CONTRIBUTORS TO THIS ISSUE

James ANDERSON: Is a Scottish schoolmaster in Edinburgh. He was awarded the Ph.D. at Edinburgh University in 1965 with a thesis "Sir Walter Scott and History," which gained him the Hume Brown Senior Prize in Scottish History. During the academic year 1965-1966 he held a Carnegie Fellowship for study of the Scottish historians after Scott.

David MACAREE: Is Assistant Professor at the University of British Columbia. He has an M.A. from Glasgow University and a Ph.D. from the University of Washington. His main interest is the literature of the Eighteenth Century.

Bernard Elliot ROLLIN: Is a Lecturer in philosophy at the City University of New York. He received the B.A. magna cum laude from the City College of New York. In 1964-65 he was a Fulbright Fellow in the Department of Logic and Metaphysics at the University of Edinburgh, doing work on Hume and the Scottish Common Sense philosophers. During 1965-66 he was a Woodrow Wilson Fellow at Columbia University, where he is a candidate for the doctorate in philosophy.

Ian Cumming WALKER: Was educated at Brechin High School and St. Andrews University. Awarded the Ph.D. (St. Andrews) for thesis on Ruddiman's Weekly Magazine (Edinburgh 1768-1784). Formerly Assistant Lecturer in English at Aberdeen University, now teaching English and Liberal Studies at Elmwood Technical College, Cupar, Fife.
