2012

Contents
CONTENTS

A Note from the Founding Editor v
G. Ross Roy

Preface: Studies in Scottish Literature, new series: print and digital vii
Patrick Scott and Tony Jarrells

SYMPOSIUM
The Present State and Future(s) of Scottish Literary Studies 3
Tony Jarrells and Patrick Scott

Setting a Stoot Hert tae a Stey Brae: Fifty Years of the Study of Scottish Literature, 1962-2012 6
Murray Pittock, University of Glasgow

Rejecting Inferiorism and Superiorism: Normalizing Scottish Literary Studies in the Early Twenty-First Century 13
Gerard Carruthers, University of Glasgow

Scottish Literature and “Engl. Lit.” 20
Leith Davis, Simon Fraser University

In Defense of Inferiorism (and Other Lost Causes) 28
Matthew Wickman, Brigham Young University

On the Abolition of the Scottish Department 35
Willy Maley, University of Glasgow
Digital Scotlands 41
Caroline McCracken-Flesher, University of Wyoming

ARTICLES
‘Where stand we now?’: A Renaissance View 51
R.D.S. Jack, University of Edinburgh

The Printed Record of an Oral Tradition: Anna Gordon Brown’s Ballads 71
Ruth Perry, MIT

Robert Burns, the Crochallan Fencibles, and the Original Printer of The Merry Muses of Caledonia 92
Stephen Brown, Trent University

Transnational Balladeering: ‘Scots, wha hae wi Wallace bled’ in 1820s Afro-New York 108
Marvin McAllister, University of South Carolina

Writer, Reader, and Rhetoric in John Gibson Lockhart’s Memoirs of the Life of Walter Scott, Bart. 119
Gerald P. Mulderig, DePaul University

NOTES & DOCUMENTS
‘The Poet’s Welcome’: An Unrecorded Robert Burns Manuscript 141
G. Ross Roy and Patrick Scott, University of South Carolina

An Unrecorded Early Printing of Robert Burns’s Patriarch Letter 147
Patrick Scott, University of South Carolina

BOOKS RECEIVED 151
John Knox and Patrick Scott, University of South Carolina

CONTRIBUTORS 158