EDITORIAL

At the Forty-fourth Annual Meeting October 29-30, 1965, in Greenville, S. C., we celebrated the Fiftieth Anniversary of the South Carolina Library Association. Now in our fifty-second year we enter, meeting-wise, the second half of our century, with our First Biennial Convention (Forty-fifth Meeting) in the Ocean Forest Hotel-Motel at Myrtle Beach, S. C., October 5-7. We thank Miss Josephine Crouch, SCLA President, and Mrs. H. A. Scott, Jr., President-Elect and Program Chairman, and all who helped them in any manner, for the hard work they have done, and will still do, in arranging and presiding over the fine program for the Meeting. We thank those who appeared on the programs, and hope that the visitors liked SCLA and South Carolina and will return!

We congratulate Mrs. M. H. Mims, Edgefield, NLW Executive Director for 1967, for South Carolina; Miss Carolyn Harper, Columbia; Assistant; and Mrs. John K. Cauthen, Columbia, Chairman NLW State Committee, for their excellent work on National Library Week for 1967-NEWS from the National Library Week Program in July stated: ... "In addition the South Carolina and Vermont Library Associations were unanimously awarded Honorable Mentions for noteworthy statewide continuing efforts," (Grolier NLW Award).

We thank Lt. Colonel James M. Hillard, Spartanburg, for furnishing copy for the List of Membership, SCLA. For several years this has been a looked-forward-to inclusion in the October issue of the South Carolina Librarian.

We cannot write any so-called "Editorial" in this publication without thanking JOSEPH RUZICKA, Inc., for publishing the South Carolina Librarian; Mr. Merle Bachtell, of Ruzicka's, who has all the headaches concerned with mailing, ZIP CODES, etc. — and our friends at Simpson-Woodell, Inc., Greerboro, N. C., whom we still like to call Printers Royal to the South Carolina Librarian.

To those who furnished articles, book reviews, and who helped in other ways (especially our secretary, Mrs. Joyce Arthur) we are grateful — and hope that they and others will continue to send in material, so that our publication may improve with each issue.

We welcome Mitchell Reames and Carl Stone, Jr. and their RECENT SOUTH CAROLINIAN — A PARTIAL LIST back to the fold. It has not appeared since October, 1965, and we know that many have missed it!

important and the unimportant is discernible in all facets of our society. We must recognize this fact and not allow the irrelevant to dominate our activities and programs.

The leadership of this Association must assume as a principal responsibility the seeking out and the explaining of what is honestly important and relatively significant. This can be accomplished only if we are clear about our aims and objectives.

To each officer and member of the South Carolina Library Association I commend you for your never-ending dedication during the biennium of 1966-1967. Your continued efforts to successfully complete "the work to be done" are indicative that you chose to devote your best attention to a truly significant objective - promoting and strengthening the SCLA, reaffirming what George Eliot once said "the strongest principle of growth lies in human choice."

A. L. A. COUNCILOR'S REPORT

By Marguerite G. Thompson

With a registration of 8,025, the 86th Annual ALA Conference which met in San Francisco from June 25 to July 1 was the second largest in the history of the organization. Included in this number were twelve librarians from South Carolina school, college, and public libraries and also several public library trustees of the state. We chose various types of transportation - train, plane, automobile - but everyone I talked with agreed that it was well worth traveling the necessary 3,000 miles to attend.

With the theme, "Crisis in Library Manpower - Myth and Reality," the Conference had some excellent speakers, including Douglas Knight, president of Duke University and chairman of President Johnson's National Advisory Commission on Libraries; and Seymour Wolfbein, special assistant to the Secretary of Economic Affairs, U. S. Department of Labor.

The most important item of business on the agenda of Council was consideration of location for an enlarged and expanded ALA Headquarters. After and during a half of debate and discussion, Council voted to switch the Headquarters site from Chicago to a location in or near downtown Washington, D. C. An Executive Board subcommittee had recommended submitting the question to the membership at large, and many of us were in favor of this procedure. However, it was pointed out that according to the ALA Constitution and Bylaws it was Council's responsibility to make this decision, with membership then having the privilege, upon petition, of overturning Council action, if a majority of the membership voted to overturn. Whereupon Council voted by a large majority to move Headquarters to Washington. I voted for the move as it seems to me both economical and wise to bring together in Washington the activities now carried on in both Chicago and Washington. It has become necessary that we maintain ALA offices in our National Capital in order to work efficiently with the Congress and other government agencies. In addition, the majority of other national organizations with whom we work have their headquarters in Washington.

At the second session of Council, a petition was presented from membership requesting a membership vote by mail as to whether it wished to overturn Council action on the move of Headquarters to Washington. Therefore, all ALA members will receive a ballot during October to vote their opinion. Please read your September issue of the ALA Bulletin for a complete report of the subcommittee which has been studying ALA space needs since 1965.

Other action by Council included . . . accepting the Guam Library Association as an ALA Chapter and the affiliation of the Catholic Library Association . . . approving a revision of the "Goals for Action" statement . . . accepting a progress report from the special committee on Freedom of Access to Libraries . . . establishing a standing committee on Instruction in the Use of Libraries . . . deferring action on the establishment of a Library Research Round Table until Midwinter at which time a recommendation will also be made for establishing an ALA Committee on Research . . . adopting resolutions concerning new copyright policies now being debated in Congress . . . adopting a resolution reaffirming ALA's concern about U. S. libraries abroad and offering assistance to the government in development of more effective means of using these libraries to reflect the full range of American life ideas, and ideals . . . commending the United Nations Children's Fund for establishing a library and educational program for the benefit of children all over the world.

consumed one and a half days of Conference time, undertook to discover the nature and cause of the library manpower shortage, to identify key problems, and to recommend steps toward their solution. We met in small discussion groups and then met together for a general summary. We anticipate acceptance by the Executive Board of some of the recommendations made by the groups and look forward to measuring the success of this Program through future action.

SOUTHERN CAROLINA NATIONAL LIBRARY WEEK, 1967

By Nancy Crockett (Mrs. M. H.) Mims
S. G. NLW Executive Director, 1967

NLW 1967 Reporting:

South Carolina Library Association was cited by the Grolier National Library Week Awards Committee with Honorable Mention in a thirty-seven state competition for the fourth annual $1,000 Grolier Award. New Jersey, first prize winner, was chosen on the basis of "sponsoring the outstanding overall statewide Library Week program of the years."

South Carolina was unanimously named "for noteworthy continuing efforts." Pennsylvania Library Association was singled out for special recognition "for stimulating and creative programming which effectively brought public attention to libraries as cultural centers of the community." Vermont was the fourth state cited, and named with South Carolina as having notable continuing efforts.

These annual Awards were established in 1964 by Grolier, Incorporated, the encyclopedia publishers, to encourage and reward fullest use of the National Library Week program to advance state and local library development. South Carolina was the only southern state cited. In former years first prize has been awarded to Texas (1966), Oregon (1965), and Wisconsin (1964).

The Grolier Award judges were: Mrs. Elizabeth Jane-way, president of the Author's Guild; Craig T. Senft of the General Learning Corporation and a trustee of the Ridgewood (N. J.) Library; and Donald Wright, associate State Librarian of Illinois and chairman of the ALA Committee for NLW 1968.

John K. Cauthen, Executive Secretary of the South Carolina Textile Manufacturers' Association, of Columbia was Chairman of South Carolina Committee for National Library Week 1967; with Mrs. Matthew Hansford Mims, Edgefield County Librarian on the staff of ABBE Regional Library, in the executive director's post.

Chairman of New Jersey's State NLW Committee was D. Louis Tonto, executive head of Garden State Parkways Authority. The executive director was Mrs. Beatrice Stuckert, director of Haddonfield Public Library, Both served in the same capacity in the 1966 NLW program of their state.

Mike Douglas, television personality, was Pennsylvania's State NLW Chairman, with Ronn Fink, public relations officer of Pennsylvania State Library, as executive director.

State Chairman for Vermont was Mrs. Phillip Hoff, wife of the Governor; with Mrs. Eleanor P. Harman, school library consultant with the Vermont Department of Education, as executive director.

Evaluation of State Programs is based on a qualitative appraisal of programs designed to further formulate library development goals. Local initiative and activities effectively stimulated by lay citizens is also a basis of judgment. A final requirement for recognition is examination by judges to determine if libraries were identified as major sources of reading development. There must also be strong evidence of an effective carryover into state development.

RECENT SOUTH CAROLINIANA — A PARTIAL LIST

Compiled by
J. Mitchell Reames and Carl Stone, Jr.
McKissick Memorial Library
University of South Carolina

This is the eighth list of this kind to appear in The South Carolina Librarian; previous lists were published in the October issue of 1959, 1960, 1961, 1962, 1963, 1964, and 1965. No list was published in 1966 so that the general time span covered in this listment is longer than in previous lists. The titles included were gleaned from various trade bibliographies and from items available at the South Caroliniana Library. Grateful acknowledgement is made to Mr. E. L. Inabinett, Librarian of the South Caroliniana Library, and to his staff for their interest and assistance in preparing the compilation.

It is a pleasure to acknowledge the assistance of Mr. Carl Stone, Jr., in the preparation of this issue. Mr. Stone, a recent graduate of the University of South Carolina and a member of the McKissick Memorial Library staff, is presently a student in the Division of Librarianship, Emory University, where he is pursuing graduate work in librarianship. He is a recipient of an H. W. Wilson Fellowship.

No claim is made that this is a complete list to all South Caroliniana published since the last list appeared. For a statement of the scope of the list, limits of inclusion, and an explanation of the format, reference is made to The South Carolina Librarian, October, 1962, p. 6-7.

NLW IN SOUTH CAROLINA

The outstanding event of National Library Week in South Carolina was the ETV program which was broadcast on April 16 and again on April 18 over the 3 ETV stations in the state.

John K. Cauthen, State NLW Chairman, presided and presented Mrs. M. H. Mims, Executive Director for the week, who, in turn introduced Josephine Crouch, President, South Carolina Library Association.

Lieutenant-Governor John West presented the members of the honorary state committee for National Library Week.

Appearing on the program were Cyril B. Busbee, State Superintendent of Education, who delivered the keynote address; Mrs. Betty Martin, Supervisor of School Libraries, Greenville County, who described the services of school libraries; Barbara Williams, Librarian, S. C. State College, who spoke on the role of college and university libraries; Josephine Neil, Librarian, Sixth Naval District, who told of the services available through the many types of special libraries; Estellene P. Walker, Director, State Library Board, who outlined the work of the board; Jean Galloway, Chairman, Trustees Section, SCLA, who stressed the need for increased state aid for libraries; Mrs. Hagood Bostick, who appeared in a dual role as Librarian of the Richmond County Library, whose many activities she described, and as a long time member of the State Library Board. —(S. Observances Here and There Over the State

The Aiken County NLW Committee honored local authors at the Aiken County Public Library (ABBE Region) on April 22, Mrs. Milton Davis was county NLW chairman.

The Art Study Club members planned and managed an art and hobby exhibit at the Barnwell County Library (ABBE Region) for National Library Week. Mrs. Tom Jackson, Williston, was county chairman.

Open House at the recently opened Calhoun Falls branch of the Abbeville-Greenwood Regional Library was held on Sunday afternoon, April 23.

The Liberty Woman's Club conducted a drawing for a free book at the Sarlin Community Library of the Pickens County Library.

Mrs. Derrill Schumpert, Union County chairman for NLW, arranged for displays of books on hobbies with appropriate examples of the hobbies. The garden clubs of Union had a different arrangement on display each day. Book clubs of Union sponsored a poster contest and posters were on display at the library. The clubs contributed $25 for prizes in the contest. An exhibit of old and rare books was sponsored by the Union County Historical Association. —(S. C. NATIONAL LIBRARY WEEK HERE AND THERE

Greenville's celebration of National Library Week got off to an early start with an autographing party held for Noel Gerson the week before. Mr. Gerson's latest book is The Swamp Fox.

Authors were honored or took part in the celebration in at least two other instances. Aiken County (ABBE Region) honored 20 local authors and the Fountain Inn (Greenville County Library branch) Friends of the Library heard an address by John Dickson Carr, now a Greenville resident.

Special story hours, bookmark and poster contest were conducted in a number of libraries.

Senior Citizens were featured during the observance. Tribute was paid to the founder of the Jennie Erwin Library, Honea Path, branch of the Anderson County Library. Miss Erwin, 99 and a patient in a nursing home, maintains her interest in the library, Mrs. J. P. Knox, 87, a regular patron of the Oconee County Library bookmobile, and Mrs. Mary Easterling, 82, who lives near the Marlboro County Library and walks to it twice a week, were interviewed by reporters for their respective papers.

Hobby exhibits with related book displays were prepared by NLW chairmen in the Jennie Erwin Library (Honea Path branch of Anderson County Library) and the Union County Library.

Library histories were focal points of many feature stories during National Library Week. Chester, Marlboro, Bamberg (ABBE Region) county libraries and the Newberry-Saluda Regional Library were among the libraries so honored.

Several libraries — Orangeburg, Kershaw, Newberry, Anderson — invited the public, and especially businessmen, to coffee hours.

In Lexington County, rural and urban patrons, businesswomen, housewives, and teachers wrote letters expressing their appreciation of the services available from their county library. Patrons of the Sarlin Community Library, Liberty, branch of the Pickens County Library, also paid tribute to the library in this manner. —(S. C. INNOVATIONS IN SOUTH CAROLINA'S REFERENCE PROGRAM

By Charles H. Busha, Reference Consultant South Carolina State Library Board

Three innovations in South Carolina's statewide reference program show promise of having wide-spread implications to the development of better library service in the state.

The first project, an experimental demonstration being conducted by the State Library Board and two county libraries, involves an inter-library link-up which will mechanize a portion of the reference and interlibrary loan service. Equipment for facsimile transmission among the State Library Board, the Charleston County Library and the Greenville County Library is being tested. This pilot network constitutes the trial use of the Xerox Magnavox Telecopier which transmits and receives exact copies of anything printed, drawn, written, typed or photocopied.

Attached to ordinary telephone equipment, the Magnavox Telecopier permits the transmission of documents to the two libraries within a matter of minutes. The equipment also make available to the State Library Board the reference resources of these two county libraries, thereby making a distinct advantage toward the implementation of a statewide reference program coordinated through a system of regional reference resource centers.

A major factor involved in deciding to install the new equipment on an experimental basis was the inherent capability of the new machines to reduce verbal error in the transmission of both requests and answers to inquiries. The elimination of errors in the transmission of information is of primary importance to the State Library Board's reference service to business and industry.

Operational since it was installed last February, the compact Magnavox equipment is located at the State Library Board and in the headquarters of the two county libraries, Charleston County, on the Atlantic coast, and Greenville County, in the northwestern, Piedmont Region of the state, are both approximately one-hundred miles from Columbia, the state capital and home of the South Carolina State Library Board. These two county libraries were selected for participation in the experiment because each has been designated a regional reference resource center. Both libraries are located in metropolitan centers, and from each of them a considerable number of reference and interlibrary loan requests are referred each year to the state level.

The State Library Board's reference and interlibrary loan program was initiated in 1957, and in the past ten years the referral service has been extremely successful. More than 8,000 requests for books and information are received annually from public libraries in South Carolina. In the past, the average time lag in the transaction process (from request to receipt of material through the mails) consumed from three to four days. It is hoped that the Magnavox equipment now being tested will prove much speedier, yet within economic reason. Preliminary tests have reduced the time lag of reference transactions to a matter of hours, even minutes, depending upon the difficulty or sophistication of the request. Likewise, the time interval of interlibrary loan transactions has been reduced to two days. The State Library Board's location in the geographic center of the state is a favorable factor in mail delivery to all public libraries. A combination of fast mail service plus the advantage of accurate written, and almost instant, communication provided by the Magnavox Teletypewriter can make South Carolina's interlibrary loan service one of the fastest on record.

Another project intended to improve reference service at both state and local levels is the forthcoming publication of a bibliographic tool which will allow librarians and specialized readers to locate subject materials held by all libraries in South Carolina. In 1964-65, Dr. John H. Moore, a member of the Winthrop College history faculty at that time and now with Georgia State College in Atlanta, conducted an extensive survey of collections in all libraries of the state — public, special, college, and university. Sponsored by the State Library Board, the survey was designed to locate specialized library resources, holdings of periodicals and newspapers, subject collections, and material of value to the study of state and local history. Upon completion of the survey, Dr. Moore compiled a guide to the research materials in South Carolina. The State Library Board and the South Carolina Library Association joined forces to co-sponsor the publication of the guide. Entitled Research Materials in South Carolina: A Guide, the book will be published early this fall by the University of South Carolina Press.

In the introduction, Estellene P. Walker, Director of the State Library Board, states that the guide "represents a first attempt in this state to produce a bibliographic tool through which the specialized reader can locate available subject materials and individual periodicals and newspapers held by all South Carolina libraries."

Research Materials in South Carolina: A Guide will be separated into two divisions. The first section will contain entries for all libraries; information regarding files in the state's newspaper and magazine offices; and data on the holdings of historical societies, historical commissions, and museums. An alphabetical arrangement by municipalities followed by libraries located therein will be used. Under the entry for each library the following will be provided: total number of volumes held; number of reference books; number of South Carolina items; number of periodicals received (current titles); and, if they are available in the library, an indication of microfilm readers, microfilm readers-printers, and photocopying equipment. Also denoted when applicable will be indications of U. S. Government document depositories, inventories of public records and manuscript items, individual listings of rare or specialized nature, special technical publications such as abstracts, newspaper files, family papers, diverse papers and records of clubs and societies, private library collections which have been donated or purchased by public and university libraries, and other items pertinent to collections in South Carolina libraries. A comprehensive index is planned for section one of the guide.

Section two of Research Materials in South Carolina: A Guide will be a listing of periodical files begun prior to 1941. The arrangement of the periodicals list will be alphabetical by title; abbreviations and symbols will indicate the location of each periodical and the holdings. Although Dr. Moore did not bring periodical titles into conformity with the H. W. Wilson Company's Union List of Serials (third edition), the second section of the guide will serve as a partial union list of serials for South Carolina. Dr. Moore used popular, rather than official, titles in many cases; however, this should pose no special problem for researchers. It is hoped that section two of the Guide will greatly aid librarians and researchers in locating hard-to-find periodical materials.

The State Library Board will allocate one copy of the hard-bound Guide to each public library in the state. The Guide will fill a long-felt need in reference departments of libraries, and it will allow the location of materials and collections in the state beyond those locally available. It is expected to be a great aid in mobilizing the entire library resources of South Carolina at a time when the state is becoming more modern, complex, and industrialized with a population having specialized and varied interests.

Computer mechanization was employed to produce the reference program's third innovation, a printout of statewide serial holdings. A preliminary printout has been completed; however, a final printout will not be ready until this fall. An IBM 1401 computer was made available for this project by the Data Processing Department of the General Services Division of South Carolina. Input to this operation consists of IBM cards on which journal data is coded.

Program development began as a part of the State Library Board's Periodical Project of 1964-65. All public libraries prepared a complete list of periodical holdings on special forms devised for the project. Data for the project from college and university serial holdings were obtained as a result of Dr. Moore's survey described earlier. The process of verifying periodical and journal titles in the national Union List of Serials (third edition) consumed more than two months. When that had been completed, periodical and serial titles plus the names of libraries having current subscriptions and backholdings were entered on IBM card worksheets. The titles were then assigned code numbers.

The coded information was then punched on IBM cards. Because of lengthy titles, particularly those held by university libraries, and because of gaps in holdings, it was not possible to confine punched data to one IBM card per title. The punched data consisted of the code for the periodical, the library's code, indication of current subscription, back holdings to include indication of gaps in holdings, and the guide or tool in which periodicals and serials held by public libraries are indexed. Limited space precluding a listing of the indexes in which college and university periodicals are indexed. The IBM 1401 was then programmed, and each IBM card was checked for accuracy. When the final printout becomes available this fall, it will provide for the first time in South Carolina a union list of serials for the state. Revisions are planned in the deck of punched IBM cards at periodicals intervals in order to produce up-to-date printouts from time to time.

The preliminary printout of the union list of serials is now in use in the State Library Board's Reference and Interlibrary Loan Department, where it has proved to be invaluable in locating periodicals needed for research. Since the holdings of only five South Carolina libraries (four university and one public) are included in the third edition of the H. W. Wilson Company's Union List of Serials and only three of the state's libraries are included in A Southeastern Supplement to the Union List of Serials, the printout now available meets a definite need at the state level. Copies of the final printout will be made available to the four regional reference resource centers planned for South Carolina.

Today, as at the outset of the State Library Board's reference and interlibrary loan program, libraries in South Carolina face a challenge which is unique in the history of information service development in the southeast. That challenge — to implement and carry out a coordinated reference program utilizing all the state's information resources — must be met and resolved before the barriers between the library patron and the needed information can be eradicated. The three projects described here are important contributions toward this goal. Each is a distinct forward step in the mobilization of the state's total library resources.

MORE ON LIBRARY SLEEPERS

The British department of education and science, reports The Times of London, has enacted a regulation that "a person shall not, after a warning by a library officer, persist in sleeping in the library." This, of course, strikes at the basic rights of persons who practically live in libraries and need their cat naps or even long snoozes. They will still have a haven in Britain, however. The librarian of Cambridge University does not intend to apply the new rule. He says: "We like them better asleep. They do less damage to the books."—(S. C. Underlying theme of the institute was the changing of the traditional school library into a modern materials center providing a wide variety of effective new learning techniques.

UNIVERSITY OF SOUTH CAROLINA
SUMMER INSTITUTE FOR SCHOOL LIBRARY PERSONNEL

By Suzanne H. Hardy
(USC News Service)

COLUMBIA, S. C. — A school library is hardly the place you would expect to find a Jewish prayer horn, miniature copies of the Koran, a recording of Palestinian folk songs and a film on the Near East.

It is, however, if the school librarian is creative in displaying interesting audiovisual and supplementary learning materials. It is, also, if the Mid-East happens to be the political hot spot of the season and students will learn from authentic exhibits of the culture of the area.

Such versatility by librarians in the selection and promotion of learning materials was the dominant theme of a summer institute at the University of South Carolina for school library personnel who are becoming acquainted with a wide diversity of new educational media.

The six-week "Institute in Library Science," sponsored at the university under a grant from the U. S. Office of Education, ended Friday, July 21.

Asst. Prof. Nancy T. Burge, chairman of library science in the USC School of Education, was institute director.

Librarians who attended the institute learned that a modern school library should offer more than just neatly filed books on a given subject. It should also provide an interesting and informative selection of films, filmstrips, recordings, art objects, pamphlets, slides, tapes, charts, maps, globes, transparencies and educational television.

The up-to-date school library should be a valuable source of educational materials for use by teachers as well as students. In the well-stocked school libraries of Montgomery County, Md., for example, a history teacher can supplement her textbook lessons on World War II with recordings of speeches by Churchill and Roosevelt, color films on important aspects of the war, guest lectures on educational television, magazine articles from the library's periodicals stacks, and campaign diagrams drawn before the class on an opaque projector.

Dr. James W. Jacobs, superintendent of Montgomery County Public Schools, was one of almost 20 lecturers and consultants promoting such effective techniques for wide use by the librarians attending the summer institute.

Participants in the institute at the University of South Carolina were elementary, junior and senior high school librarians from South Carolina, Michigan, Minnesota, New York, Missouri, Florida and North Carolina. The majority of the participants represented South Carolina schools.

The purpose of the institute, said Asst. Prof. Burge, was to staff the public school system with an increasing number of well-informed librarians and library supervisors who will promote the concept of a library as a modern multimedia center rather than just a static assemblage of books.

South Carolina participants and their schools were:

Columbia — Miss Naomi Corley, C. R. Johnson High School; Miss Elizabeth B. Foran, Miss Carolyn B. Payne, Lower Richland High School; Mrs. Phyllis M. Perdue, Dentsville High School.

Other S. C. Cities — Mrs. Lucille M. Boynton, Supervisor, School Libraries, Colleton County Dept. of Education, Walterboro; Miss Helen R. Brown, McCormick High School, McCormick; Mrs. Amelia V. Bryan, St. Johns High School, Johns Island; Mrs. Mary K. Byars, Augusta Circle Elementary School, Greenville; Mrs. Ann E. Casey, Leavelle McComb High School, Graniteville; Miss Bessie L. Cleveland, Seneca High School, Seneca; Mrs. Carolyn W. Cope, Orangeburg High School, Orangeburg.

Also, Mrs. Myra B. Creswell, Calhoun Falls High School, Calhoun Falls; Mrs. Harriette T. Davis, J. B. Beck Elementary, Georgetown; Mrs. Sallie B. Davis, Macedonia High School, Blackville; Mrs. Hilard H. Dawkins, Lincoln Elementary and High School, Fairforest; Miss Naomi M. Derrick, Gordon H. Garrett High School, Charleston Heights; Mrs. Esther N. K. Glyn, Granard High and Cherokee County District I Elementary, Gaffney; Miss Laura K. Greenwood, North Junior High School, Lancaster; Mrs. Helen S. Hartman, Flat Creek High School, Kershaw.

Mrs. Elizabeth R. Nelson, St. Matthews Public School, St. Matthews; Miss Miriam M. Revelise, Irmo High School, Irmo; Miss Margaret H. Trotti, Chesterfield Elementary School, Chesterfield; Mrs. Harriette K. Weeks, Clearwater Elementary School, Clearwater; Mrs. Dorothy L. Winstead, Myrtle Beach High School, Myrtle Beach.

ALFRED H. RAWLINSON NOW UNIVERSITY OF SOUTH CAROLINA CURATOR

September 1, 1967, ALFRED H. RAWLINSON, University of South Carolina Librarian and Professor of Library Science since 1947, assumed a newly created position in the University Administration — University Curator.

He was born in Baltimore, Md., received the A. B. degree from Bucknell University, the M. A. from the University of South Carolina, and the A. B. in Library Science from Emory University.

Mr. Rawlinson began his career in the Richland County Library, Columbia, and has served as Professor in the Emory University Library School; Executive Secretary of the Arkansas State-Library Commission; Regional Librarian, Tennessee Valley Authority; Librarian, Centre College, Danville, Ky.; and the University of South Carolina.

He is a member and past President of the South Carolina Library Association; member, past secretary of, and past Representative from South Carolina to the Southeastern Library Association; and a member of the American Library Association. He is listed in "Who's Who in America," "Directory of American Scholars," "Who's Who in Library Service," "Who's Who in Education," and "South Carolina Lives."

He is married to the former Mary Taylor Moon, of Greer, S. C.; they have two daughters: Nancy Sarah and Helen Ann.

During Mr. Rawlinson's tenure as the University of South Carolina Librarian and Director of Libraries, the system grew markedly, the various collections were greatly increased as were the staff and administrative responsibilities. Two new libraries have been added: the Undergraduate Library in 1959, and the Science Library now opening in the new Physical Sciences Center. One of his last duties as Director of Libraries was to oversee the planning of the latter and the transfer of its collection. In recent months he has systematically visited libraries in the regional campus system, which in 1966 came under his overall supervision as Director of Libraries.

He is chairman of the South Carolina Interinstitutional Library Committee. He has had articles published on librarianship in the American Library Association Bulletin, the Southeastern Librarian, and in the South Carolina Librarian.

As University Curator, Mr. Rawlinson will be principally concerned with University-wide development of “public display” areas in which University treasures will be made accessible to viewing by the student body and the general public. As Professor of Library Science, he resumed teaching in this field this fall, aiding in the development of library science at the University.

KENNETH E. TOOMBS NEW DIRECTOR OF LIBRARIES FOR THE UNIVERSITY OF SOUTH CAROLINA

Kenneth E. Toombs, formerly Director of Libraries and Professor of Library Science at the University of Southwestern Louisiana, succeeded Alfred H. Rawlinson as Director of Libraries at the University of South Carolina September 1, 1967.

He is a native of Colonial Heights, Va. Prior to moving into his former position at Southwestern in 1963, he was Assistant Director of Libraries at Louisiana State University, Research Assistant to the Graduate School of Library Science at Rutgers University, and reference Assistant at the University of Virginia. In 1958 he assisted in the planning and completion of the consolidation of university libraries at LSU and has taken a leading part in the planning and organization of the recently completed DuPre Library at the University of Southwestern Louisiana. He holds degrees from Tennessee Wesleyan College, Tennessee Technological University, the Master’s degree in History from Virginia and the Master’s degree in Library Science from Rutgers. He has done considerable additional work towards the Ph.D in History.

Toombs, a veteran of both World War II and the Korean War, was a member of the Board of the First Methodist Church of Lafayette, Louisiana, and has served as an officer of the Wesley Foundation. He is Vice-President of the American Field Services and was the Danforth Associate for the University of Southwestern Louisiana. He served on the Executive Board of the Southwestern Library Association, was Chairman of its College and University section, a member of the State Board of Library Examiners and the Higher Education Representative of the Louisiana Library Development Committee. He has also served as editor of the Louisiana Library Association Bulletin and the Southwestern Library Journal.

During his tenure at Southwestern, in addition to his work on the ultra-modern DuPre Library, Toombs instituted an automated circulation system, planned for serials automation and introduced new methods for the orientation of freshmen to library use. He was active in the conversion of the Southwestern Library from the Dewey to the Library of Congress Classification System. Toombs is married, and has three children.

MISS FLORENCE BETHEA RETIRES AT FSU AND RETURNS HOME TO MARION, S. C.

TALLAHASSEE — After 39 years at Florida State University and Florida State College for Women, Miss Florence Bethea, associate professor and assistant director of libraries, will retire in August.

A native of Marion, S. C., Miss Bethea received her A.B. degree in French from Winthrop College in Rock Hill, S. C., a B.L.S. degree from the Library School, Pratt Institute, Brooklyn, N. Y. and a master’s degree in library science from the University of Michigan.

After teaching French, English and history in North and South Carolina high schools, Miss Bethea joined FSU in 1928 as a general assistant in the library. From 1929 to 1943 she served as periodicals librarian and then became assistant librarian. For the past 10 years she has served in her present position as assistant director of libraries.

Active in the Tallahassee Historical Society, Miss Bethea was vice-president 1956-57 and president for two terms, 1957-59. She was also secretary of the Florida Library Association in 1953.

Moving to her native Marion, inland from Myrtle Beach, S. C., upon retirement, Miss Bethea plans to live with her sisters. She owns a collection of 75 to 100 cookbooks and has a reputation for excellence in the culinary art and Miss Bethea will have time to pursue this and other hobbies, which include growing African violets.

Miss Bethea says she will return during the football season for three games. A season ticketholder for the same seat on the 50-yard line since the stadium was built, Miss Bethea says she couldn’t bear to miss rooting for her football team. She’ll miss the FSU-Florida game this year, however, since it is slated for Thanksgiving weekend on which she plans to be home ... for the first time in 39 years — Office of Information Services News Bureau, Florida State University, Tallahassee, Fla

SOUTH CAROLINA LIBRARY ASSOCIATION — MINUTES

April 22, 1967

By Normal L. Lightsey, Secretary

The Executive Committee of the South Carolina Library Association met on April 22, 1967, at 10:30 a.m. in the Meeting Room of the Richland County Library. Members present were Josephine Crouch, Margie Herron, Colonel James M. Hillard, Mrs. Sara T. Kirven, Desmond Koster, Norma L. Lightsey, Susie McKeown, Frances Reid, Mrs. H. A. Scott, Jr., Mrs. Marguerite G. Thompson, and Herbert Hucks, Jr. from the South Carolina Librarian. Also present was Madeleine Moismann, Chairman of the Planning Committee.

The meeting was called to order by the President.
The Secretary read the Minutes of the called meeting on March 11 and they were approved as read.

The Treasurer reported that the income had thus far exceeded the budget and that there was presently a membership of 581.

The following committee reports were given:

ALA Councilor: Mrs. Thompson called attention to an article by Ruth Warnecke in the February, 1967, ALA BULLETIN concerning council members.

SELA Representative: Miss Reid reported that she had attended a workshop in Atlanta where one of the chief concerns was the problem of future meeting places for conventions as a result of the increased size and attendance, Mr. Jacobs will appoint an ALA representative from SELA for the first time.

Section Chairmen:
- College: Miss Koster reported that Dr. Louis Shores would be the College Section speaker at the 1967 convention.
- Public: Miss Herron reported that a successful workshop had been held in Columbia on April 14 with 155 people attending. The workshop was aimed at the pre-professional with the theme “As Others See Us.” She also reported that the State Aid Bill had passed the House at 20¢ per capita but that the Committee would still try for 25¢ in the Senate. No speaker had been chosen for the Convention.
- School: Miss Koster reported for Mrs. Heatherington that a conference of school librarians had been called for the following week to make plans for the convention program.
- Trustee: Miss Galloway was absent, so there was no report.
- Special: Mrs. Kirven reported that Drs. Luigi C. and Mary Borelli from the University of South Carolina would be the Convention speakers and that they would give a lecture illustrated with slides on the book, Hours of Catherine of Cleves.
- S. C. Librarian Editor: Mr. Hucks urged that all news be submitted before September 1.
- Under Unfinished Business, Mrs. Scott announced that the 1967 Convention theme would be “Changing Patterns in Staffing Libraries.” Speakers had been arranged for two sections and for the dinner meeting and luncheon on Friday.

Section chairmen were reminded to have their speakers selected by the May 27 meeting and to notify the Local Arrangements chairman, the Vice President, and the President concerning their speakers’ arrivals, departures, etc. They were also reminded to notify the Program chairman immediately of any change in plans.

Mrs. Scott suggested that the Executive Committee consider setting a permanent date for the biennial convention to avoid conflicts with neighboring states. She promised to check with Georgia and North Carolina concerning their policies.

Under New Business, the following committee reports were given:

Planning Committee: Miss Mosimann reported that the Committee had met several times and had arrived at the following ideas for consideration: that S. C. librarians take stock and decide how far S. C. libraries can concern themselves beyond their basic function of stressing books and reading; that National Library Week activities be re-evaluated on the state-wide level with the possibility of turning more responsibilities over to lay people; that obtaining outstanding speakers for the biennial conventions was one of the most worthy uses of funds; and that S.C.L.A. decide whether it should cooperate with the Southern Regional Education Board on obtaining financial aid for students who leave the state for library training or support the formation of a graduate library school in South Carolina. There was some discussion concerning the last idea and the general consensus seemed to be that S.C.L.A. go on record as opposing a graduate library school. Miss Mosimann asked for any additional ideas from members by June.

Miss Crouch had received a letter from Miss Garrard indicating difficulty in arranging a meeting of the Legislative Committee, so there was no report.

Miss Jordan reported (by letter) that copies of the recruiting brochure had been sent to all members of the recruiting committee and that the State Library Board had distributed them during recruiting visits to colleges and universities. Members of the Executive Committee suggested that the Recruiting Committee send copies to guidance counselors in high schools.

Miss Crouch reported that she would ask Mr. Bush to report at the May meeting for the Publication Committee.

Miss Burge asked that she be allowed to report on the Scholarship Review Committee at the May meeting.

Miss Koster reported that she had had two inquiries concerning convention exhibits and that she hoped to have around 35 exhibits.

The Committee on “Library Relationships and Responsibilities” had asked for and received permission to enlarge the Committee by adding the following members: Josephine Neil, Laura Ebaugh, Dr. Robert Tucker, Frances Reid, Mrs. Clyde Rowntree, Mrs. Betty Martin, Genevieve Reidy, and Barbara Williams. Dr. Harrar plans to call one or two meetings during the year to propose means of cooperative action between libraries.

Miss Crouch reported that a letter had been received from NLW Headquarters asking that NLW awards be given only at state professional meetings. Miss Reid moved that the former action concerning awards be rescinded, and Miss Koster seconded it. The four awards will thus be made at each biennial convention.

Mrs. Martin had called two meetings of the intellectual Freedoms Committee and in a letter, asked about the possibility of the S.C.L.A.’s adopting a policy or guidelines concerning book selection. Miss McKown reminded the group that the first Committee had been appointed when the question of censorship arose in the Legislature so that it could be ready to function if the need arose, Mrs. Thompson suggested that the Committee might find it sufficient to reconfirm the new Library Bill of Rights. Miss Crouch agreed to suggest to Mrs. Martin that her committee not recommend a policy and that they remain as quiet as possible.

Miss Lightsey reported that the Standing Rules Committee had agreed on the method of operation and that a report would be ready in May.

Mrs. Thompson thought the Handbook Revision Committee would be ready to meet and begin work in November.

Miss Crouch asked that the Convention Financial Advisory Committee meet at 2:00 p.m. on May 27.

The report for 1967 NLW will be given at a later date.

Miss Crouch asked that any chairman who wished to have committee meetings during the convention make the request to Mrs. Scott.

Miss McKeown asked for the nominating committee to meet after lunch on May 27. She inquired about the terms of officers, and it was confirmed that the Handbook gives no restrictions. Col. Hillard mentioned the awkward arrangement which results when the new treasurer takes office in January.

Miss Crouch reminded the group of the next meeting on May 27.

There being no further business, the meeting was adjourned at approximately 1:00 p.m.

SOUTH CAROLINA LIBRARY ASSOCIATION EXECUTIVE COMMITTEE — MINUTES

May 27, 1967

By Norma L. Lightsey, Secretary

The Executive Committee of the South Carolina Library Association met on May 27, 1967, at 10:30 a.m., in the Meeting Room of the Richland County Library. Members present were Josephine Crouch, Mrs. Mary L. Hetherington, Margie Herron, Col. James M. Hillard, Desmond Koster, Norma L. Lightsey, Susie N. McKeown, Frances B. Reid, Mrs. H. A. Scott, Jr., Mrs. Marguerite G. Thompson, and Herbert Hucks, Jr., South Carolina Librarian editor.

The meeting was called to order by the President.

The reading of the Minutes was dispensed with, and they were approved as mailed.

The Treasurer’s report, which showed a membership of 596, was accepted as information.

Executive Committee Reports were given as follows:

 Ala Councilor: Mrs. Thompson will attend the 1967 Convention and the Pre-Conference. Highlights of the meeting will include the vote on the new library Bill of Rights.

 SELA Representative: Miss Reid reported on the recent workshop on inter-library cooperation which she had attended in Atlanta.

 Section Chairmen:

 College: No report.

 Public: Miss Herron reported that 20c per capita for state aid to public libraries had been passed. No speaker for the Section meeting had been obtained.

 School: Mrs. Hetherington reported that a meeting of Charleston area school librarians had been held as a follow-up of the state meeting. No speaker had been obtained for the School Section meeting.

 Chairmen from the Trustee and Special Sections were not present and no reports were given.

 Mr. Hucks urged that all news be sent by the deadline date, and after some discussion, it was decided to move that date from September 1 to August 15 for the September edition.

 Under Unfinished Business and General Orders, the question of past records of the Constitution and By-Laws Committee arose and it was decided that Mrs. Lewis be contacted to see what material she had received and whether official copies of records were available.

 Miss Crouch read from Roberts and Sturgis concerning terms of officers. Both suggested that terms not be limited. After some discussion, the Executive Committee informally agreed that the Constitution should not limit the terms of officers of SCLA. Miss McKeown announced that the Nominating Committee would meet during lunch to select the slate of officers for 1968–69.

 Mrs. Scott gave a progress report on Convention programs indicating that speakers had been obtained for the luncheon and banquet and for all sections except the public and school. Section chairmen were reminded to keep Mrs. Scott, Miss Crouch, and the Local Arrangements Chairman informed of all progress and plans for speakers and programs.

 The Planning Committee will be in charge of the Saturday morning program, and entertainment is being planned for the Friday evening banquet.

 Under New Business, Miss Crouch reported that the publication concerning S. C. library holdings was expected to come out in August and that a definite cost should be known by September.

 The Scholarship Review Committee had not completed its work and asked to be allowed to report in September.

 Miss Koster reported that plans for Convention exhibits were proceeding according to schedule and that the hotel would provide tables for $5.00 each, thus resulting in $20.00 for the Association for each table space sold.

 Miss Lightsey reported for the Standing Rules Committee by going over a tentative list of proposed rules gathered from past minutes. Committee members were asked to make any suggestions for additions and deletions.

 A discussion of travel funds resulted in the following motions from Mrs. Scott: (1) that the question of travel expenses for the ALA Councilor, the SELA Representative, and the President to attend ALA be referred for consideration to the budget committee before the 1968 budget is drawn up. The motion received a second from Col. Hillard and was passed after the clarification was made that the expenses for the SELA Representative were for the Southeastern Association Convention rather than ALA; (2) that appropriate consideration be given to the need for increasing membership dues in the Association. A second was given by Col. Hillard, and the motion passed.

Miss Reid agreed to contact SELA Representatives in other states concerning expenses paid them and ALA Councilors and the amount of state dues.

Concerning Mrs. Scott's motions, the following procedures were tentatively outlined. The Budget Committee would meet on September 9 and draw up a dual budget based on the present $2.00 membership fee and a possible $3.00 fee. The Budget Committee would submit the anticipated budgets to the Constitution and By-Laws Committee. This committee would report to the Executive Committee at the Convention Meeting so that suggested changes could be presented at the open business meeting.

There being no further business, the meeting adjourned at approximately 1:30.

ALA MEMBERSHIP DAY will be Tuesday, October 17, 1967! Emphasis will be on the public library: its staff, trustees, friends and the library's institutional membership.

PROPOSED STANDING RULES, SOUTH CAROLINA LIBRARY ASSOCIATION

(Dates following Rules refer to Minutes from which taken)

1. An audit of the Treasurer's books shall be made at the end of the calendar year rather than before the Convention. (12-5-64)

2. There shall be a position bond for the Treasurer. (12-7-63)

3. Travel expenses at the rate of 9c per mile (one way) shall be paid Executive Committee members for all meetings other than the Convention.

4. No funds for travel shall be allowed to Association committees (other than Executive Committee), but upon presentation to the President, these expenditures may be considered by the Executive Committee. (1-9-65)

5. All Association records, Section and General, shall be stored at the South Carolina Library. (10-28-62)

6. A Section may request and receive permission to carry forward its surplus funds for a given year to the following year if it is engaged in a special two-year project for which most of the funds shall be needed the second year. (1-28-67)

7. The President shall be authorized to have printed in quantity for future use appropriate certificates for National Library Week and Trustee Awards, and the Budget shall allow for suitable framing of the Awards. (9-16-64)

8. All requests for being placed on the mailing list for the South Carolina Librarian shall be answered with a request to subscribe unless courtesy subscriptions are authorized by the Executive Committee. (12-4-65)

9. Convention exhibit space shall be provide without charge for ALA and SELA exhibits. (1-28-67)

10. The Public Library Section shall use the singular form of the word "library" in its name. (1-28-67)

11. The Intellectual Freedom Committee shall serve as a committee prepared to function only when a need arises. (4-22-67)

PLANNING COMMITTEE RECOMMENDATIONS

The Planning Committee of S.C.L.A. met at the Charleston County Library Saturday, April 8, 1967, with the following members present: Madeleine Moismann (Chairman), Carrie Gene Ashley, Chapman J. Milling, Jr., and Mitchell Reames.

Discussed as possible questions or recommendations to present for Executive Board consideration were the following:

1. In 1965 The Planning Committee recommended that the Executive Committee investigate the possibility of receiving support from the Southern Regional Education Board for college graduates who must leave the state in order to obtain a degree in library science. Was any action taken on this recommendation? (Discussed by the present committee was the advisability of raising the question as to which is more desirable: Support from the above source, if available, or possible establishment of a library school in S. C. The Committee felt that this question should be held for further consideration before presenting.)

2. The suggestion was made that reevaluation be made of the worth of National Library Week observance on the present basis. Realizing that its instigation served a good purpose, and that community involvement is valuable, would such programs be more effective and meaningful if conducted with less deliberate regularity and on the initiative of the individual library?

3. Worth consideration is the question of how far the library should extend itself in services beyond its traditional function—books and reading and related activities. The Committee agreed that certain features (phonograph record use, for example) have been so well received as to make continuation necessary. However, there is library involvement in many matters that seem to spread its services too thin. Can any lines be drawn or any clarification be made?

4. The obtaining of outstanding speakers for Association meetings was suggested as a most legitimate and worthy use of funds. Recommendation of special consideration of this matter was felt most desirable.

The above items are tentative questions for the Planning
Committee’s portion of the S.C.L.A. program in October. The Committee plans to meet during the summer after these suggestions have been presented to the Executive Committee of S.C.L.A.

DR. LOUIS SHORES TO ADDRESS COLLEGE SECTION

(Editors Note) Miss Desmond Koster, Chairman of the College Section of SCLA, states that Dr. LOUIS SHORES will be the speaker at the Section Meeting at 2:00 p.m., Thursday, October 5. We are glad to reproduce below the News Release from the Office of Information Services News Bureau, Florida State University, Tallahassee, for April 29, 1967. June 26, 1967, at the ALA meeting in San Francisco, Dr. Shores was presented the 1967 Beta Phi Mu International Library Honorary Fraternity Award for distinguished service to education for librarianship. From the ALA NEWS of June 26, 1967: "His varied brilliant career... is described by a colleague in these words: ‘As a librarian, teacher, dean, encyclopedist, consultant, editor, soldier and writer, Dr. Shores probably is the nearest the library profession has today to an international spokesman. He has performed all these posts with distinction.’"

TALLAHASSEE, April 29 — Dean Louis Shores of Florida State University’s Library School will retire on Sept. after serving in that post since 1946.

Dr. Shores said he plans to continue living in Tallahassee and will devote full time to writing and editing. He is editor-in-chief of Collier’s Encyclopedia and plans to continue in that post.

“I have accepted Dean Shores’ request for retirement with regret,” FSU President John E Champion said. “The university shall miss his inspired leadership as the dean of the Library School.

“Since arriving at FSU in 946, Dean Shores has developed the Library School into one of the outstanding schools in the country. Today the Library School is one of the national leaders in innovations in Library Science.

“The State of Florida and especially its young people are much richer today because of the significant contributions made by Dean Shores and the men and women who have served under his distinguished leadership,” President Champion said.

A native of Buffalo, N. Y., Shores received an A.B. degree from the University of Toledo, a B.S. in library science from Columbia University, M.S. from the College of the City of New York and a Ph.D. in education from George Peabody College. He also has studied at the University of Chicago and as a Fulbright research fellow in the United Kingdom.

Prior to coming to FSU in 1946, Dean Shores was librarian and professor of library science at Fisk University and director of the Library School at George Peabody College.

During World War II, he served with the U. S. Army Air Force in the China, Burma-India theater and was awarded the Legion of Merit. His book, “Highways in the Sky,” was based on his experience with the Air Force.

Dean Shores became editor-in-chief of Collier’s Encyclopedia in 1960. He had previously served as consultant to "Compton's Pictured Encyclopedia" and other encyclopedias.

Dr. Shores estimated that he has nearly two million published words to his credit. Among his 250 published writings are 12 books. One of these, "Basic Reference Sources," has been used as a standard text in library schools and has sold over 100,000 copies.

An article on "How To Find Time To Read," first published in the "Wonderful World of Books and "Coronet" magazine, is frequently reprinted in newspapers and anthologies. For the first National Library week in 1958, the "Saturday Review" published Dr. Shores article on the "Generic Book" as its editorial for the occasion.

Under Dr. Shores' deanship FSU Library School has innovated in several areas that have attracted worldwide attention. In 1947, FSU pioneered the concept of instructional materials which attempted to unify audiovisual and library service. FSU was the first library school to require all librarians to be "audiovisually" trained. The Florida materials center concept — which has developed into the current learning resources center for schools and colleges — as well as Florida's unique instructional materials certification requirements for librarians and "audiovisualists" — that has influenced at least a dozen other states — emanated from this FSU pioneering effort. Dr. Shores' book "Instructional Materials," the first book to unify library and audiovisual materials, is used as a textbook in many teacher education institutions.

Dean Shores said Library History is another area in which the FSU Library School has led. The international Journal of Library History is edited and published by FSU. Dean Shores has been secretary of the American Library History Round Table since 1947.

FSU Library School has also figured in military library service. The first world-wide refresher education program was held at FSU in 1958 when the U. S. Air Force Strategic Air Command selected FSU Library School for a pioneer venture. Dr. Shores served as chairman of the Air University Advisory Board at Maxwell Air Force Base for five years.

Dean Shores has been active in library organizations. He served as president of the nine-state Southeastern Library Association, 1950-52; president of the Florida Library Association, 1953-54.

Dr. Shores has been a member of First Baptist Church in Tallahassee since 1946. He is a Lion and a member of the Tallahassee Chamber of Commerce.

SPECIAL LIBRARY SECTION

Dear Special Librarian:

The Biennial Convention of the South Carolina Library Association is to be held in Myrtle Beach, S. C., on October 5, 6, 7, 1967. The Special Library Section is most fortunate to have Drs. Luigi and Mary Borcelli of the Language Department of the University of South Carolina to present an illustrated talk on the book, Hours of Catherine of Cleves.

Our section is still rather new and we need more members. There are many people who should belong to the Special Library Section who haven't been contacted or who are not familiar with the section. With this in mind, I am asking all of you to contact and urge prospective members in your area to join the S.C.L.A. and the Special Library Section, and to attend the S.C.L.A. Convention.

I will look forward to seeing you at the association meeting.

Sincerely yours,

Mrs. Sarah T. Kirven, Chairman
Special Library Section

BOOK REVIEWS

USC PRESS THRESOME:

HENRIETTA JOHNSTON OF CHARLES TOWN, SOUTH CAROLINA, AMERICA'S FIRST PASTELIST, By Margaret Simons Middleton. 11pp. Columbia, S. C. The University of South Carolina Press, 1966. $6.00

By MARGARET B. WRIGHT, Librarian, Spartanburg Regional Campus of the University of South Carolina

"Blurb" to this reviewer is not a pretty word. The sound is like something you can't swallow and the mental impact is also like something you can't swallow. The dictionary says that "blurb" means "a short, highly commendatory publicity notice and when someone refers to "the publisher's blurb" one is likely to think of a fibby come-on spread across the book jacket for the iniquitous purpose of luring the unwary into parting with his shekels for a book that just isn't up to what the blurs says it is.

But such a general consensus might be a grave libel on the publishers and their cohorts of budding youngsters fresh out of universities, or balding oldsters not so fresh out of universities, who do these blurbs for a living. Naturally they hope the books will sell and naturally they push the book's best foot forward, with this end in view. But any cataloger looking over a mountain of books every morning with the awful burden of having to know what those books contain before she can tack on them the right classification number grasps these jacket reviews like a drowning man grabs a life-saving raft in a choppy sea. Because there isn't time to read all of the words in all of the books. A once over quickly through their pertinent parts, and a skim and a dip here and there, and that's about it for getting the gist. So it's back to the blurb the cataloger goes. She knows from experience that the majority of them have proven sufficiently trustworthy to warrant her dependence on them. And she also likes to think that the ones who conjure up these capsule bits for the hundreds of books that annually roll from the presses, burn their midnight fluorescents or incandescents to better purpose than telling potential readers falsies about the contents within. So this reviewer and cataloger has vast respect for, and belief in, the book jacket author. With this thought in mind, I am deliberately plucking telling tid-bits from the marginal notes on the very beautiful book jackets covering all three of the books under discussion in this triple-headed review. Because I can't say it better! And having checked the books against the blurbs I find the blurbs gratifying conservative and accurate. To wit:

Of Margaret Simons Middleton's Henrietta Johnston of Charles Town, South Carolina, America's First Pastellist, the notes say this: "This Volume, including portraits, is the only book about Henrietta Johnston who, through her art, left a heritage of fresh and delicate faces from colonial days. The plates from Henrietta Johnston's portraits . . . are brought together for the first time. From Mrs. Middleton's account of the artist's struggles in the New World, the reader will gain new insight into social conditions in early South Carolina . . . it was a day of struggle for settlement and survival, and the lives of many were shortened under the strain. Curiously, the subjects, as portrayed by the artist, show none of the tribulations of their daily living. Indeed they don't. All dressed up in their party best they have come down to posterity with their soft coloring and large, lustrous eyes like pictures in a fairy tale. But their expressions are so varied and so telling that one has a feeling that this must have been Henrietta's special forte — to catch the spirit within. Some of these fashionable ladies look quite catty. But others appear serene and lovely and pleasant to be with. There are gentlemen, too, leaders in the Province, in their wigs and elegant attire. Of the portraits, the Dictionary of American Biography says: "Miss Johnson's work has nothing of genius in it, but it is ingenious and of distinct historical interest . . . There is something quaint and rare in these old works that one does not find equalled in the most accomplished and brilliant productions of contemporary painters." The DAB goes on to say that in all probability she was the earliest woman painter in North America.

Mrs. Middleton's book is also a small gem of scholarly research, well documented. So very little is known of the personality of Henrietta Johnson and so few facts exist regarding her personal history that Mrs. Middleton has been forced to resort to many perhaps, maybe, surmises and supposes in making her educated guesses about Henrietta Johnston's personal life and history. But the book is provocative reading for any one interested in biography and history because it is rich with biographical sketches of the subjects of the portraits and with many other facets of the early history of South Carolina, yet touches on these so briefly as to merely serve to whet the reader's interest for more detail. The story of Henrietta Johnston's "is told chiefly through her paintings and as the wife of an early Commissioner with the Society for the Propagation of the Gospel in Foreign Parts, the Reverend Gideon Johnston . . . Henrietta Johnston became a local artist in Charles Town, South Carolina, painting likenesses of the town's first families and those elsewhere." Henrietta was "Mrs., not “Miss” as the DAB called her. She was a young woman of Ireland who married this English widower with two young sons. He was sent to the New World by the Anglican Church and naturally Henrietta accompanied him. She seems to have been much more resourceful than her husband if one takes the liberty of reading between the lines. To this reviewer, at least, he cuts more of a figure of a sad sack sort of person (he was always complaining of something or other) than he does an inspiring soldier of the Cross. When the ship bringing them from England made a stop over at Jamaica and Gideon got off to stroll about, or for whatever reason, not made clear in the book, he literally “missed the boat” in not returning to it on time and it set sail without him, causing Henrietta to arrive in Charles Town minus spouse. Now you take it from there and see what happened. Plenty did.

If you have a gnat’s eye view for trivia you will see a few things in The Writings of Christopher Gadsden to intrigue you like the P.S. he took time to write in one of his letters on more weighty matters — “Am sending Mrs. L. a barrel of potatoes”; his “Don’t Tread On Me” flag; and the fact that he did not want his grave marked. Little clues like these are the kinds of clues that make historians and psychiatrists and detectives happy. What do they tell about the inner man and the workings of his mind?

Christopher Gadsden says Webster’s Biographical Dictionary, was an American Revolutionary leader who was born in Charleston, S. C.; a leader of the South Carolina Radicals, a Delegate to the Continental Congress, Colonel of South Carolina Troops, Brigadier General of the Continental Army, and in the Convention of 1788 voted for the ratification of the United States Constitution. And the DAB says further that he was a merchant and that he had two stores in town, two in the country and a plantation, all by 1761; and that his main business was his great thousand-foot wharf which he had completed about 1770. It also says he had “integrity, religious zeal, courage, optimism and energy.” In spite of which for some curious reason “Gadsden has been totally neglected in history as a state and national leader, who gave form to, and reflected the political thinking of his period . . . he was a builder of his state and the American nation.” says the “blurb” on this jacket. Dr. Richard Walsh, Associate Professor of American History at Georgetown University, Washington, undertakes to do something about this unremembered state Gadsden has suffered, and he, in this book, brings out many of Gadsden’s letters and essays, edits them and weaves them together in a running narrative. There are letters to Benjamin Franklin, Francis Marion, George Washington, John Rutledge, Henry Laurens and other notables. Christopher Gadsden had a thinking mind and he did not fail to speak out on what he thought about. This book is solid meat all the way through and cannot be read in a hurry. Like our Eric Severeid of today, Christopher Gadsden was always having “some thoughts” on the eventful occurrences in this period of history and Dr. Walsh is his present day Walter Cronkite in allowing him in this book to come forward in these letters and essays say his say for this generation’s historical enlightenment, just as Cronkite brings Severeid forward to sum up the current situation today for the listeners to the “CBS EVENING NEWS.” Gadsden’s “thinking had great impact on the local and national political and social events of the Revolutionary movement.” His style of writing is pleasantly smooth and easy to read, and it is for you to find what his thoughts were on this and that, and not for me to tell all, and spoil the book for you.

Dr. Walsh has done a superb job of weaving the essays and letters together into a connected whole by his explanatory prefaces to them. In his Introduction he gives a biographical sketch of Gadsden with sufficient historical summary to set the stage for your understanding of Gadsden’s writings. An extensive bibliography and “Notes on the Illustrations” further enhance the book for the scholarly-minded. As for the trivia that intrigue and give those little detective clues to personality, you won’t find many, but some, hidden about here and there, peep out. Although his convictions were strong and his opinions emphatic, he seems to have been a man of genuine good will and of a gentle politeness in his social utterances. He died in 1805, and in 1801 he was writing to John Adams this philosophic sentence, “I am endeavouring to be resign’d with regard to Politics and ’tis Time I shou’d.” His will is interesting to read and is indicative of his goodness of character. One sentence says: “I conjure my children not to forget the faithful services of the descendants of Old Nanny and Elsy, Nanny’s Offspring to the fifth generation are now with me, having never parted with one, Ned the Son of Old Betty is a faithful servant and deserves regard, so does old helpless Strephon.” This is a book to read slowly, savor and enjoy if you are a native son of South Carolina and feel a spiritual kinship with this other native son who sheds lustre on his State.

Robert Johnson, Proprietary and Royal Governor of South Carolina is the third of these three books published by the University of South Carolina with the excellent book jacket reviewers. This one says:

“The role of Governor in Colonial America was a difficult task, as there were always new and untried situations. Robert served as Governor of South Carolina twice in the early history of the Province, during the Proprietary regime, and again under the Royal rule.” Between the beginning and the end of his tenures in a ruling role in South Carolina, this Englishman’s story is one of dramatic interest. He was known as “Good Governor Johnson” and he became so closely and faithfully affiliated with the fortunes and misfortunes of the struggling young Province that he gave up his English property and took up his permanent abode in South Carolina. He is buried in Charleston “in a Vault near the Altar in Charles-Town Church.” This was St. Philip’s Church where a tablet to his memory was placed.

It was Governor Johnson who was responsible for the capture and execution of the notorious pirate, Steede Bonnet. "The fruits of his actions were the measures to improve defenses against the Indian, Pirate and European enemies; and his help in establishing Georgia as a buffer state for the Province."

The South Carolina University Press is to be congratulated on publishing books of such excellent calibre both as to content and to beautiful binding and format. They are productions to be proud of.

So full of dramatic material is each book that this reviewer wishes that some talented soul would now take these chapters in history and make a few novels, stage plays and motion pictures of them. It is tantalizing to read such real individuals react the way they did under given sets of circumstances. If the historian can't know the inner man, the novelist can imagine him.

—Margaret Wright

SCENIC SOUTH CAROLINA, by Eugene B. Sloan. The State Printing Company, Columbia, South Carolina, 1966. $6.00. 228pp. LC 65-29200

By Lewis P. Jones, Professor of History and Head of Department, Wofford College, Spartanburg, S. C.

The flyleaf adequately summarizes the book as "an attempt to present pictorially, with brief textual explanation, a general impression of the state as a whole." Most of the 333 photographs (black and white) were made by the author, a longtime member of the staff of The State.

The book can be a valuable bird's-eye view of the state and would be a valuable gift for a newcomer to the state who might (as natives should) find his appetite whetted to explore many interesting things nearby which otherwise he might never discover. Any critic obviously could find omissions in such a small book (228 pp.) on such a large subject. The pictures lack the charm of the more expensive series of picture books done earlier by Carl Juliien and the U. S. C. Press, which had a strictly historical approach. This stresses history (with good sketches of such spots as Fort Dorchester, Ninety-Six, or Cowpens) but also has some chamber-of-commerce flavor (though it has little on modern industry and booming economy) plus a bid for the interest of such a heterogeneous collection of readers as sportsmen, beach lovers, the U.D.C., or mountain hikers. Such makes it sound like a hodge-podge until one recalls the limited objectives of the unpretentious fly-leaf.

Useful for libraries and for classes in South Carolina history, the book (or one similar) could render greater service if it had included maps and directions as to how to reach each spot pictured. A traveler using it in that way could not only see the state but also put his finger on its pulse. It will be a helpful book to own when the project for "historic trails" now being worked out by the S. C. Department of Archives and History is completed. This probably would be a good book to help decide where you want to go and what you especially want to see on these trails. (On this intriguing project, see S. C. Historical Magazine, April, 1967, page 114; or, News for S. C. Local Historical Societies February, 1967, published by Dept. of Archives.) Too many South Carolinians have been to Paris but not to Paris Mountain; to the Berlin Hilton but never to Hilton Head; to Gettysburg but never to Stateburg. This book is no Baedeker, but it could serve as a reasonable substitute until a more full one comes along.

MARK CATESBY, THE COLONIAL AUDUBON, by George Frederick Frick and Raymond P. Stearns. Board of Trustees of the University of Illinois, 1961. $5.00.

By Carrie Gene Ashley, Aiken-Bamberg-Barnwell-Edgefield Regional Library

Contributions to Colonial biography are welcome, as are contributions to Colonial natural history. To find both features in one book which, in addition, is a part of Caroliniana, constitutes a bonus. The book fulfilling these requirements is MARK CATESBY, THE COLONIAL AUDUBON by Gerge Frick and Raymond Stearns — a worthy addition to any library and a choice selection for special gift-giving.

Mark Catesby, English naturalist and artist, spent several years in South Carolina during the early 1700's studying and collecting natural history specimens. He was encouraged and assisted by members of The Royal Society of London and by Colonel Francis Nicholson, first Royal Governor of South Carolina, After his work in the colony, Catesby spent the following twenty years writing THE NATURAL HISTORY OF CAROLINA, which has been called the 18th century's most notable work on flora and fauna of British North America.

The authors of this biography of Catesby are history professors — George Frick at the University of Delaware and Raymond Stearns at the University of Illinois. Their Book, divided into two parts, Catesby the Man and Catesby the Naturalist, is handsomely illustrated with drawings from THE NATURAL HISTORY OF CAROLINA. The biographers state that Catesby's methods won him the compliment of imitation by no less a person than John James Audubon.

The biography is both scholarly and readable. Actual degree of reading liveliness, of course, will be measured by the individual reader's interest, but the authors have injected considerable human interest despite evident scarcity of biographical sources, Mark Catesby, before coming to South Carolina, visited Virginia and on one festve boat trip his host, William Byrd, observed that they "were so merry that Mr. Catesby sang." The biographers assume each a comment implies that "this was an unwonted amount of levity for the Anglican newcomer." Later, a frightening experience confronted Mark Catesby in Charleston when a rattlesnake was discovered in his bed, "vigoroua and full of ire. He was unable to say how long he had "the company of the charming bedfellow."
The last chapter of the biography discusses the history of Catesby’s book which won Thomas Jefferson’s esteem. In 1783 he wrote from Philadelphia: “Since I came here, there has been sold the Westover copy of CATESBY’S HISTORY OF CAROLINA at twelve guineas. This seems to fix what should be given for Mr. Boling’s copy if you can induce him to let me have it, which I am very anxious for.”

LIBRARY-BOOK-CORNER

(Editors Note: “We” are on many mailing lists and cannot mention all books called to our attention. We think, however, that the following merit attention by those interested— in case they have not received notices of them)

BOOKS FOR COLLEGE LIBRARIES, published in March, 1967, by the American Library Association, “is a significant list of more than 53,000 books designed to support a college teaching program which depends heavily on the library.” Full Title: Books for College Libraries: A Selected List of Approximately 53,400 Titles Based On the Initial Selection Made for the University of California’s New Campuses Program and Selected with the Assistance of College Teachers, Librarians, and Other Advisors. Prepared under the direction of Melvin J. Voight and Joseph H. Treyz. ALA Publishing Dept. Chicago. March, 1967. LC#66-30781. 1072 pages. Cloth. Probable Price: $45.00. (32.2% of the titles are in Literature and Language; 18.7% in History; 20.8% in Social Science; 8.9% in Religion, Philosophy and Psychology; 7.5% in Fine Arts; 9.5% in Science; and 2.4% in General and Reference. Only titles published prior to 1964 are included—including out-of-print and original paperback books. Author and subject indexes.)

BOOKS TO HELP CHILDREN ADJUST TO A HOSPITAL SITUATION. Vera S. Flandorf, compiler. Originally published in 1956; now updated. Association of Hospital and Institution Libraries, ALA Hq., 50 East Huron St., Chicago, Illinois 60611. 50c (Remit with order).

CURRENT TRENDS IN COLLECTION DEVELOPMENT IN UNIVERSITY LIBRARIES is the topic of the October, 1966 issue of Library Trends, quarterly journal published by the University of Illinois Graduate School of Library Science at Urbana. Dr. Jerrold Orne, University Librarian, University of North Carolina Library, Chapel Hill, is the guest editor of this issue. $2.00 per issue—$6.00 per year.

FROM RADICAL LEFT TO EXTREME RIGHT, a book calling attention to current U. S. periodicals of protest, controversy, or dissent, edited by Robert H. Muller, Associate Director of the University of Michigan Library, has been published by Campus Publishers, 711 North University Ave., Ann Arbor, Mich. 48108, 157pp. Paper. $4.85. “A bibliography, it contains dispassionate summaries of content on 166 publications in the polemic fringe. Quotations from articles and comments of the publications’ editors on these reviews are presented.” (Supplement Showing Changes Reported up to August 1, 1967). “Muller’s preface suggests that college and public libraries should place greater emphasis on the whole gamut of polemic fringe publications in the political arena instead of confining themselves largely to the middle range of opinion . . . Many more than not, however, the actual reason for neglecting certain types of publication is not deliberate effort at exclusion but the plain difficulty of becoming aware of fringe publications and how to obtain them.”

IMPACT: THE SCHOOL LIBRARY AND THE INSTRUCTIONAL PROGRAM, by Peggy Sullivan, Project Director of the Knapp School Libraries Project. Order from: Publishing Department, ALA, 50 East Huron St., Chicago, Illinois 60611. 96 pp. $4.00, paper.

SUBJECT INDEX TO BOOKS FOR PRIMARY GRADES, THIRD EDITION. Mary K. Eakin, compiler. ALA Publishing Dept. April, 1967. LC#66-30062. 122 pp. Cloth. $4.00. "Gives teachers, librarians, and curriculum specialists an up-dated guide to the contents of more than 900 curriculum-related books written for children in the primary grades."

WORKBOOK FOR A SUCCESSFUL WORKSHOP, by Dorothy D. Corrigan. ALTA Office, ALA, 50 East Huron St., Chicago, Illinois 60611. 35 pp. 12 copies for $9.00; 6 copies for $5.00; $1.00 single copy. (Please remit with order). The author is past president of ALTA (American Library Trustee Association), 22 steps involved in presenting workshops that work are are described.

NEW S. C. STATE LIBRARY BOARD APPOINTEES

Carlisle Bean, a Spartanburg attorney, has been named to the board of directors of the South Carolina State Library Board, Gov. Robert E. McNair announces.

Bean is a former member of the Spartanburg County Library Board. Other appointees are Mrs. Lucy H. Bostick, Richland County Librarian; Mrs. Thelma E. Busbee, Lexington County Library Board secretary; Mrs. Angus Macaulay of Chester; and James Rogers, editor of the Florence Morning News.

In addition to an extension program, the board provides a general reference and inter-library loan service for the public libraries of the state, library service for the blind and visually handicapped, advisory services to libraries in state institutions, and the collection and publication of library statistics for both public and college libraries — Spartanburg Herald, August 13, 1967.

CONGRATULATIONS to the following libraries on receiving grants of funds and/or equipment from the Grants Committee of the Association of College and Research Libraries of the ALA. Announcement was made in January, 1967, to these: Benedict College, Columbia; College of Charleston; Converse College, Spartanburg; Lander College, Greenwood; Limestone College, Gaffney; Newberry College, Newberry; and Wofford College, Spartanburg. Total funds distributed amounted to $62,500. Donors included The United States Steel Foundation, McGraw-Hill Publishing Co., Olin Mathieson Charitable Trust, Pitney-Bowes, Time, and H. W. Wilson Foundation. The Library Bureau, Remington Rand Office Systems Division, Sperry Rand Corporation, made its usual substantial contribution for the purchase of equipment.
THE CAROLINAS BOUNDARY DISPUTE

(Editors Note: The two articles below, published in The Lancaster (S. C.) News in March, 1967, in connection with the birth of Andrew Jackson in South Carolina, were issued by the Lancaster County Chamber of Commerce, and the Lancaster County Historical Commission, in reprint form. They were received May 18, 1967).

By Julian Starr, Jr.

When North Carolina historians are brought face to face with the statement of Andrew Jackson that he was born on the James Crawford plantation in South Carolina, they fall back on the assertion that what he believed was of no consequence because the Crawford lands were in North Carolina where he was born in 1767 and did not become a part of South Carolina until later.

They cite as proof the fact that many land titles and deeds, including that of James Crawford, were North Carolina grants and were registered in Mecklenburg and Anson counties. In respect to these deeds and titles, they are right.

Even the earliest known deed to the property of Old Waxhaw Presbyterian Church, where Andrew Jackson was baptized, was filed in Anson County. But this has never caused anyone to say seriously that Old Waxhaw was once in North Carolina.

Not News

All these old deeds and titles have long been known by South Carolina historians and have been given a proper place in the history of the Waxhaws. No one denies that in the absence of any other legal authority, North Carolina did exercise jurisdiction over the northern part of Lancaster County until a state line was established.

As a matter of fact, some of the deeds and plats displayed at Old Waxhaw Church last March 12 were signed by South Carolinians who described themselves as residents of Mecklenburg County, North Carolina. Legally they were wrong but they had no way of knowing this at that time.

The difficulty began in 1629 when Charles I gave Carolina to Sir Robert Heath. Nothing of value came of this grant and in 1663 Charles II gave it to the Lords Proprietors. They divided it for administrative purposes into North and South Carolina; each developed its own government but no official division between the two provinces was ever established.

South Carolina got fed up with the Lords Proprietors in 1719 and rejected their rule. Things didn't happen very fast in those days and it was 10 years later before the British Crown repurchased the Carolinas from the Lords Proprietors by an act of Parliament. The deed to the Crown was dated July 26, 1729.

The First Line

Six months later, on Jan. 8, 1730, the Lords of the Board of Trade, who managed the affairs of the overseas possessions of the Crown, met in London with Captain George Burrington, Governor of North Carolina, and Col. Robert Johnson, Governor of South Carolina, and agreed to establish a division line between the two provinces.

After several years of debate and compromise, it was agreed that the line would begin at a point on the coast, 30 miles below the Cape Fear River, run northwest to an intersection with the 35th parallel of latitude and thence westward along this parallel to the South Sea, as the Pacific Ocean was then known.

As soon as this agreement was approved by the British Crown it became important to the Carolinas because everything south of the 35th parallel along that line of division was made a part of South Carolina and everything north was confirmed as a part of North Carolina.

Unfortunately, what was an important legal decision as it affected Carolina titles, did not amount to much on the ground. The survey, conducted by commissioners chosen from both North and South Carolina, did not get underway until May 1, 1735.

Survey Begins

The survey party followed a true northwest course from the coast for about 40 miles until they reached the crossing of the Little Pee Dee. They then knocked off until September 18 with an agreement that if either set of commissioners arrived late, they would accept the work done by the other.

The South Carolina commissioners did not arrive at the...
Little Pee Dee until October. By that time the North Carolina Commissioners had run the line for an additional 70 miles and a deputy surveyor had planted a stake at what he called the intersection with the 35th parallel.

The South Carolina party checked the line for about 40 miles, found it to be true, and settled for reporting a successful survey to the Board of Trade. What they did not discover was that the North Carolina stake was eleven miles short of the 35th parallel.

Whether this was an honest error or a calculated attempt by the North Carolina party to rob the South Carolina gentlemen of some 660 square miles of South Carolina territory will never be known because nothing more was done about the line until 1764.

Error Discovered

In that year, at the urging of the Board of Trade, a second set of commissioners from the two provinces ran the line from the erroneous stake due west until they hit the Salisbury road in the Waxhaws. It was then they realized they had not been following the 35th parallel but a line eleven miles south.

They set up a stake at what is now North Corner and went back home for further instructions. South Carolina immediately protested the erroneous line and in 1771 the British Crown approved a compromise whereby North Carolina was allowed to retain the 11-mile strip in exchange for similar amount of territory above the 35th parallel west of the Catawba River.

This compromise was eventually accepted by South Carolina but the North Carolina Legislature would not agree to it until 1813 when it was advised by President Caldwell of the University of North Carolina, a noted astronomer, that North Carolina was getting the best of the bargain.

This brief resume of the boundary dispute between North and South Carolina is recounted to show that the present state line, 11 miles below the 35th parallel, is exactly where it was when it was surveyed in 1764 and that no land south of this line was ever legally or otherwise in North Carolina.

Never In N. C.

Neither the Old Waxhaw Church property, nor the James Crawford plantation was north of this line and cannot, by any stretch of imagination, be claimed as ever having been in North Carolina. This is not true of the 11-mile strip which is now a part of North Carolina.

Prior to Andrew Jackson’s birth in 1767, this strip was legally in South Carolina and had been ever since the British Crown decreed in 1730 that the 35th parallel was the division between the two Carolinas. It did not become a part of North Carolina until 1771 and even then was not accepted by the N. C. legislature until 1813.

This causes some amusement in South Carolina because the McKemey cabin, where the Tarheel historians claim Jackson was born, is in this strip and was, in fact, a part of South Carolina on the date of his birth in 1767.

But no one presses the point because Jackson grew up with the boundary controversy and he knew from his own mother, brothers, uncles and aunts that he had been born on the South Carolina side of the line on the plantation of James Crawford.

And it is a matter of record that James Crawford, who held his title from North Carolina, registered it in South Carolina as soon as the dispute was settled.

THE MURFREESBORO LETTER

By Julian Starr, Jr.

The Murfreesboro Letter was written by President Andrew Jackson in response to an invitation from a group of citizens of Murfreesboro, N. C., asking Jackson to visit their town if he went through with his plans to make a southern tour.

The letter was first published under date of March 23, 1831, in the Edenton Gazette and Farmer’s Palladium and was quoted by the late Archibald Henderson in his: North Carolina, The Old North State and The New, published in 1941.

The wording of the letter was such that it gave rise to claims by North Carolinians that Jackson said he was born in that state. This interpretation is possible only if the letter is read out of context. In placing it in its proper perspective, it is necessary, as a first step, to find out why it was written.

Jackson’s Plans

For instance, it is known that President Jackson was giving consideration in 1830 to making a tour of the Southern states. He was in the third year of his presidency and had a campaign for reelection coming up the next year.

Aware of these plans, J. R. Pringle of Charleston wrote Jackson in early December, 1830, inviting the President to include a visit to Charleston on his tour. Jackson’s reply, dated December 24, 1830, was published in the United States Telegraph on January 22, 1831. It read:

Aware of these plans, J. R. Pringle of Charleston wrote myself of so favorable an opportunity to visit the emporium of my native state, I am yet prevented by my official engagements from designating the period when I can seize it.”

Murfreesboro

It was in this context that the invitation to visit Murfreesboro was sent to Jackson. Why Murfreesboro? It is not to be confused with Murfreesboro, Tenn., visited often by Jackson and an early seat of the Tennessee government.

The North Carolina town of the same name is in the eastern part of the state near the Virginia line. Any southern tour starting in Washington and heading for South Carolina would, in all likelihood, pass through or near Murfreesboro. In his reply Jackson wrote:

"Should my official duties permit me to visit my native state during the recess of Congress, I will with great pleasure accept the flattering invitation which you have so kindly presented me in behalf of inhabitants to visit Murfreesboro. The State of North Carolina is a portion of our country endeared to me by the earliest associations. It was upon her bosom and among her citizens I first entered the career of life. The people were the patrons of my youth as they have been the true and zealous supporters of my political course."

It is only necessary to add that Jackson's career of life began when he went to Salisbury to study law in 1784. Three years later, on September 26, 1787, he was admitted to the bar and in December of the same year he began his public career as prosecuting attorney for the Western District of North Carolina, an area that later became Tennessee.

YOUR PROBLEMS

By Anne Library

Dear Anne:

I am tired of all those whining and complaining people who write you about such petty, nitpicking problems. This is a pleasant letter, I hope. Recently I had two most rewarding and enjoyable experiences, and I feel the urge to testify.

The first was, "As Others See Us," the workshop of the Public Library Section, SCLA. It was one of the most practical and entertaining workshops the Section has ever had. The originality and wit of the skits of Sara Henry and Gloria Lindler provided the spice and the subsequent discussions so ably led by Carrie Gene Ashley, Margaret Mosiman, Catherine Lewis, and Norma Lightsey supplied the meaty part of the program.

I have talked with a number of librarians who attended, and they agree that this workshop, planned by Margie Herring, was the best they've ever attended.

Then, I was among the favored ones who were invited to the State Library Board's Personnel Utilization Workshop. While possibly not the most important result of the workshop, I think the housing of the majority of the group in one motel was a master stroke. The camaraderie, shared experiences, and "doing homework together" was a satisfying experience. The workshop sessions were such a skillful blend of presentation and participation that Jewel Hardkopf, the director, became one of the favorite people of the librarians attending. I heard one librarian say: "This is the best workshop I've attended—and required the most work."

While all the "audience" participated, the discussion leaders: Charles Busha, Catherine Lewis, and Carrie Gene Ashley, and the performers in the skit: Jimmy Milling, Gloria Lindler, Elizabeth Moran, Pat Mercer, and Steve Stevenson should have special mention.

There should be more opportunities like these!

A Satisfied Customer

THE PROMISED LAND

With the General Assembly's acceptance of the report of the Free Conference Committee which provides $478,519 for state aid to public libraries, South Carolina is suddenly moving out of the wilderness with encouraging hopes of reaching the promised land of really good library service.

No longer will South Carolina trail the other Southeastern states in respect to state aid for public libraries, but will compare favorably with all of them except Maryland.

The campaign for increased state aid was launched in July 1966 at a meeting attended by public library trustees, librarians, and Friends from twenty-three county and regional libraries. It was sponsored by the Public Library and Trustee Sections of the South Carolina Library Association. A goal of $613,355 (25c per capita plus 3% for administrative persons) was set.

The campaign met with enthusiastic support from individuals and organizations over the state.

While the Budget and Control Board recommended only $326,111, a hearing attended by trustees, librarians, and Friends before the House Ways and Means Committee resulted in the increase to $478,519.

AUTOMATION ON WAY!
April 3, 1967

Washington State University Library, Pullman, Washington, has received a grant of $69,300 from the National Science Foundation. This one-year grant is for the analysis and design of an on-line computer based technical services system, book catalog cost study, and for the development of specifications for an on-line library terminal. The library will utilize the facilities of the University's IBM 360/67 computer.

The technical services design will include all the library functions of ordering, receiving, searching, cataloging, catalog book, and/or card production, and book marking.

All activities which can be automated in these functional areas will be included in the study. The book catalog production cost study will cover all methods of reproducing computer producing catalog copy to determine cost trade-offs. It will also include a study of computer printer output rates as determined by the printer's character set.

The library terminal design study will develop the specifications for on-line library terminals. These specifications will include features which are unique to library applications. Particular emphasis will be placed on circulation and Technical Services process control.

Dr. G. Donald Smith, Director of Libraries, Washington State University, says that he is fortunate to have the interest and support of the NSF in our library automation project. This long term project started last year and is expected to be completed within the next three or four years. The goal for the project is the automation of all library activities where the computer can offer an improvement in services.

LIBRARY-WISE AND LIBRARY-WAYS

The Abbeville Welcome Wagon Club contributed $80.00 for the purchase of books for the ABBEVILLE COUNTY LIBRARY, a member of the Abbeville-Greenwood Regional Library. Fletcher W. Ferguson, Chairman of the ABBEVILLE COUNTY LIBRARY BOARD, has announced that Earle Gaulden of the firm of Craig and Gaulden has been engaged as architect for the renovation of the former Abbeville Post Office.

A new Gerstenslager Bookmobile has been delivered to the ABBEVILLE-GREENWOOD REGIONAL LIBRARY.

An ACT to authorize local government (counties, municipalities, and special service districts) to enter into contracts with each other to provide joint public facilities and services will simplify and facilitate the formation of county and regional libraries.

Jean Cochran, Director of the Augusta-Richmond County Library, outlined the achievements of the Augusta "Friends" at a meeting to discuss such an organization in Aiken May 17, 1967. Josephine Crouch, Director of the ABBE Regional Library, described the work of Friends in other cities and Mrs. E. A. Moore, Aiken County Librarian, spoke briefly. Mrs. Milton W. Davis, Jr., was elected temporary Chairman and a steering committee of 20 was to recruit members during the summer. The first formal meeting will be held this fall.

The Aiken County Public Library exhibited the art work of students of the Eastern Seal School for physically-handicapped children. Mrs. Aylett Wood, a well-known artist, was the instructor, on a volunteer basis. The Aiken County Republican Women's Club presented four books as memorials to the Aiken County Library, Abbeville Regional).

The ANDERSON COUNTY Legislative Delegation has appointed a committee to select a site for a headquarters library.

Bids for the construction of a building for the ANDREWS BRANCH of the Georgetown County Library were opened March 23, 1967. Estimated construction cost was approximately $55,000.
Alex A. Dickson, architect, Columbia, is drawing up plans for the BAMBERG COUNTY headquarters of the ABBE Regional Library.

The FRIENDS OF THE BARNWELL COUNTY LIBRARY (ABBE) sponsored a drive for funds to air condition the library, and the units were installed in April, 1967. Individual and business firms contributed to the project.

Rear Admiral John C. Bull, Director of the Atlantic Marine Center, Norfolk, Va., presented to the BEAUFORT COUNTY LIBRARY a copper engraving plate of 1876, which was made for printing charts of the Whale Branch area of Beaufort County. A print made from the plate was also presented. Rivers Varn, Chairman of the BEAUFORT COUNTY LIBRARY BOARD, accepted the plate on behalf of the library. Members of the Board, Mrs. L. B. Morley, Librarian, staff members, Nancy C. Blair, Field Service Librarian of the S. C. State Library Board, and interested citizens were present for the occasion.

The BEAUFORT TOWNSHIP LIBRARY BOARD has requested legislative action dissolving it and setting up a trust fund with the Beaufort County Treasurer. The trust fund is to be used to purchase South Carolina items for the BEAUFORT COUNTY LIBRARY in memory of Adeline Schepet and Mabel Runnette, former librarians. The BEAUFORT TOWNSHIP LIBRARY was one of the two libraries which were combined when the BEAUFORT COUNTY LIBRARY was established.

The BERKELEY COUNTY LIBRARY Board will build a $175,000.00 building on the site of the present building. John G. Richards, IV, with LaFaye and Associates, is the architect.

The CALHOUN COUNTY LIBRARY has secured much needed additional shelf space by placing stacks in the Meeting Room. The County supplied the necessary labor and materials.

The new CALHOUN FALLS BRANCH Library of the Abbeville-Greenwood Regional Library had its formal opening Sunday, April 23, 1967. Gifts of draperies, bookshelves, curtain rods, flowers and shrubbery made the building very attractive. Refreshments were provided by the Jaycees and served by the Jayceettes. Mrs. George Broadwell is Branch Librarian. Other contributions included a hat rack, folding screen, 2 gas heaters, $112.50 (for furniture, drapery material, and keys). Agricultural students cleaned the yard and planted seedlings; others moved furniture and books.

A. J. Crane, former Central resident and now a Springs Cotton Mill executive in Lancaster, has donated a large collection of books to the CENTRAL BRANCH of the Pickens County Library, in honor and in memory of his former teachers and classmates. Other donations were made by Misses Jennie and Jessie Morgan, Mrs. Carl Morgan, Mrs. Silema Stokes, Mrs. W. A. Gaines, and Mrs. Ruth Duckett.

Services of the CHAPIN MEMORIAL LIBRARY, Myrtle Beach, available to visitors was mentioned as one of the tourist attractions in Frances Moore’s column in the Charlotte Observer, February 10, 1967.

Elmina Lanier Eason lectured on English and Scottish popular ballads at the CHARLESTON COUNTY LIBRARY April 10, 1967. She is a retired professor of English and Education. During May, 1967, the Library distributed, through the supermarkets, a flyer giving the summer hours of the Main Library and a number to telephone for the summer schedule and location of branches, community libraries, and bookmobile stops.

Bills to create county libraries for CLARENDON and McCORMICK counties were introduced in the General Assembly. They provide for the appointment of Trustees and define their powers and responsibilities.

CLEMSON FRIENDS OF THE LIBRARY held their annual Open House at the CLEMSON BRANCH of the Oconee and Pickens County libraries April 23, 1967.

Final schematics prepared by Demetrios C. Liollio, architect, for the DART HALL BRANCH of the Charleston County Library have been reviewed and approved by J. Russell Bailey, consultant, retained by the S. C. State Library Board.

Estellene P. Walker, SLB Director, met with the FAIRFIELD COUNTY LIBRARY BOARD and the Fairfield Legislative Delegation March 13, 1967. The Board is exploring the possibility of a new building as headquarters for the county library.

Under the provisions of a bill introduced by the Florence County senators, the County Council of Florence County shall appropriate, by special tax levies, or from the general funds, monies for the maintenance of the FLORENCE COUNTY LIBRARY. G. H. Stewart, Chairman of the Florence County Resources Development Committee, says that the committee feels such a levy would lead to the expansion of the library. At its June, 1967 meeting the FLORENCE COUNTY LIBRARY BOARD approved the designation of the library as a Federal Depository. The library may select U. S. Government publications which will be useful in the Florence area.

The FORT MILL BRANCH of the York County Library had a “forgiveness week” early in January, 1967. Fines on overdue books were forgiven and forgotten on January 3-5.
The FOUNTAIN INN FRIENDS OF THE LIBRARY heard Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Magill speak on their trip around the world at its February, 1967, meeting. Mr. Magill is president of the GREENVILLE FRIENDS and has made many contributions to the library. The FOUNTAIN INN LIBRARY is a branch of the Greenville County Library.

GREENVILLE FRIENDS OF THE LIBRARY presented a lecture by Brooks Atkinson, retired drama critic for the New York Times, February 15, 1967; Robert E. Lee playwright, March 13, 1967 (he is author of Auntie Mame and Inherit the Wind, and founder of the Armed Forces Radio and TV network); and May 19 presented the models and plans for the new GREENVILLE COUNTY LIBRARY to the public. The FRIENDS ... initiated and vigorously supported the effort to obtain an adequate building for the library. The new building will present quite a contrast to the 60-year-old former school building which the library has occupied since 1939. (The Greenville County Delegation unanimously authorized a $1,500,000.00 bond issue for the construction of a headquarters library for GREENVILLE COUNTY). Since the headquarters library will serve a population of 209,777 it will qualify for a $150,000.00 construction grant from the S. C. State Library Board. And additional LSCA grant of $100,000.00 will provide space for an area resource center, which will serve the Piedmont section. The library board will apply to the Aid to Appalachia program for an additional $250,000.00. The four-story, 80,000 square foot building will be erected on the College Street property donated by the Symmes Foundation. Estimated time for construction completion is 18-24 months. The building will cost $1,600,000.00, furniture and equipment $275,000.00, and architectural and engineering fees $96,000.00. Senator Richard W. Riley is head of the delegation’s Library Committee; E. A. Burch is Chairman of the GREENVILLE COUNTY LIBRARY BOARD; and Charles Stow is Director of the Library. (S. C. Library Board’s News for Public Libraries, April, 1967). The Piedmont Chapter of the Daughters of the American Colonists presented a copy of Katherine M. Jones’ Ladies of Richland to the library.

The beechee of activity at the library during the Sunday library hours has been the subject of a feature story on the editorial page of the Greenville Piedmont. John D. Kretschmer, Assistant Director, Travel and Tourism of the S. C. Department of Parks, Recreation and Tourism, congratulated Laura S. Ebaugh, Adult Education Consultant, for compiling the Greenville Cultural Calendar. He requested eighty calendars to use to spur other cities to develop their own calendars.

During the fourth annual Greenville Arts Festival the library exhibited a bookmobile, in which an exhibit commemorated the 80th anniversary of Denmark. Arts and crafts, as well as books and pamphlets, were provided by the Danish Travel Association of New York. Camping and traveling were the themes of recent adult programs. April 27, 1967, a panel of experienced campers, moderated by Sue McManus, presented “Camping Tips.” May 11, 1967 there was a panel on hints for travelers, and May 18 a travelogue on Germany by Mrs. Julius Hertz, a native of Germany.

Eighteen dogwood trees have been planted at GREENWOOD headquarters of the ABBEVILLE-GREENWOOD Regional Library in memory of Netta Engels. Miss Engels was Children’s Librarian for many years. A small azalea bed and rose bed were planted in memory of Mrs. George Rush, also a Children’s Librarian. A magnolia tree was presented by William John Parks, nurseryman.

The HANAHAN PUBLIC LIBRARY, a branch of the Berkeley County Library, completed two years of successful operation January 18, 1967. Mrs. J. D. Kelly is in charge of the branch. The building was the result of the combined efforts of the builders, merchants, and citizens of the community.

At their February 20th, 1967 meeting HARTSVILLE FRIENDS OF THE LIBRARY heard Senator E. N. Ziegler speak on behalf of the bill to create a permanent Commission on the Arts. He pointed out that the purpose of the bill is to bring more art, theater, music, and dance on all levels of appreciation to more people in the smaller towns of the state. James L. Dunlap was elected President of the Friends group, which is providing framed reproductions of famous works of art to be lent for home use. Stereo phonograph equipment with earphones and a collection of records are being installed in the library by the Group.

HORRY COUNTY MEMORIAL LIBRARY has tentative plans for renovation, with additions, to the present building. The architectural firm of Crowe and Marrs, Myrtle Beach, has drawn plans for the proposed expansion.

The JOHNSTON BRANCH of the ABBE Regional Library reopens February 28, 1967, after being closed since October, 1966, because of fire damage.

The Springs Foundation has pledged $100,000.00 to the LANCASTER COUNTY LIBRARY building fund, provided $25,000.00 is raised by voluntary contributions. The Library Board elected Mrs. Ben C. Hough Chairman of the campaign to raise the $25,000.00. Mrs. Hough has set $50,000.00 as its goal. The Lancaster County Delegation authorized a $150,000.00 bond issue toward financing the building. Since the library is headquarters for a system serving 39,352, it is eligible to receive a LSCA construction grant of $75,000.00 from the S. C. State Library Board. Almost $20,000.00 has been contributed with the Jaycees, Lions, and Rotary Clubs donating $1,000.00 each. H. DeWitt Plyler is Chairman of the Library Board. Thomas W. Thomas and Robert P. Perry are Co-Chairmen of the Building and Planning Committee. Other members are Henry A. Cauthen, R. H. Collins and Elizabeth Wilson.
Several hundred dollars have been contributed to the Janie Bland Roper Memorial Fund for the LAURENS COUNTY LIBRARY. When Mrs. Robert B. Roper, Laurens, died, her family executed her wish for contributions to the library. She had been an ardent supporter of the library. January 6, 1967, the library began its 1967 series of weekly educational films.

Lorena Miller, Librarian, LEXINGTON COUNTY LIBRARY, requested an appropriation of at least $5,000.00 toward the cost of equipping the new Lexington County building. The Delegation voted to assume responsibility for the total cost of equipment — approximately $15,000.00. Public donations and fund raising activities raised most of the construction costs of the $116,000.00 building, which will be dedicated upon delivery and installation of equipment. The new building was nearing completion in February, 1967.

Within the near future the McCormick County Legislative Delegation plans to introduce a bill to legally establish a MCCORMICK COUNTY LIBRARY.

Mrs. George Gibbs McKerral has given a collection of books to the MARION PUBLIC LIBRARY, in memory of her late husband.

The NANCY CARSON BRANCH of the ABBE Regional Library has helped three local students win awards in Science Fairs. Mary Rose won a subscription to a science magazine and a tour of Fort Gordon, Ga., while James Longtin, a grand award winner, received a set of Popular Science Encyclopedias. Patty Gammach won in the primary division of Our Lady of Peace Fair.

The Orangeburg Junior Service League presented a check for $200.00 for the purchase of a projector and screen for the Children's Room to the ORANGEBURG COUNTY FREE LIBRARY.

Mary Aiken, Librarian, and John D. Rogers, Jr., Architect for the remodeling and expansion of the PICKENS COUNTY LIBRARY, spent a day, March 13, 1967, in the office of the S. C. State Library Board examining the collection of furniture and equipment catalogs.

The Rock Hill Herald was cited by the South Carolina Associated Press News Council for its stories leading to the consolidation of libraries in York County. Lt. Governor John West presented the awards in the Council's 1966 Public Service Contest at its winter meeting.

The recognition was for articles by Roland Page and an editorial by Pat J. McDonnell which supported the campaign to establish a unified county library system consolidating the five existing libraries in York County.

Estellene P. Walker, Director, State Library Board, and R. E. Barron, Chairman, York County Library Board, commended the Herald for the skillful, understanding, and intelligent manner in which the proposed unification was presented to the public. Both agreed that the stories, photographs and editorials were telling factors in the success of the campaign and the subsequent unification of the five libraries — (S. C. State Library Board's "News for Public Libraries, March, 1967)

Richland County Public Library's request for a $50,000.00 LSCA construction grant for a branch in the ST. ANDREWS community has been approved. The Richland County Board awarded the contract for the $70,800.00 branch building to the Ideal Construction Company of Columbia. The Branch will represent a population of 5,205 in a rapidly expanding community in Richland and Lexington counties, William J. Keenan, III, is the architect.

Children of the area have contributed $200.00, which was earned at the annual pageant, to the SIMPSONVILLE LIBRARY fund. A campaign to renovate the library, a branch of the Greenville County Library, was conducted on the local level.

Bids on the new SOUTH CAROLINA STATE LIBRARY BOARD Building were opened August 22, 1967. The estimated cost of the 41,000 square foot building is $1,635,000. The four-story building with mezzanine and full basement will house the administrative offices of the Board as well as its extensive reference and interlibrary loan collections. These collections have been housed in three separate locations. When assembled in the new location, they will be fully and conveniently available for the first time for the use by State Government and State agencies. More than 50 per cent of the cost of the building, to be located at Senate and Bull Streets, will be covered by LSCA funds with State funds paying the balance. Geiger, Califf and Player are architects for the building. — (S. C. State Library Board's "News for Public Libraries, August, 1967)

The S. C. STATE LIBRARY BOARD has added to the collection of children's books it placed in the Governor's Mansion in October, 1965. This collection supplements the South Caroliniana made available by the S. C. Federation of Women's Clubs in the Governor's Mansion.

Mrs. Robert E. McNair, wife of the Governor, wrote Miss Walker, State Library Board Director, as follows:

"Thank you for the wonderful collection of children's books for our Governor's Mansion Library. My children were thrilled with them and can't wait to start reading. The books will certainly add to our library and I do appreciate your thinking of us and sending them." —(S. C. Library Board's "News for Public Libraries, April, 1967)
TELY LOVE US IN FLORENCE

(Editor's Note: S. C. State Library Board Leadership)

(We print, with gratitude, the following letter addressed to Miss Estellene P. Walker, SLB Director, from Dr. George C. Smith, Chairman, Florence County Library Board.)

“At its regular meeting on Wednesday, the Board of Trustees of the Florence County Library . . . went on record as expressing appreciation to you, your staff and the State Library Board for the help, both financial and professional, that we have received during the past three years.

“Without your encouragement and the financial aid offered under this program, the Florence Public Library would not have attempted to expand into a county system. The continuing aid and guidance received from you, your staff and particularly Miss Callaham has helped make possible what success we have achieved. We look on Miss Callaham as practically “a member of the Board” and hope that we may count on your continued assistance . . .

“Again, our thanks for all the help and encouragement. We still have a long way to go, but at least we are on the way.” — (S. C. State Library Board’s News for Public Libraries, May, 1967)

The SPARTANBURG COUNTY LIBRARY has employed Hoyt Galvin, Director of the Charlotte-Mecklenburg County Library, to survey the LANDRUM area and make recommendations on the location of a branch to serve the upper section of the county. The SPARTANBURG COUNTY LIBRARY has been designated as a Federal Depository Library.

The name of the Carnegie Public Library of Sumter has been changed to the SUMTER COUNTY LIBRARY by a bill introduced by Senator Richardson.

The Board of the recently established WILLIAMSBURG COUNTY LIBRARY had it organizational meeting June 26, 1967. It was anticipated that the Board would enter negotiations with the Kingstree Library Board requesting the transfer of the Kingstree Library so it would become headquarters of the county system. Members of the Board are: Mrs. C. G. Bass, Claude H. Smith, and Gary Meares, Kingstree; Roy Smiley, Cades; Mrs. Leonard Grossman, Greeleyville; Ector Shepard, Jr. and Hugh M. Dannelly, Lane; Mrs. Helen Hemingway and Mrs. James McPadden, Hemingway.

Saluted by Colonel Anderson, feature writer of the Anderson Daily Mail, were Mrs. Helen Davenport, Librarian of the WILLIAMSTON BRANCH of the Anderson County Library, the County Library Board, and the officials of the town of Williamston for the cooperation which resulted in a new library building. The Cushman Mill, a division of Deering Milliken, contributed $8,000.00 to the building fund of the WILLIAMSTON BRANCH of the Anderson County Library. The company had previously contributed $2,000.00.

The McCluney Construction Company, Gaffney, S. C., was awarded the contract for the construction of the YORK BRANCH of the York County Library. The building, which will cost $70,120.00, was made possible by a campaign for additional funds in a public drive ($13,924), headed by Julian Dickerson. Equipment costs will total about $13,000.00. It will be financed by local funds, of which $19,000.00 was available before the drive. The successful campaign caused YORK to qualify for a $50,000.00 LSCA grant from the S. C. State Library Board, Sadler and Kent, Rock Hill, are architects for the building. The YORK COUNTY LIBRARY BOARD has awarded the contract for a new Bookmobile to the Gerstenslager Company.

In 1904 he donated the “People’s Free Library of South Carolina” to Lowrys. He built a small building and over the years purchased a total of 1381 books. In addition he subscribed to the top magazines of the day. Dr. Fitzgerald also employed a librarian and was responsible for the maintenance of the building.

In order to make the books more widely available, Dr. Fitzgerald had 22 strong cabinets, which held several dozen books each constructed. A man was hired to circulate the boxes of books once a month by horse and buggy. There were 22 stops throughout the county.

The library building was closed for some years but operated as a branch of the Chester County Library, 1948-54. The books were transferred to the Chester County Library where many of them remain today — S. C. State Library Board’s News for Public Libraries, May, 1967)

FROM ALA PUBLIC RELATIONS OFFICE, APRIL 28, 1967

The American Association of School Librarians’ Committee on Improvement of School Library Programs appointed an ad hoc committee to survey and update the American Library Association’s collection of school library guides, manuals, and handbooks for students and/or teachers. The collection is used by ALA staff and through interlibrary loan, by school librarians and others.

The guides, manuals and handbooks will be placed in the ALA Headquarters Library.
