools.

Four counties reported the participation of college libraries. Alfred Rawlinson of the University of South Carolina prepared for The State a lengthy and informative article about the purposes and problems of library services in institutions of higher education.

Miss Sarah Leverette of the University's Law School Library did the same for special libraries of all types. A number of these, notably Myrtle Beach and Donaldson Air Force Bases and the Veterans Hospital, either participated or received notice in the papers this year.

This was the fourth of five planned annual observances and an evaluation of results is underway at the national level. The specific recommendations made by participants in this state have been incorporated into the executive director's report to national headquarters.

1962 NLW PLANNING COMMITTEE ACTIVITIES

The following goals of National Library Week were formulated:
1. To promote the establishment of library services for every citizen.
2. To provide free access to information as a source of continuing education.
3. To interpret librarianship and library services of all types.

The committee felt that it was important for each county to identify local goals on the basis of its library needs. It was also the consensus that the success of the observance of National Library Week depends upon the interest and the participation of all librarians.

Miss J. M. Perry has accepted the position of State Chairman of National Library Week. Miss Perry, who is listed in WHO'S WHO OF AMERICAN WOMEN, is an Attorney with the firm of Haynesworth, Perry, Bryant, Marion, and Johnstone of Greenville, South Carolina.

SELA REPORT

Miss Emily Sanders, South Carolina representative on the Executive Board of the Southeastern Library Association, attended a meeting of the Board and a workshop in Atlanta on March 17-18, 1961.

At this meeting plans were made for the 1962 conference of the Southeastern Library Association, to be held in Memphis on October 11-13, 1962; new plans and policies for the Southeastern Librarian were discussed; and a budget for the 1961-62 biennium was approved.

It was decided that the Vice-President and President-Elect become the chairman of future Southeastern Library Development Committees, and that the Past President become the chairman of the Committee on Committees.

The expenditure of $1,000 for Library Education and Recruiting workshops, and a contribution of $1,000 to the ALA building fund were approved.

The members of the County and Regional Section had asked that this section be dissolved so that they could affiliate with the Public Libraries Section. This was approved.

REPORT OF A.L.A. COUNCILOR

ROBERT C. TUCKER

The mid-winter meeting of the A. L. A. Council was held at the Edgewater Beach Hotel in Chicago, January 29-February 4, 1961. Your representative on Council became acquainted with the difficulties of traveling to Chicago in the winter. Fortunately, he decided to consume twenty-four hours each way traveling by train or his return would have been delayed by a snow storm.

The report on actions of Council published in the A. L. A. Bulletin, March, 1961, p. 233-246, is so thorough that only the most important actions and discussions need be dealt with here.

At a joint meeting of the Council and the Executive Board, the matter of oral reports from the divisions was discussed. The Council at its meeting in Montreal instructed the Board to provide for such reports. If only the twelve sections make such reports, an additional meeting of Council will be required. Since no other meetings may be scheduled during a Council meeting, either the annual conference would have to be extended or a rather large number of committee meetings, etc., would have to be eliminated. The Executive Board, therefore, requested a directive from Council on how to handle the problem. There was much discussion but no conclusion. This matter
Two meetings of Council were held, one on February 1, the other on February 1. Since the former consisted of a series of reports, it will not be reported here.

At the second meeting, an amendment to the constitution and an amendment to the bylaws were passed on first reading, as reported in the March Bulletin, p. 235. Then there was considerable discussion of responsibility for the evaluation and selection of materials, which, since 1958, has rested with type-of-activity divisions. The Committee on Organization recommended a carefully defined dispersion of responsibility among all divisions. Action was deferred until the Cleveland conference, at which the recommendation was adopted.

The final action of Council was the addition of an new paragraph to the Library Bill or Rights: "The rights of an individual to the use of a library should not be denied or abridged because of his race, religion, national origins, or political views."

The weather was kinder at the July meeting in Cleveland. It was cool most of the time and rained only once. All of the meetings your representative was able to attend were worthwhile. The first Council meeting, held on July 10, consisted largely of reports, as had the first one at mid-winter, but the second, on July 13, followed by a membership meeting, dealt with vital business, namely, dues.

The financial condition of the Association is such that a choice had to be made between increasing dues or decreasing services. If the latter choice were made, another financial crisis might arise. Only about one-eighth of the Association's income is derived from membership dues; the remainder comes largely from grants and the publishing program. Foundations and other organizations that make grants show a preference for those associations whose members believe in their associations' programs enough to give them adequate financial support.

After the new dues schedule was reported, discussion became general and occasionally heated. The new scale is graduated to a higher figure so that many members speaking pro and con. Objection was made to so serious a matter as the raising of dues being voted on by those attending the conference rather than my mail ballot to the entire membership. It was pointed out, however, that only a small number bothered to return their ballots in 1952 when the dues were last raised and that about 2,500 were in attendance at the membership meeting. The new dues schedule was adopted by a good majority when the question was finally voted upon.

One other matter of interest should be mentioned. Negro members expressed concern that A. L. A. is doing so little about the segregation problem. It was pointed out that the Library Bill of Rights was amended at the 1961 mid-winter meeting and Archie L. McNeal, chairman of the Intellectual Freedom Committee, reported on the investigation being conducted by that committee to determine how much racial segregation exists in libraries and library associations. The committee probably will report its findings and make recommendations to the A. L. A. in the near future.

Your representative is pleased to be able to report that Mrs. Spain, 1960-61 President of A. L. A., presided in a highly competent manner and Mrs. Morton, 1961-62 President, gave an excellent inaugural address. Many of you knew Mrs. Spain when she was a librarian in this state. Mrs. Morton is Director of the Library School (Louisiana State University) from which the present writer received his degree.

RECENT SOUTH CAROLINIANA — A PARTIAL LIST

Compiled by

J. Mitchell Reames
Director, Undergraduate Library
University of South Carolina

This is the third annual list of this kind to appear in The South Carolina Librarian. The title in the list were gleaned from various trade bibliographies and from items available at the University South Carolina Library. Grateful acknowledgement is made to Mr. E. L. Inabinett, Director of the South Carolina Library, for his interest and assistance in preparing the compilation. No claim is made that this is a complete list of all South Carolina published since the last list appeared.

In preparing such a list, decisions must be made as to what to include. Generally speaking, we have included writings of native South Carolinians and any works on South Carolina subjects. Also, as suggested by Robert M. Kennedy and Elisabeth D. English in their bibliography, Carolina in the Library of the University of South Carolina (1923), we have included works of adopted sons, written during long residence in the State, and likewise, works of those who are Carolinians by birth, education and tradition, but who no longer reside here. However, we do not include all South Carolina imprints, but only those whose author or subject meets the foregoing criteria.

No strict limits of time of publication are applied. In general, titles which appear after publication of the previous annual list are included, though occasionally a title overlooked in an earlier period is included in the current list.
A word of explanation concerning the format of the list should be made. Due to limitations of our printer, it is not possible to make this a bibliography in the strict meaning of the term. For example, the printer is unable to insert brackets where these have been indicated in the earlier lists; in some cases the printer substitu ted parentheses for brackets. For this reason, the compilation is called a list and not a bibliography. Entries have been established, wherever possible, from The National Union Catalog, but beyond the main entry, bibliographic refinements have been abandoned. Prices are given when this information is obtainable without extensive research. It is not practical to include source of supply for obscure items and for some items privately published. However, this information is usually known to the compiler and can be furnished upon request.

"IN DARKNESS DWELLS THE PEOPLE WHICH KNOWS ITS ANNALS NOT". This inscription, written by Ulrich B. Phillips and carved on the facade of the William L. Clements Library at the University of Michigan, succinctly states the reason for the preparation and publication of this annual list. We believe that the patron of any library has a right to expect to find there the published record of the history and literature of his own people, their activities, achievements, and failures; and furthermore, we believe that every librarian has a responsibility to collect and preserve for present and future generations this literary heritage. This does not mean to imply that every library will want to secure every item on the list, but it is hoped that the list will serve as a useful tool for the selection, collection, and preservation of South Carolina in the libraries of the State.

STEWART, MARY
BOOK REVIEW

By Dr. Lewis P. Jones
Professor of History, Wofford College

There are some South Carolinians who will not like this new study. Interesting and readable monograph, Capers' work will be called a debunking job by Calhoun disciples and a cynical approach by others, but perhaps the subtitle is more apt—a reappraisal that concentrates on one aspect of Calhoun's career, an aspect of it that was more apparent to some of his contemporaries than it has been to some devotees a century later. Certainly Capers permits the halo to slip.

Labeling the state's most famous senator a "political pragmatist," Professor Capers marshals the evidence that his subject was not just a high-minded statesman devoted to high principles but a man who was devoted unceasingly to expediency and to a relentless ambition to occupy the White House. The author leaves no doubt that if he were writing a book entitled "Profiles In Courage," Calhoun would not be there. Much of his indictment is documented here in Calhoun's own words and actions, although occasionally the author lowers the boom himself—as, for example, when discarding the old myth of Calhoun's fathering Lincoln before he wed Floride, he notes, "If he jilted a barmaid for a lady, it was entirely in keeping with his character."

According to Capers, Calhoun married primarily for political ambition and then neglected his domestic affairs for his political interests. Despite Calhoun's fame as a logician, according to this study "he worked from his conclusions . . . back to constitutional and economic premises. His arguments, however impressive, were frequently not his original reasons for his particular stand" (pp. 58-59). As proof, he presents inconsistencies in Calhoun's position based more on expediency than on change of heart or circumstances, although he was always rationalizing his policies in terms of national interest "not merely for his own comfort but also to convince the nation of his intellectual integrity" (p. 78). As Albert Gallatin viewed him, he was "a smart fellow, one of the first among second-rate men, but of lax political principals and a disorderly ambition not over-delicate in the means of satisfying itself" (p. 81). Many South Carolinians were equally eloquent in paying their disrespect, and some of those in public life who were so bold found themselves turned into political pillars of salt.

From 1816 on, Calhoun's chief ambition and primary objective was his own elevation to the Presidency. His collision with Andrew Jackson was perhaps fatal, and with it he developed a veritable phobia about Presidential power ("Executive usurpation"). Apparently he was hopeful of tying enough Northerners to his own Southern following to create a nationwide state-rights party which could install him in 1600 Pennsylvania Avenue—a tight-rope act still attempted by some Southerners more distinguished as politicians than as statesmen. (This effort of Calhoun is perhaps most tantalizingly presented by Richard Hofstadter in his essay on Calhoun, fetchingly subtitled “The Karl Marx of the Master Class”). When the South came under the fire of the abolitionists, Calhoun became increasingly the spokesman for the extremists. By that time in the late 1830’s, he had returned to the Democrats—still hopeful for the Presidency and convincing himself that the Union could be preserved by his election. He was no advocate of Southern independence but hoped for acceptance of a constitutional interpretation that would protect the minority against the legislative will of the majority. (He was less sensitive about the comfort of the minority within that minority.) In practice, the rule of the absolute majority could often become the rule of a numerical minority — i.e., the majority group within the majority party.

Calhoun’s ambitions were perhaps most clearly revealed in the years immediately preceding the election of 1844 especially in correspondence that was transparently coy. An elaborate campaign was launched to publicize him again, but, as Capers notes, his very coyness defeated him, for “a man who most of the time refused to admit to himself or to his friends that he had ambition was doomed from the outset” (p. 209). He also was plagued by “a colossal egotism” and in a campaign biography which Capers considers autobiographical, he refers to himself as “the master-statesman of his age.” The disappointments of his late years increase his egotism and magnified his bitterness.

His extreme views on slavery hurt his national chances. He defended slavery as a “positive good” and asserted that the bondage of the black man was somehow the ideal base for the development of free institutions. As Stephen A. Douglas reminded Southern fire-eaters, they were merely doubling the abolitionist vote. (There are no Douglases today to so warn the latter-day fire-eaters). Capers’ verdict is severe: “It is a historical fact that he, the sincere champion of the South, was one agent of its undoing. And in his insistence upon absolute conformity with the axiom that slavery was a positive good, he inaugurated the closed-mind attitude that was to stultify his beloved South for a century” (p. 225).

As late as 1848, Calhoun’s ambitions were stirring and he recorded almost gloatingly the attentions lavished on him and predicted that the party would be defeated “unless they should rally on me” (p. 226). They did not. Maybe they did not because at that time Calhoun was manifesting more courage and statesmanship than usual by opposing the Mexican War as being an unwise and unnecessary conflict deliberately invoked by us. (He was right). The war, of course, created new sectional problems which Calhoun did not outlive. In that 1850 clash, he tried to make the South appear to Northerners as being in dead earnest about seceding if compromise terms were not satisfactory. As Capers views this pessimism and bluff, “Such a course was in keeping with the back-handed tactics of his long political career . . . .”

Professor Capers, head of the history department of Newcomb College, Tulane University, has a study that obviously will infuriate some, but it puts Calhoun under a close scrutiny to which most men in public life sooner or later must submit. With the Abbeville statesman, the scrutiny came later. This book will raise questions as well as eyebrows, but that too might all be to the good. It is not a biography to replace the standard one by Charles M. Wiltse, and it is not so full as to be a good history of “The Middle Period” which gets more balanced treatment in mature college textbooks. But it is a monograph which should at least provoke (in several senses of the word) students—both the serious and the casual. And especially some South Carolinians.

The new building, one of the handsomest in the Southeast, is designed to give the very best in library service to its patrons. The 33,000 square foot, glazed brick, glass and steel structure consists of one story in the wings and two floors in the center. J. Thomas Holis was architect for the building with J. Russell Bailey serving as library consultant.

The children's room, named in honor of Miss Mary Baughman, long-time librarian, featuring a unique arrangement of circular steps for children attending special programs, occupies the south wing while a regional museum made possible by a donation from the Spartanburg County Foundation is located in the north wing. A spacious reading room adjacent to the bookstacks is conducive to browsing and reading. The Extension Department is located at the rear of the building where it is accessible to bookmobile garages and landing platform. On the second floor are offices, staff room, and technical processing department. The Caroliniana collection is located in the Kennedy Room on this floor as is the reference collection and the stereophonic and tape recording equipment, which was given as the nucleus of a music department by the Spartanburg Junior League.

Librarian George Linder is justly proud of the new building, which will greatly increase the library services available to the residents of Spartanburg County.

SUMTER PUBLIC AND SCHOOL LIBRARIES COOPERATE

Mr. Chapman J. Milling, Jr., Librarian of the Carnegie Library, Sumter, and local school officials have worked out a plan regulating the use of the public library by students writing term papers. We quote Mr. Milling for the benefit of other public librarians who will be interested in the details of the Sumter plan:

You might be interested to know that we are trying slips with Edmunds High School Students doing term paper research. The slips certify that the student has exhausted the facilities of the school Library. Slips must be signed by the school librarian and the teacher involved. The purpose of this system is primarily to control and lessen the term paper deluge which, with us, becomes such a problem in late winter through early spring. The system is still in the experimental stage, but we have noticed that the problem is not nearly so acute as last year and the years previous. There is some dissatisfaction among students which is disturbing.

THE MULLINS, S. C. PUBLIC LIBRARY
by
Mrs. W. W. JORDAN, in
The Mullins Enterprise,
Thursday, March 2, 1961

In an old edition of The Enterprise, interesting excerpts of the origin of Mullins' Public Library were given and, in part, read: “In the year 1907, Mrs. S. H. Schoolfield (now deceased) called some women of the town to her house to organize a Civic League. As a result of the meeting, Mrs. W. H. (Eva Bell) Daniel (now deceased) was elected president, Mrs. Richard Winstead, (deceased) vice president, and Mrs. L. L. Rogers, (deceased) secretary.

“At this time, there was a vision of a library for Mullins and it was this vision that persuaded Mrs. McG. Buck (now of Charlotte, N. C.) to accept the second presidency of the Civic League, the greatest hopes then were only a few books and a rented room in which to keep them, but in less than a year Mrs. Buck and her co-workers found themselves in their own library building and a most desirable lot.

“In 1910, Dr. J. J. Bethea (deceased) offered to sell his office building on Main St. (now the location of the present handsome library building). This location was considered ideal and its purchase strongly urged. With no money with which to make the purchase, ladies interested in the project appealed to the city council. J. Lee Platt (deceased) was then mayor, (in 1910-12) and a meeting was called in the council chamber in the second story of the old Enterprise building on Wine Street. After hearing the delegation of ladies, the council unanimously voted to make the initial payment of $300 on the Bethea property and turn it over to the ladies for exclusive use for library purposes. In the event the property was used for any other purpose whatsoever, it was to revert back to the city. The city council consisted of J. Lee Platt, mayor; J. T. Schofield, J. F. Byrd, F. Chalmers Rogers, Dr. J. M. Bethea and E. G. Carmichael, aldermen. (All these gentlemen are now deceased.)

“At the time the deal for this property was made, J. Lee Platt was considering the site as a permanent home for The Enterprise, of which he was owner and publisher, but he agreed to let the ladies have it for the library.

“While many of the women of the town have been interested in the library and responding to its many calls for assistance, the following were among the first instrumental in seeing it realized: Mesdames W. McG. Buck, S. H. Schoolfield, Richard Winstead, L. L. Rogers, J. Lee Platt, F. A. Smith, Wm. Scott, J. R. Williams, A. T. Helm, H. O. Schofield, R. H. Hubbard, C. J. McCall and Henry Buck, the latter of Marion.

“From 1907 to 1920, the library was maintained by a committee of women canvassing the town and selling yearly membership tickets at one dollar each. In 1920, while W. Ben Norton was mayor, the council agreed to appropriate twenty-five dollars monthly for maintenance of the library. In 1927, ten dollars more was added to the appropriation by the council while Ransome J. Williams was mayor.

“In 1925, about 150 books were given to the library by Mrs. Woods of Marion from the wonderful library of the late Judge Woods. In 1928, the Rev. W. Herbert Mayers, then of Marion, gave about fifty volumes, mostly fiction. In May, 1928, twenty-five dollars were received from Mrs. S. H. Schoolfield.

Librarians who served in the early years were: Mrs. McG. Buck, 1907-8; Mrs. Pearl N. Bethea, 1908-10; Mrs. Lucy L. Corley, 1910-12; Miss Edna McCall, 1912-18. Mrs. Buck, Mrs. S. R. Cooper and Mrs. Richard Winstead served without renumeration from 1918 until Feb. 1932 when Mrs. Mary M. Yarboro was placed in charge and rendered efficient service as librarian until her retirement two years ago.”

Mullins' present spacious, modern building of brick structure was built in 1942. It is at the same location as the original one. It is adequately equipped with library furnishings, a large supply of reference materials, children's books, magazines and periodicals.

The library is used widely by adults and children of the Mullins area. Mrs. Marjorie Livingston Gasque, who succeeded Mrs. Yarboro as librarian, is doing effective service. Mrs. Yarboro is still affiliated with the library in the capacity of business manager.

IMPLEMENTATION Introduction

The State Board of Education in approving the Standards for Elementary Schools on July 15, 1960, set the school year 1962-63 as the initial implementation date. There are many schools that meet the minimum standards at the present. Others will need additional time for full compliance with some of the sections of the standards.

Below are tentative proposals made to enable schools in need of additional time to participate in the standards program in 193-63 without great difficulty and to continue progress toward full compliance by 1965-66.

Provisions are made for the accreditation of schools with 1-6 teachers provided they meet the applicable minimum standards.

Report forms furnished by the State Department of Education will be filled out and submitted annually by all schools.

Items: II-A, III-A, IV-A

One of these items is to be met by 1962-63. Two of these items are to be met by 1963-64. The remaining item is to be met by 1964-65. A school will have approximately five years from now for full compliance with these items.

Item XII-A · Section (1)

A school is to expend a minimum of $4.00 per pupil for instructional material and equipment for the school year 1962-63 and $5.00 per pupil for the school year 1963-64 and each year thereafter. This will give a school approximately four years from now for full compliance of this section.

It is recommended that all instructional materials and equipment be selected through the cooperative effort of the teachers and administration.

Identification of terms “instructional materials” and “equipment” as used in this section:

1. Instructional materials
   Instructional materials are defined as those articles and devices used in the teaching-learning process. Textbooks, workbooks, supplementary readers, and library materials do not come within this category.

2. Equipment
   Equipment for instructional purpose is defined as fixed or movable articles which are used in the teaching-learning process. Equipment which is an integral part of the building, and which is relatively permanent in nature, does not come within this category.

Item XII · Section (2)

A school will have approximately six years from now for full compliance with this section. To meet this section by the school year 1965-66 the following schedule is provided:

<table>
<tr>
<th>No. of Volumes Per Pupil</th>
<th>Year</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>3 by</td>
<td>1962-63</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>5 by</td>
<td>1963-64</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>7 by</td>
<td>1964-65</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>10 by</td>
<td>1965-66</td>
</tr>
</tbody>

Items: XXIV, XXV.

As indicated in the introduction to Chapter IV, page 15 of the standards, schools in operation at the present time and not meeting minimum standards will be accredited providing every reasonable effort has been made by the local school board to correct the deficiencies.

Schools to be constructed after 1962-63 are to meet the minimum requirements to be accredited.

Items: XVIII-A, XX

These items shall be met according to the provisions as outlined in the introduction to Chapter II, page 6.

HISTORY OF LANCASTER COUNTY LIBRARY

By Viola Caston Floyd

The first public library in what is now Lancaster County, South Carolina was provided for in the will of the Reverend William Richardson who died in 1771. The Reverend Mr. Richardson, pastor of the Waxhaw Presbyterian Church, left 300 pounds sterling for the purchase of religious books to be used by the poor. During his life the beloved minister set a high cultural and intellectual standard that has been a challenge to succeeding generations in the Waxhaws.

The history of the present Lancaster County Library began in 1904 when a Lancaster County Library Association was organized by the Franklin Literary Circle. The majority of the books were donated by members of the Circle and were housed in a room at Central School on Dunlap Street. Members of the Franklin Circle served as librarians.

In 1907 with the expansion of Central School the library was left without a home and the books were placed in storage. In 1910 the Library Association was reorganized by members of the Friday afternoon Book Club. In the ensuing years, with Mrs. T. Y. Williams as chairman of a steering committee, the two organizations worked faithfully to keep the library in operation. During this period the books were housed in various places.

In the fall of 1924 the steering committee asked for and was given a room on second floor in the present county office building which was then being erected on the northwest corner of Dunlap and Catawba Streets.

Because of a lack of funds the library was closed in 1924 but was reopened in 1928 by the Literary Review Club with the consent of the old steering committee. A silver tea was held on February 4, 1929 at which time the Friday Afternoon Book Club donated a Liberty Bond. Under the auspices of the Literary Review Club a literary committee was appointed with Mrs. R. C. Brown as chairman. In 1934 this club voted to place its share of library work in the hands of a board composed of members selected from various civic organizations of the town.

In 1936 the county delegation and the County Board of Education agreed to make the library a part of the county school system. The Act was passed by the South Carolina legislature and a Lancaster County Library Board was set up with Mrs. H. R. Rice as its first chairman. Mrs. T. Y. Williams was named Honorary chairman in recognition of her years of faithful service in the library cause. The Barr Street Library for Negroes, a branch of the Lancaster County Library, was placed under the supervision of the county board at the same time.

Those who served on the Lancaster County Library Board during the years it was under the direction of the County Board of Education were: Mrs. H. R. Rice, George Faile, M. F. Hawthorne, Mrs. R. H. Kirk, Mrs. Fred Culvern, Mrs. Burrell Truesdaile, Mrs. E. C. Bridges, Mrs. J. E. Nisbet, H. A. Lynch, Mrs. John T. Stevens, Mrs. Selina B. Stokes, Mrs. Ben C. Hough, Jr., C. D. Williams, J. M. Kirkland, Joe C. Plyler, Mrs. R. B. Shillinglaw, Miss Nancy Crockett, W. R. Faulkenberry, Mrs. C. F. Marshall, Mrs. Carl F. Horten, J. P. Richards, Jr., Dr. Ben F. Emanuel and Mrs. H. C. Floyd. (Mrs. H. R Rice served a second time during the last year the library board was under the County Education Board).

In 1936 a fireproof building, plans for which were drawn by the late Julian S. Starr, architect, was erected at an approximate cost of $14,000 on the northeast corner of West Gay and South French Streets. The space for the book stacks is 18' x 25' and the main reading room 20' x 48'. A tiny cubby hole of an office adjoins a small utility room. The building is crowded and inadequate for present day needs.

When the library building was completed a bust of Andrew Jackson and one of Dr. James Marion Sims, two of Lancaster County's most famous sons, were placed on either side of the desk in the reading room. These, made by A. Wolfe Davidson, were paid for from funds held by the retiring board when the County Board took over.

A bronze marker placed on the outside near the front entrance honors those who founded the library in 1904. The names on it are: Mrs. T. Y. Williams, Mrs. W. McD. Brown, Mrs. Ira B. Jones, Sr., Mrs. L. C. Payseur, Mrs. Ernest Moore, Mrs. J. T. Wylie, Mrs. J. B. Mackorel, Mrs. J. S. Riddle, Mrs. G. W. Williams, Mrs. M. J. Perry, Mrs. R. M. McCordell, Mrs. R. E. Wylie, Mrs. J. M. Madre, Mrs. W. H. Reid, Mrs. W. T. Gregory and Mrs. W. H. Millen.

Librarians, in the order of their service, have been: Miss Margaret Blakeley who served only a short time; Miss Maude Query (Mrs. Kelsey) who served till August, 1946; and Miss Robbie Horton, present librarian who began work in the library as assistant to Mrs. Kelsey. Present library assistants are Mrs. Paul Belk (former Pat Hayes), Miss Willard Knight and Mrs. George Cresswell.

Under the county school system the library made rapid progress. In twenty-three years the stock of books grew from 1,000 to over 40,000.

Bookmobile service had its beginning as a WPA project in 1937. It carries books to every section of the county. Miss Evelyn Bagley, first bookmobile librarian, served from 1937 to January, 1943. Mr. H. Furman Blackmon, first bookmobile driver, served as driver only from 1937 to 1943 and then as both driver and librarian from 1943 through July, 1947. He was succeeded by Miss Willard Knight who took up her duties in August, 1947 and continued as both driver and librarian till October, 1957. In December, 1958 bookmobile service was resumed with Mrs. Walter L. Heath in charge. She was succeeded in 1959 by Mrs. James Hinceman, present bookmobile librarian.

The library book plate is a copy of an original drawing designed and executed for the library in 1937 by Frank Thomas, now of New York, formerly of Lancaster. The plate carries out the Lancaster red rose tradition.

The Lancaster County Library has an excellent South Caroliniana collection which originated with a donation of valuable books from the late T. Y. Williams when the library opened its doors in 1937. Others have added rare and valuable books to the collection.

The oil portraits of Mr. and Mrs. T. Y. Williams in the reading room are the work of Miss Clara Barrett Strait. Miss Strait, adopted daughter of Dr. and Mrs. T. J. Strait of Lancaster, studied at the Corcoran School of Art and in London, Munich and Paris. There are more than fifteen of Miss Strait's paintings in the State House in Columbia.

The oil painting of Lancaster County's historic jail, designed by Robert Mills, erected in 1823 is the work and gift of Miss Margaret Gooch, artist and native of Fort Lawn, Chester County.

The DAR cabinet of historical and genealogical material includes many choice books now out of print, many of them from the personal collection of Mrs. Ben C. Hough, Jr. The UDC shelf and the WCTU collections are valuable. A set of old Statute Books, Arts and Resolutions of the South Carolina Assembly are on loan from the heirs of the late Henry W. Plyler through the courtesy of H. DeWitt Plyler. In 1954 Mr. Richard Austin Springs, Jr., a cousin of the late Colonel Elliott White Springs, presented the library with five valuable books in memory of his father, Richard Austin Springs, from whose library the books came. The books are: "The Natural History of Carolina, Florida and the Bahama Islands" by Mark Catesby, being two volumes of a rare edition; (A Description of the English Province of Carolina" by Daniel Cope, published 1741; "A Description of That Fertile and Pleasant Province of Carolina" by John Archdale, printed 1707; and "The Prostrate State" by James S. Pike, published 1874.

Quite a number of worthy books have been placed in the Lancaster County Library as memorials by friends of the deceased. Most notable among these is the Kate Latrop Strait collection made up of about 250 books, gift in 1938 of the late Miss Clara Barrett Strait in memory of her foster mother. Above this collection hangs the donor's gift of her own oil copy of Reuben's "Flight from Sodom" made from the original. It was Miss Strait's wish, as expressed in her last Will, that at her death the picture should be hung above her gift in memory of Mrs. Strait. The Alice Hudson Payseur Memorial collection of books on nature study and gardening was given in May, 1941. In October of the same year an oil portrait of Alice Hudson Payseur, done by Alice Cone, was hung near the collection. Both the books and the portrait were the gifts of Mrs. Payseur's daughters, Mrs. W. M. Fulghum, Mrs. J. F. Boswell and Mrs. James E. Poore. In 1960 the library was the recipient of a gift of $100 from the estate of Mrs. Poore.

In the spring of 1943 Dr. and Mrs. C. W. Morrison, now residents of Key West, Florida established a perpetuating Memorial Fund with the stipulation that the money be spent primarily for historical and genealogical material. These books are for the most part rare, old and expensive editions.

A reading table, two lamps and two flower receptacles were placed in the library shortly after World War II by "the Waxhaws Chapter DAR in memory of Mayor Ira B. Jones, III and Lieutenant Hal A. Calhoun who gave their lives in the Second World War." Major Jones was the only son of Mrs. Minnie Craig Jones and the late Ira B. Jones, Jr. and Lieutenant Calhoun of Clío, South Carolina was brother to Mrs. R. L. Crawford and Mrs. James A Williams of Lancaster.

Plaques of the Seal of the State of South Carolina in memory of Mrs. R. E. Wylie were the gift of Mrs. Maude Q. Kelsey. A lighted globe, memorial to H. R. Rice, was the gift of Mrs. John T. Stevens.
