ILL CODE REVISION COMPLETED

SCLA President Gerda Belknap reports that the Ad Hoc ILL Revision Committee has completed its work on the ILL code for South Carolina. The revised code will be presented and voted upon by SCLA membership at the Association's business meeting on October 9, 1982. The revision restates the existing code using language from the new National Code and the Model for States, which were released by ALA in 1980.

Although the revised South Carolina Code makes few major changes in the code, it does take into consideration such recent developments as the new Copyright Act. The Ad Hoc Committee made no attempt to solve the question of protocols, though, which are outlined in the final page of the old code, "Recommended channels for interlibrary lending in South Carolina." The Committee expressed the consensus that forthcoming developments would quickly make any systems of protocols obsolete. The Committee did recommend, though, that a special committee be appointed next year with the specific responsibility of developing new protocols.

SOUTH CAROLINA LIBRARIANS ELECTED

Voting at the annual SOLINET membership meeting in May resulted in the election of two South Carolinians to SOLINET offices. Kenneth Toombs, Director of the University of South Carolina Libraries, was elected to a three-year term on SOLINET's Board of Directors. South Carolina State Librarian Betty Callaham was elected to the SOLINET delegation to the OCLC Users Council for a two-year term. Mr. Toombs and Ms. Callaham join two other South Carolinians who presently serve in Network positions. Shirley Tarlton, Winthrop College Library Director, currently serves on the OCLC Users Council, and Joe Boykin, Clemson University Library Director, serves on the OCLC Board of Trustees.

Dr. William F. Summers, Dean of the College of Librarianship at USC, was elected to the American Library Association's Executive Board at ALA's Midwinter meeting. Dr. Summers is immediate past president of SCLA, and also serves on ALA's Committee on Program Evaluation and Support (COPES).

STATE DOCUMENTS DEPOSITORY PROGRAM MOVES ON

SC State Library Documents Librarian Mary Toll reports good attendance at June 17th's meeting on regional depositories for state documents. "We handed out applications and agreements to libraries that are interested in becoming regional depositories, and discussed some of the ramifications of becoming a depository," said Ms. Toll. "We had representatives from all but two of the ten planning districts of the state. The only problem areas are the Low Country and the Santee/Lynch regions: we haven't yet been able to identify potential depositories there." Legislation establishing the State Library as the central depository for state documents calls for a system of regional sub-depositories, one in each planning district.
Plans for the 56th Annual Convention of SCLA are taking shape. Banquet speaker E. N. (Nick) Zeigler promises a speech "like we've never heard." Luncheon speaker Wilma Dykeman, author and humanitarian, brings a wealth of knowledge and experience. Ms. Dykeman writes of the Appalachian South and explores such themes as women's role, and the interconnectedness of blacks and whites. She has written novels, biographies, histories and regional landscapes and is presently at work on a book set in South Carolina. She and her husband received the Hillman Award for their contributions to race relations.

Sections and Roundtables are planning programs for the October meeting. Topics already planned include "Networking in South Carolina" (Technical Services Section), "Output Measures for Public Libraries" (Public Library Section), "Threats to Freedom" (GODORT, Archives and Special Collections Roundtable), "What It takes to be a Newbery-Caldecott Winner" (Children, Young People, and School Section), "In-House Staff Development" (College and University and Library Administration Section), "Professional Burnout and Stress" (Two Year Section) "Educating Users-Terminal Catalogs" (Public Services).

Dr. Eben Taylor will speak at the First General Session Thursday afternoon and Dr. James Gettys will speak Saturday morning at the Second General Session. Following Dr. Gettys' speech, Dr. Dan Barron, Chairman of the Intellectual Freedom Committee SCLA and members of the Committee will discuss "What you can do before and after the censor arrives."

Convention Reception will be held Thursday evening at the McKissick Museum, University of South Carolina.

RESIGNATION

Carol Cook Duggan has resigned from her position as Chief, Adult Services at Richland County Public Library, and from her SCLA office as ALA Councilor. A special election will be held to fill her unexpired term as Councilor.
SCLA President Gerda Belknap, in announcing Ms. Duggan's resignation said, "Due to time limitations, it will not be possible to nominate and elect a new Councilor before the ALA Conference. Under ALA's new policy, I have asked Betty Callaham, Immediate Past ALA Councilor, to serve as Interim Councilor until a new Councilor is elected." Ms. Callaham has accepted the appointment.

The ALA Councilor is elected by the members of SCLA who belong to ALA.

SCLA SECTIONS TO RECOMBINE

Section chairpersons Cate Townsend (School Section) and Ginger Shuler (Children and Young People Section) announce that balloting indicates no objection to the rejoining of the two SCLA groups. The only problem remaining before the unification of the sections as a name acceptable to both.

"Balloting was light," reports Ms. Shuler. "We had to assume that 'silence is consent'"

SPECIAL LIBRARIES DIRECTORY ON THE WAY

Special Libraries Section Chairperson Erminia Knauer reports that the new directory of special libraries in South Carolina is near completion and should be ready for distribution by the next SCLA Executive Board meeting. Ms. Knauer reported that the compilation of the directory produced an unexpected side benefit: in making inquiries about additional special libraries to be contacted the section enlisted a number of new members.

HAVE YOU HUGGED YOUR SCLA MEMBERSHIP CARD TODAY?

Think of what it does for you:

--Proves your membership in South Carolina's leading professional organization for librarians from all kinds of libraries.

--Gives you the opportunity for professional contacts with people who know your state, regional and local circumstances.

If you haven't renewed your membership you haven't got a membership card to hug. (The old ones don't count. They're dead and can't hug back.)
Renew today! Join the 602 others (as of June 30) around the state who know what it means to be able to say, "I love my card!"

SCLA INFO PACKET AVAILABLE

Chairman Patricia Bradley reports that JMRT's Publicity Director, Donna Tolar, has prepared an information packet about each of the sections and round tables of SCLA. The packet, which consists of one-page summaries of each of the sections and round tables, supports JMRT's primary purpose of introducing library science students and professionals to SCLA. For more information about the packet, contact Patricia Bradley at Midlands TEC, Airport Campus Library, Columbia, SC 29202.

MICROS IN SOUTH CAROLINA LIBRARIES

The University of South Carolina College of Librarianship and Newberry College's Wessels Library join Cherokee County Public Library in the growing list of library-related installations of microcomputers. And, according to late news, Richland County Public Library will soon join that list. CCPL Director David Eden reports good progress in converting the library's activities to a microcomputer-based operation, beginning with the library's business functions and now circulation. Although the circulation activities are based on a very truncated record and certain data must be manually keyed into the system, Director Eden reports, "It meets our needs, and it's definitely a lot better than what we had." Commenting on public expectations of the system, Eden said, "People are a little surprised that it's not as quick as they expected. I guess when they hear 'computer' they expect everything to be done 'zip-quick'. No, the check-out is not quite as quick, but all the back-up activities are a lot quicker and much more accurate than they have been in the past." CCPL's installation of the computer system was funded by donations from local industries, and virtually no budgeted funds were used for the project. The system is built around an Industrial Micro System 8000 central processing unit with three floppy disk drives to give the operation 128K of storage capacity. CCPL now has two terminals on the system, one of which remains at the circulation desk and the other moves between circulation, "the back offices", and "wherever else it's needed." Programming for the system was done by a local professional programmer in COBOL language.

USC's College of Librarianship recently took possession of two identical systems, each consisting of an Apple II backed up by two floppy disk drives and a Corvus 20-megabyte hard disk. College faculty members Dan Barron and Chris Billinsky are working with the systems "to find out just what can be done with a micro," according to Prof. Barron. "We don't really have a specific application in mind," he said, "other than to experiment and to familiarize our students with what will probably become a common tool of librarianship." A commercially-produced program package know as "dBase II" is being used to organize and control the databases in the system.
Newberry College's Wessels Library is using a system identical to those purchase by the College of Librarianship with the addition of a Qume Daisy-Wheel Printer. Rather than experimentation, though, Wessels Library has as its goal the application of the microcomputer to specific activities. Student Services Librarian Arie Koelewyn, who is working on a master's degree in Computer Science at USC, reports that the first major project will be the conversion of acquisitions to the computer. "We have a lot of manual files that require considerable time to maintain," he reports. "And, too, we have to spend a lot of time just keeping track of the budget. We hope that we can build a system that will remove a lot of the manual work from those activities and allow us to report much more quickly and frequently." Later projects, he said, will include serials control and possibly circulation. "But we want to solve one problem at a time," he added. "We'll move on to the next project when we get the first under control."

Richland County Public Library will be the recipient of a grant through LSCA to help speed up the retrospective conversion of their catalog to machine-readable records. Part of the grant is to be used to purchase and install a microcomputer system in the Technical Services Department. Linda Allman, Head of Technical Services for RCPL, said, "We already have two SOLINET terminals, and the micro system will take the place of a badly-needed third terminal. We just didn't feel that we could wait for a third terminal, when newcomers into the network are waiting six months to a year for their first." The use of a micro system as an OCLC terminal is a little unusual but not totally unknown. "In fact," said Ms. Allman, "what's making it possible for us is that a community college library in Massachusetts has been doing that for some time now. They've developed a program that will allow their micro to talk to OCLC's machinery, and we'll be installing that program in our micro as part of the project."

Although not widely seen in libraries at present, microcomputers are showing up more and more as hardware and software develop. A publication from the Graduate Library School at the University of Arizona, Small Computers in Libraries, tracks the development of micros in libraries and serves as somewhat of a clearinghouse for new information on library applications for micros. SCIL is written in nontechnical terms, and any librarian with an interest in library applications of microcomputers should find it useful.

CALENDAR

July 30: SCLA Executive Board Meeting. Richland County Public Library, 11:00 a.m.

September 10, 1982: Workshop on Inferential Statistics. Designed to enable participants to analyze data in making a variety of decisions or in carrying out small research projects. The Program is intended for persons with no advanced mathematical skills. Battery-operated calculator should be brought to the workshop. Topics to be covered include an overview of the role played by sampling and by descriptive statistics, detailed coverage of basic tests used in inferential statistics, and an opportunity for participants to gain experience in calculating statistics. Instructors: Drs. Doll and Williams, College of Librarianship, USC. Location: College of Librarianship, USC. Time: 9:30 a.m. to 3:30 p.m. Cost: $27.00

September 23, 1982: South Carolina State Library Board Meeting. State Library, 12N.

October 14-16, 1982: Medical Library Association, Southern Chapter Annual Meeting. Charleston, Mills House Hotel. For more information, contact A. Kabler, Medical University of South Carolina Library, 792-2371.
November 1-3, 1984. Carolina Inn, Columbia

ELIZABETH W. STONE, ALA President writes to SCLA of the need for contributions to the Fifty East Huron Fund. "Inflation took the final costs for completing the building project above the initial estimates. We--the members of ALA who will benefit from the new building--must raise $250,000.00 by September 1, 1982, to avoid the penalty of a long-term loan at a high interest rate." Contributions should be sent to ALA, ATTN: Fifty East Huron Fund, 50 East Huron Street, Chicago, IL 60611.

Past SCLA President MARTY PAUTZ is retiring as Dean of Learning Resources at Greenville Technical College as of June 30, 1982. Marty completes a full and active second career as a librarian, having served 25 years in the U. S. Air Force before entering the library profession. A graduate of UNC-Chapel Hill School of Library Science, Marty has been with Greenville TEC for some 14 years. We asked Marty what his plans are: "They're kind of indeterminate right now. Mainly, relaxation." Marty says he will probably remain in the Greenville area, "At least for the immediate future." He said he also plans to remain fairly active in SCLA.

HELEN ANN RAWLINSON has been appointed Chief, Adult Services at Richland County Public Library, to replace Carol Cook Duggan. Ms. Rawlinson was formerly Senior Adult Services Library and Children's Room Librarian at RCPL. She received her MLS from Emory University and her undergraduate degree from the University of South Carolina.

LEROY GATTIN has left his position as Deputy Director of Richland County Public Library to accept an appointment as Director of a regional library system in Hutchison, Kansas.

CARMEN CUMMINGS, Chair of SCLA's Two-Year College Section and Librarian at USC-Union is recovering at home from surgery.

HELEN IVY, is a new member of the Reference Department at the College of Charleston's Robert Scott Small Library.

SCOTT KANTOR leaves the Directorship of the Aiken County Library on June 30.

ALAN M. GREENBERG, Monographs Cataloger at Winthrop College's Dacus Library, has been promoted to Head of the Catalog Department at that library. CAROLE R. MCIVER will move to the position of Head of the Technical Services Department.

On July 1, JANE MCGREGOR is the new Children's Coordinator at the Florence County Library.

From Rock Hill comes word that ANN SCOTT TERRY, York County Library's Community Services Library, has been elected to the Rock Hill Arts Council's Board of Directors. Also, DIANE WILLIAMS, Extension Services Librarian at York County Library, was selected Young Careerist for 1982 by the Rock Hill Chapter of the Business and Professional Women's Club.

Free copies of "Automated circulation: a selected annotated bibliography," which was distributed at the TOLS (Technical On-Line Services) Users Interest Group workshop on June 3, 1982, are still available to interested parties. Request "Automated circulation..."

RETIRED RECENTLY? OR RETIRING SOON?

The South Carolina Library Association awards Honorary Life Membership to SCLA members who retire and who have maintained an active, paid membership in the Association for a period of ten (10) years consecutively prior to retirement.

If you personally are one, or know of someone, who has retired or will retire this year please notify either SCLA President Gerda Belknap or SCLA Executive Secretary Lou Whitmore (phone Edisto Island 869-2256). This information will help in gathering names for the Honorary Life Members who will be inducted this year at the Annual Convention. Lou Whitmore's address is: P.O. Box 25, Edisto Island, SC 29438.
